Prizes for the meet were given by the Daily Press and other papers.

Exceedingly good time was made in the 440 and 880-yard runs, and an unusually good height was reached in the pole vault.

Paul Collier was unable to enter anything after the shot put because of stepping on a nail and cutting a big gash in his foot.

The officials were: Referee—Mr. Best. Starter—Howard Craig. Timer—Dewe Smalley. Judge—Charles A. Boardman, physical director of the Y. M. C. A.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Under the auspices of the Mission Study Class of the Congregational church a meeting will be held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Van Alstyne, 730 Watchung avenue.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3:45 o'clock. Rev. C. L. Goodrich will attend and make a short address.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the First M. E. church met in Vincent chapel, yesterday afternoon and discussed the subject of "Women's Work for Women in Japan."

The Men's Club of the First Presbyterian church will meet tonight after the prayer meeting, for the election of officers and transaction of other business in preparation for the winter's programme.

Metropolitan Preachers.

A series of sermons by metropolitan preachers will be given soon in All Souls' church, Park avenue, near Seventh street. The course will be opened Sunday evening, November 5, by Rev. Dr. Minot Judson Savage, of the Church of the Messiah, New York. The other ministers to speak on the successive Sunday evenings will be announced later. The great favor with which Dr. Savage was received when last in this city, it is believed, will make him doubly welcome now.

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF.

Which is Better — Try An Experiment or Profit by a Plainfield Citizen's Experience.

Something new is an experiment.

Must be proved to be as represented.

The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing proof of merit.

But the endorsement of friends is.

Now supposing you had a bad back,

A Lame, Weak or Aching one,

Would you experiment on it?

You will read of many so-called cures.

Endorsed by strangers from far-away places.

It's different when the endorsement comes from home.

Easy to prove local testimony.

Home endorsement is the proof that backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Read this case:

Mrs. Julia Molloy, of 740 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Many so-called cures for backache and kidney disease have been taken by me, but no medicine ever stopped my aches and pains until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's pharmacy. I took the pills according to directions, and found before finishing the first box that they were far more healing and brought even more relief from backache than their owners claim for them. I continued with the treatment and was cured, and now do not suffer from aches or pains or kidney troubles."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., will have several matters of importance to discuss at the meeting tonight.

The entered apprentice degree was conferred upon two candidates at the regular communication of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., last night.

GRIGGS ON EMERSON.

Fifth of the "Moral Leaders" Lectures at Vincent Chapel.

As pleasing as ever, Prof. Griggs gave his fifth lecture in the moral leaders series at Vincent chapel last night. Emerson was his subject.

Prof. Griggs' appreciation of the philosopher was sympathetic and brilliant. It was enjoyed by an audience that was no smaller than usual in spite of the wet streets and drizzling rain.

The lecturer dwelt on Emerson's liberality of mind. Like Socrates, Emerson was an unofficial public servant, and as self-sacrificing in his self-appointed task.

Next Tuesday Prof. Griggs will close his series with Tolstoi as his subject. It will be interesting to note his views on contemporaneous moral and philosophic thought.

P. O. INSPECTOR HERE.

Visits Postoffice and Rural Delivery Routes.

Postoffice Inspector William J. Mehary has been in this city during the past two days making a thorough inspection of the local postoffice and the rural free delivery routes. It is just a year since the postoffice was checked up and an inspection made and Mr. Mehary reports conditions to be entirely satisfactory.

After completing the work at the postoffice, he made a trip over the free delivery routes and found conditions to be equally satisfactory. He complimented Postmaster Bird for the excellent showing of the office and the various reports compiled by the clerks.

In the City Court.

In the city court, this morning, Foster Sprague, arrested for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, was fined $3. Michael Thornton, of nowhere in particular, charged with vagrancy, was given thirty days straight.

45 YEARS ESTABLISHED.

Scheuer & Sons Celebrate Anniversary Today.

Today S. Scheuer & Sons, the well known grocers, are celebrating the forty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the business in New Jersey, and it marks an important epoch in the history of this firm. It was just forty-five years ago that Simon Scheuer opened a small store in the Kremlin building, Newark, and from that small beginning the firm today has thirty stores throughout New Jersey, including the one in this city conducted by S. Scheuer & Co., and of which Moses Schloss is the manager.

There are seven stores in Newark, one each in Orange, South Orange, Summit, Bloomfield, Harrison, Hackensack, Easton, Pa., Wilmington, Del., Worcester, Mass., New Brunswick, Somerville and Plainfield. The firm has built up this enormous trade on the principles of fair dealing and the fact that if any purchase was not satisfactory money would be refunded.

It was ten years ago that the local store was opened in the Martine building on West Front street. The business increased to such an extent that a few years later the building now occupied by the firm was purchased and possession taken two years ago. The firm has one of the best grocery and meat markets in the State and enjoys the confidence of the public.

Nugent Here Tomorrow.

Edward Nugent, Democratic candidate for State Senator, will be in town tomorrow, and at noon will speak to the men employed in the Pond Tool Works. Mr. Nugent will speak from an improvised platform in South Second street, at the entrance to the shops, and will briefly explain his position on the important issues of the campaign. It is possible he will also speak at a noonday meeting near the Potter Press Company's works.

—Daily Press want ads. pay.

—More than likely yours eyes are the cause of your headache. Consult Stiles & Co., eye specialists, at 105 East Front street, tomrrow, Thursday. Free examination.

Warning to Public.

Residents of Plainfield are warned to exercise the greatest precaution in keeping their doors carefully bolted and barred. This is the season of the year when "second story men" are active and carelessness might result in a loss of property. The police should be at once notified if suspicious characters are seen loitering about houses.

KISSED HER TOO MUCH.

Jersey City Girl Has Her Ardent Lover Haled to Court.

Jersey City, Oct. 25.—Because she had been kissed too often, Mary Chasinsky, a maid in the employ of Mrs. Meisch, of Secaucus, summoned Wadiso Baroughsky, a former employe in the Meisch family, before Justice Manning yesterday, charging him was assault and battery.

The girl said the man had been paying attentions to her for about a year. After he was discharged a week ago he often met her on the roads and kissed her.

"Why, he would kiss me so often as 100 times a day, and his rough beard made my lips sore," she said. "My dinners were often delayed and the cooking would be spoiled by him annoying me while I was in the kitchen."

Fred Stohr, representing Baroughsky, said he thought his client was insanely in love with the girl, and could not see any harm in kissing her. He obtained a postponement of the case until Monday.

SLAYER'S SENTENCE DEFERRED

Italian Who Killed a Man Pleads Guilty to Murder.

Hackensack, Oct. 25.—Henry Generali, who shot and killed Ferdinando Mansero, at Fort Lee, retracted his plea of not guilty of murder in the first degree before Justice Garrison here yesterday, and entered a plea of guilty in the second degree. The justice and Prosecutor Koester signified their willingness to accept the plea, and the former deferred sentence until Saturday. Generali's lawyer made a plea for clemency.

Mansero, as told at the time, was shot while trying to intervene in a quarrel between Generali and Luigi Gianziano, who, it is said, were rivals for the affections of Jennie Colosanto. The story goes that Gianziano had threatened Generali and the latter, in order to protect himself, bought a revolver. The rivals met in the street one day, and Generali fired at Gianziano, when, it is said, the latter made a motion toward his hip pocket. The bullet, however, struck and killed Mansero.

$122,178 FOR PRINCETON.

$25,000 of It Given to Establish the Orange Scholarship.

Princeton, Oct. 25.—At the commemoration meeting of the Trustees of Princeton University Saturday gifts to the amount of $97,178 that have come to the university since commencement were accepted. In addition to this $25,000 was received from the Princeton Alumni Association of the Oranges to establish the Orange Scholarship. P. S. Bennett, of New Haven, gave $400 to establish the Bennett Prize in political economy.

Warren Elsing, 1908, of Brooklyn, was selected as the winner of the Stennecke Scholarship, which is the largest prize open to an undergraduate. It pays $500 a year for three years. James H. Jeams, lecturer at Cambridge, was made Professor of Applied Mathematics. The resignation of W. A. Packard, Professor of Latin Language and Literature, was accepted, and he was made a professor emeritus.

PORTO RICO MISGOVERNED.

U. S. Sent Cheap Politicians There to Conduct Affairs.

Bishop Van Buren, of Porto Rico, preached Sunday in St. Mark's Episcopal church, West Orange, on social and political conditions in the island. He told of the great improvements worked under our administration in Porto Rico, but complained that the United States Government had been sending a poor class of administrative officers there.

He declared the people of Porto Rico were tiring of what he called the manufacture of "cheap politicians for export trade," and declared his people would be better satisfied with the kind of government Cuba was getting. The bishop reviewed the situation very thoroughly and was listened to with close attention.

ATTACKED AT NIGHT, MAY DIE.

Aid Comes After Briggs is Hurt by Highwaymen.

George Briggs is hovering between life and death at his home in Paterson, as the result of an attack made upon him a few nights ago in Hohokus. He was struck many times on the head, arms and body, with a blunt instrument. His skull was fractured, his left wrist and several bones in his right hand were broken and he sustained contusions about the body.

Briggs was returning home from business when he was attacked. His cries were heard by several persons who ran to his aid before the highwaymen could rob him.

Dowie Is Still Ill.

Tampico, Mex., Oct. 25.—Dr. John Alexander Dowie, who styles himself the Prophet of Zion, has been here for several days, unable in his present weak physical condition to continue his journey to the site of his proposed Zion City, about one hundred miles northwest of here. He has turned over all the cares of his business and religious affairs to subordinate officers who are with him. He is recovering from a second stroke of paralysis.

Mrs. W. S. Bullock, of East Second street, has recovered from a recent severe illness.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

LOVELY WOMAN.

The Spanish rhyme has it: "Were a woman as little as she is good, a pea pod would make her a gown and a hood."

An old English saying: "If a man lose a woman and a farthing, he will be sorry he lost the farthing."

The French adage: "A man of straw is worth a woman of gold."

The German: "There are only two good women in the world—one dead and the other can't be found."

The Scotch say: "Honest men marry soon; wise men never."

In Fife they say: "The next best thing to no wife is a good wife."

The Arabain declares: "Words are women; deeds are men."

The Persian sage says that a woman's wisdom is under her heel.

The German affirms that every daughter of Eve would rather be beautiful than good.

The Persian asserts that women and dragons are best out of the world.

The Corsican says: "Just as a good and a bad horse both need the spur, a good and a bad woman both need the stick."

The Hindu: "A man is not obeyed by his wife in his own house, nor does she consider him her husband unless he beats her." Another Hindu proverb says: "Drive out a woman's nature with a pitchfork and it will return again and again."

The Iron Brigade

A Story of the Army of the Potomac

By GEN. CHARLES KING

Author of "Norman Holt," "The Colonel's Daughter," "Fort Frayne," Etc.

Copyright, 1902, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

"I have a confession to make, Mr. Benton," said she, at length. "Do you think—it's easy for a girl to say—she's glad to find that she was wrong?"

"Something has seemed to me very wrong of late," answered Benton, "so much so I was glad to get away on any terms, even to Libby. For what have I been punished?"

"I shall tell you—frankly," she answered, standing with downcast eyes before him, her white hands loosely clasping. "Do you know, I thought—I heard—that you were plotting with people outside to escape, and, father being responsible for you, it seemed ungrateful—indeed dishonorable——"

"But what on earth have I said or done to warrant the belief? I have talked with no one, communicated with no one, except that, after I had noted your cold and distant manner, there came this little unsigned note, saying that I was to be sent to Richmond. I have never answered it. I haven't an idea who sent it."

"But the note——" and now she looked up eagerly, "you have it—still?"

"Burned it to ashes the hour it came!" he answered.

"But you saw who brought it—or who left it?"

"I saw—" he impulsively began, then stopped short. What right had he, a union soldier, to give information against some possible union lover in their midst, one who was seeking to be of service to him at that?

"Oh, you needn't say!" cried Miss Chilton, with a curl of her lip. "We know—at least I know—the girl! What we heard, or at least I heard, a week ago was that you—that they, that—oh, I can't explain—I can't go on!" she said, and now burning blushes, to his amaze, suffused her face and she covered it with her hands.

Then voices were heard below stairs—the doctor showing the major from Jack's room to the door, ceremonious and courtly even when aggrieved.

"He will wish to see me—perhaps you, too—at once," suddenly exclaimed Miss Chilton, starting impulsively forward. "I just want to know that—that what I now believe is true, and to be able to say so confidently to father and perhaps to—to others. You had not thought of trying to escape so long as you were with us?" And for an instant the dark, glorious eyes looked full into his face, then fell before the intensity of his.

"On my word, Miss Chilton—no!"

"Then—then," she vehemently cried, "I don't care how soon you do try—now!" and with that she darted past him to her own room and presently the doctor's slow step was heard ascending the stairs.

It was late that night and the moon had dipped beyond the Blue Ridge when, after a family talk in Jack's room, they separated. Not another chance had Benton to speak to Rosalie, but for good and sufficient reason he had found her actions of most unusual interest. Pale and silent, absorbed in thought, she had taken little part in the conference. Twice she stole softly to the window, drew aside the curtain and peered through the outer darkness; then, while her father was earnestly talking, she seated herself close to the curtains, and Benton, watching her with devouring eyes, saw that she was listening intently for sounds, signals, something from without and paying little heed to what was said within. Then, he could not be mistaken, there came a low tap, tap on the pane. Rosalie quickly, silently drew the shade aside enough to enable her to give one answering tap, and a moment later she stole quietly out of the room, while the doctor was still talking, and, when she returned nearly half an hour later, there were drops of water on her rippling hair.

By this time between the Chiltons, father and son, it had been determined that every influence should at once be brought to bear at Richmond to bring about Benton's exchange—Fred himself agreeing to write urgent letters to friends in front of Washington. Already quite a number of officers and men had been returned from Libby, the first small boat-load having gone to the capital and been welcomed by the president himself before the winter's snows were swept entirely from the Virginia mountains. "Just one thing I fear," said the doctor, "that the same influence that dogged you here and led to the order for your delivery there, may pursue you at Richmond."

"And will you tell me what that is and why it should be so bitter?" asked Benton.

The doctor glanced uncertainly at the thinned face, flushing faintly even through the pallor of this long confinement, then turned to Rosalie. Quickly she again left her chair, hurried to the window and threw open the curtain as though to look forth into the night where all was apparently dark as Erebus.

"It is a family—ish sub. I hardly understand it myself. But I'm bound to say that Maj. Lounsberry has forfeited any claim he may have had upon my friendship. Now I must look to that bandage again before you retiah, suh." And thus closed the conference.

Not half an hour later young Pomp was nervously fidgeting about the room, on the customary plea of helping Marse Benton undress, when he rolled his big eyes thrice to the west window and finally said, with a chuckle:

"Marse Jack never thought nuthin' of swingin' out of that window when dis was his room 'for' de wah."

"Rather a high jump for a heavy man," suggested Benton, wondering to what this conversation might lead.

"Lawd, Marse Benton, you done fo'got de lightnin' rawd!"

Stepping to the window the lieutenant peered forth into the moist and windy night. Putting forth his hand he could feel, just to the left of the window, the stout, thick iron rod that Pomp had described.

Slowly, thoughtfully he closed the shade and returned to the dressing-table where stood the single candle. Pomp had vanished, but there, pinned to the cushion was the mate to the strange little billet he had found at the gate. Even the handwriting was the same:

"Horses, guide and everything you need waiting back of the barn. Lose not a moment! Choose between the mountains for a day or two or Libby for the rest of the war. Burn this, too."

Have you put in your winter supply of coal yet? If not, let TenEyck & Harris, of West Front street, take your order at once.

The kind of insurance that Harry G. Adams sells will bear the closest investigation, and he would like to talk to you about it.

I. Shrager, of Madison avenue, makes a specialty of cleaning, pressing and general tailoring work. He asks a trial to show his ability.

For the best carpentering work, consult William H. Kirch, of Duer street. He has had wide experience in building all kinds of structures.

Dudley Miller, the Park avenue druggist, is agent for the famous "Belle Mead Sweets," a fine confection. He also sells the best drugs and medicines.

Frank Neidig, proprietor of the Lincoln market, Somerset and Race streets, makes a specialty of fresh Jersey sausage. What is nicer for freakfast on these sharp, October mornings?

When you trade with Charles E. Vail, the Park avenue jeweler, you do not get that cheap trash which so often is sold for the real goods. You will always get full value and guaranteed goods.

B. J. Schreiner's pharmacy at Second street and Park avenue is noted for fine prescription work. This department is a feature. Mr. Schreiner exercises personal supervision and only experienced clerks are employed.

The Dime Savings Institution is one of the best banking institutions in the State. Liberal interest is paid on all deposits and every depositor knows that his or her money is safe. Open an account now and save your money.

VanCamp & Franklin, at Front and Somerset streets, have some splendid new carpets they are showing at present. They quote low prices on them all. This firm also deals in rugs, mattings, shades and all fixtures.

S. Scheuer & Co., the West Front street grocers and butchers, handle only the one grade of groceries and meats. The firm does not resort to various tricks to increase its trade, preferring to continue in the way in which it started, whereby it has won a great reputation for fair dealing and honest methods. You always get what you order and there is but the one price.

People who use canned goods and have never purchased the celebrated White Label brand are missing a treat. They are the recognized leaders in the market and their popularity continues to increase year after year. The White Label goods are sold in Plainfield by Neuman Brothers and they guarantee them personally. They quote special prices on lots of a dozen cans or more.

Scheuer's 45th Anniversary Sale

45 YEARS OF STEADY, UNINTERRUPTED SUCCESS——A MAGNIFICENT RECORD!

NONE BUT PUREST, FRESHEST, BEST, WHOLESOME FOODS!

Way back in 1860, the first Scheuer Store was planted! Today it's reached a marvelous growth: in place of one, there are over thirty go ahead Scheuer Stores throughout this and other States, representing one of the greatest retail grocery enterprises in America today! Success like this is no "mystery" but the outcome of popular liberal common sense methods applied to fit the needs and purses of the people.

1st—Scheuer's have always run cash stores! There are no costly "credit losses" to be charged up to cash patrons! 2d—Scheuer's always buys direct from grower and producer. No middle profit for us to pay or charge for! 3d—Scheuer's ways are so straight, and prices are so clearly marked that a youngster can buy with same safety as a grown-up! 4th—Scheuer's generosity in giving away the valuable Red Star Stamps as premiums for cash trade has never been equaled! 5th—"Small Profits, Quick Sales," our motto ever since we started! And now we're "celebrating" all this success with the most remarkable commotion in price cutting on famous and worthy goods that ever touched town, a sale you'll long remember as the sensation of the year! Come, look, buy—and big savings will be yours!

There will be a weekly dinner dance at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday night.

The weekly competition for the president's and Park Golf Club trophies will be concluded about November 1, when the winner will be announced.

The final play for the golf committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club will be on Saturday. From present indications it looks as though E. B. Shoemaker will be the winner. He now has fifteen points in the lead for the competition, and C. B. Morgan is second.

The season at the Westfield Golf Club will remain open as long as the weather remains favorable, and several attractive events have been arranged for during the fall season. On Saturday night, November 11, there will be a beefsteak dinner, "stag," and on Saturday night, November 29, Thanksgiving eve, there will be a "children's party."

BASKET BALL.

The Hope chapel boys' baketball team is now fully organized and wishes games with teams averaging sixteen years. Communications should be sent to the manager, James Kenney, 728 West Third street.

ROD AND GUN.

J. A. Staats and Dr. P. J. Zeglio spent yesterday gunning in the vicinity of Mt. Bethel. They captured seventeen woodcock. "Bessie," Mr. Staats' English pointer dog, was largely responsible for their good luck.

PARTY IN DUKE DIVORCE.

Chancellor Grants Petition of F. P. Huntoon, Co-respondent.

Chancellor Magie has granted the petition of Frank P. Huntoon, of New York, for leave to be made a party to the divorce proceedings instituted by James B. Duke, the millionaire tobacco man, against his wife. Huntoon was named as co-respondent in the suit.

Under a law enacted by the Legislature, two years ago, a co-respondent may ask leave to be made a party to the proceedings, in order to deny any allegations that may be made against him.

Autoist Deserts Woman.

New Brunswick, Oct. 25.—A green touring car, containing a man and a woman, stopped in front of the Mansion House, on Albany street, yesterday afternoon and the woman dismounted. The man in the auto threw in the clutch and moved off at high speed. A short distance down the street he stopped and took on board a woman who had been waiting for him. The woman who had been left at the hotel became almost hysterical when she saw this. She told the people standing in front of the hotel that she had been left without a cent of money by the autoist. A collection was taken for her and she went to the railroad station, where she boarded the first train for New York. She was expensively dressed. She vouchsafed no explanation of the incident.

Settling Embossing Factory Loss.

The task of adjusting the insurance loss on the Crescent Embossing Company's building is progressing satisfactorily and will probably be completed today. Yesterday representatives of the company and Fred C. Lounsbury met in New York and settled upon a figure for the machinery and stock. There was a slight disagreement over the loss on the building but this was to be adjusted at a further meeting today.

Reception at Park Club.

The formal opening of the Park Club for the winter season, to take place on Friday night, will be an elaborate affair. A number of improvements have been made at the clubhouse and the place will be lavishly decorated for the occasion. The reception will last until 11 o'clock, after which there will be dancing. The entertainment committe will be in charge.

MAYOR J. F. BUCKLE HAS NO REGRETS

Mayor Buckle said to a representative of The Daily Press today that the only regrets he has is that he did not put the Legislative act in effect sooner. "When I became convinced that the Councilmanic police committee was not fair but was prejudiced and not acting for the best interests of the city I used my privileges in appointing a commission.. That is all I have to say at present."

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Books As Tools.

A clever but misleading article in a recent number of the Independent on "Libraries and Men" says: "Libraries are useful to women and children, but not so much to the men. . . Women use books, as playthings, men as tools. When a woman reads a serious book it is usually to improve her mind; a man generally thinks that there are many other things which need improving more than his mind, and he reads to find out how to do it."

That more women and children than men are using public libraries, few librarians would deny, this could not be otherwise since women represent out leisure class. Yet observation and statistics both show that business and working men also use libraries to obtain books for culture and recreation, and notwithstanding the Independent article, as tools, to a very considerable and increasing extent, though not as yet so largely as does the professional man, the physician, the clergyman or the teacher, —to whom books are a recognized necessity.

We do not expect to find books on business and trades reaching the highly inflated circulation of the widely advertised novel, their public is a much smaller one. But we may conclude, in our own library at least, that men are using books as tools as records show a constant demand for books on gas engines, on shop kinks, wood working, electric batteries, engine construction, automobiles, printing, books on arithmetic, banking methods, garden making, dynamos, advertising methods, machine shop practice, machine designing, bookkeeping, carpentry, draughting, poultry keeping, etc. Such books are not taken by women or children, but by men who are striving to better equip themselves for their work.

But we want more men to know of this practical side of the library's work, and to avail themselves of it. We shall, therefore, publish from time to time, through the courtesy of The Daily Press, short lists, with descriptive notes, of books which may be used as tools. We would like all the carpenters and builders to know that at the library they can find house plans and practical suggestions for the arrangement of interiors, and the workers in those various industries that the library contains practical and recent books on roofing and tinning, heating and ventilation systems, house painting, plumbing, on masonry construction, specifications, weaving, draughting, moulding, patents, etc.

Then in addition to these books there are the technical periodicals, such as the American machinist, Brass world, Iron age, Engineering, Cassier's magazine, Scientific American and many others. Of these, with the exception of the current numbers, which are kept on file, all may be drawn for home use. Nor is there any "red tape" in the way. Nothing is required of applicants beyond what the necessary safeguarding of the city property demands.

The library is open every week day from 9 until 6, and from 7 until 9 and on Sundays and holidays from 2 until 6 o'clock, and books are circulated every week day (except holidays) from 10 until 5:30 and on Saturdays from 7 until 9 p. m. Books will be sent by mail, if desired, a postal request stating your wants being all that is necessary. If you wish to be kept informed as to the library's additions on given subjects, leave addressed postals at the Library and you will be duly notified of each addition. Verbal or mailed requests for information will receive immediate attention.

In one of the factories a travelling library is placed, and the library stands ready to extend this system whenever there shall be a need for it. Remember that the reading room is open on Sunday afternoon, and that the library receives the most important of the New York dailies, a large number of the illustrated weeklies, besides a very plentiful supply of the best monthlies and quarterlies, both American and English. If you do not find what you want, do not fail to ask at the desk.

WOULDN'T GIVE NUGENT PERMIT TO SPEAK

Mayor Buckle Blocks Democratic Candidate's Plan For Street Meeting.

NUGENT INDIGNANT

Issues a Statement to the Voters Questioning Mayor's Fairness —Buckle Says He Acted Without Bias.

Edward Nugent, Democratic candidate for State Senator, did not hold his announced noonday street meeting near the Pond Tool Works today. He came down from Elizabeth to hold it, but he couldn't get a permit from Mayor Buckle.

Every street gathering must have the sanction of the Mayor, according to the city ordinance. When Mr. Nugent arrived in the city, Clarence Teel, of the Democratic City Committee, went to Mayor Buckle and asked for the necessary permit. Mr. Buckle refused to grant it.

Mr. Nugent was put out over the refusal. He gave up his plans for the meeting, but stayed in town long enough to write this statement to the voters:

"Men of Plainfield:

"In accordance with my plans for meeting the voters of Union county, I had arranged to speak to the employes of the Pond Tool Machine Company shop at noon today, October 26. Respecting the ordinance of the city of Plainfield, Mr. Clarence Teel, of Plainfield, applied to His Honor Mayor James F. Buckle for a permit, in my behalf, to address such men as might gather to hear me and Noah Woodruff, candidate for sheriff, at a point in South Second street, not far from the Pond shop.

"Mayor Buckle refused this permit.

"In doing so, the Mayor said to Mr. Teel: 'No, he cannot have any permit; let him (Nugent) hire a hall or a vacant lot if he wants to speak.'

"Hence my failure to address any noonday meeting in Plainfield today. Is that fair play, or do the citizens of Plainfield approve of such official action on the part of the Mayor of Plainfield?

"I will therefore address the voters of Plainfield on the issues of this campaign from time to time through the advertising columns of the newspapers and by other means.

(Signed) "EDWARD NUGENT,
"Democratic Candidate for State Senator.
"Plainfield, October 26."

Mayor Buckle says there is nothnig unusual in his refusal.

"There was no unfairness in my action," he said. "I have no feeling in the matter. I simply believe in treating all alike. I wouldn't give anybody a permit to hold a meeting in the street. Last week the Socialists asked for a permit to hold a street meeting, and I refused them.

"It isn't right to hold meetings in a public street, where the citizens may be interfered with. That is all I looked at. Wouldn't it look nice, now, if I gave him a permit and he went down there and drew a crowd, and a horse and carriage came along and couldn't get by?

"A meeting like that can be held in a vacant lot, where it wouldn't interfere with traffic. That is where they should be held, and I would not grant a permit to anybody for a meeting right in the street. It is not a matter of personal feeling; I would treat anybody in the same way."

Outsiders in the Parade.

Clubs from Rahway and Somerville have asked for places in the parade to be conducted by the borough exempt firemen Tuesday night. They have informed Chairman Shroop of the managing committee that they will come in costume and be fully masked. It is thought that other out-of-town organizations will participate, the spirit of the occasion having spread well beyond Plainfield.

BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL DEFEATS SOMERVILLE

WIN SECOND FOOTBALL GAME BY A SCORE OF 5 TO 0.

The football team of the North Plainfield High School were again victors, yesterday, defeating the Somerville High eleven by a score of 5 to 0. The borough boys played a splendid game and won out only by superior tactics.

The first half ended with no goal on either side, though North Plainfield kept the ball in Somerville's territory the greater part of the time. In the second half Somerville kicked off and the pigskin stayed in the middle of the field for more than five minutes. It was then rushed through tacke twenty-five yards to goal by Matthews, of the borough team. He made several clever moves in getting by and his quick perception in all probability won the game. Peacock failed to kick the goal on account of angle. The remainder of the game was without result though North Plainfield all but scored again.

The line-up was as follows:

North Plainfield.		Somerville.
A. VanArsdale	left end.	Edwards
Powlison	centre.	Haberle
Fisher	right guard.	Trembath
Day	right tackle.	Ayers
M. VanArsdale	right end.	Brokaw
Matthews	full back.	Hoagland
Dunning	right half.	Ryther
Peacock	quarterback.	Hickey

The North Plainfield High School has the following games arranged: November 1, Leal's; November 4, Cranford at Cranford; November 8, Somerville at Plainfield; November 11, Rahway at Plainfield.

E. T. BARROWS TO PRESIDE.

G. O. P. Committee Completes Arrangements for Mass Meeting.

The Republican City Committee met last night and further completed arrangements for the mass meeting to be held in the New Plainfield theatre on Wednesday night, November 1. It was announced that former Councilman Elliot T. Barrows would preside at the mass meeting. There will be good music and seats will be reserved for women.

The committe also made its selection of challengers for election day, and their names will be announced tomorrow. Other minor details were perfected. Among those expected to speak at this meeting are Congressman Charles N. Fowler, Senator John Kean, Ernest R. Ackerman and possibly Governor Stokes.

Miss George in Plainfield Tonight.

From present indications Miss Grace George and her company in "The Marriage of William Ashe" will be greeted by a large and distinguished audience at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. Manager Counihan has made every arrangement for the comfort and convenience of his patrons, and to that effect will have a liveried attendant in front of the playhouse to give carriage checks and call vehicles after the performance. Advance reports indicate that Miss George has never appeared to better advantage than in the dramatization of Mrs. Humphrey Ward's novel, and Plainfield theatregoers are extremely fortunate in having the opportunity to see for themselves.

Good Attraction for Saturday.

For Saturday matinee and night at the New Plainfield theatre, Manager Counihan has secured the popular rural drama, "One Night in June." By many critics it is considered as wholesome in action and as entertaining as "The Old Homestead" or "Way Down East." Though constructed on similar lines it is possessed of an absorbing plot that is distinctly different from plays of its kind and is interpreted by a capable cast.

Jap Missionary to Talk.

Rev. James H. Ballagh, who has been a missionary in Japan for over forty years, and who is thoroughly acquainted with every phase of Japanese life and the true condition of affairs there, will speak at Warren chapel tonight. He is a bright and interesting speaker and persons who are studying Japan or who are at all interested in that country are invited to hear him.

CHIEF KIELY MUST WAIT

No Action on Charges Until Formal Report is Made Says Police Commission Head.

MARSH NOT NOTIFIED

Corporation Counsel Declares He Has Not Received Document From City Clerk—He Will Do His Duty.

According to Amos Andrews, president of the recently appointed police commission, that body will take no action in regard to the sensational charges against Chief of Police Kiely until a formal report has been made to it by Corporation Council Marsh, and then his advice and instructions will be followed.

"No one," said Mr. Andrews, "is more desirous of a full investigation than I. Chief Kiely has been too efficient an officer to be 'thrown down' hastily and the police commission will stand by him until he has been proved guilty as charged. We will do all in our power to see that he receives fair and impartial treatment if it is decided that we are to take charge of the matter."

When asked today by a Daily Press reporter what his plan was in regard to the charges, Corporation Counsel Marsh said:

"I have not yet received the report of the police committee from the city clerk, and I do not even know what the resolution of the Common Council is. However, I shall do my duty whatever that may appear to be."

When the report was presented, it was referred to the corporation counsel with instructions to expedite the final determination of the question as to the constitutionality of the act under which the police commissioners were appointed.

In the past twenty-four hours, speculation as to the outcome of the charges has been heard in every section of the city and the one question discussed above all others has been as to whether or not the police committee will full prove what statements it has made. While they came as a great surprise to many, the majority believe that Councilmen Tyler and Bullock are familiar enough with the libel laws to avoid running any chances of making themselves liable for heavy damages. When Mr. Tyler was questioned concerning Chief Kiely's announcement that he would institute a civil suit, he replied that he had no comment whatever to make.

In legal circles it is rumored that a decision regarding the constitutionality of the police commission act will be handed down on November 13. This will decide whether the old police committee or the new commission is to have control of the police department.

T. A. KEENAN MARRIED.

Miss Anna Dorman, of New York, His Bride; Wedding Quiet.

Thomas A. Keenan, of West Fifth street, was married last night to Miss Anna Dorman, of New York. The ceremony was performed at Grace P. E. church, by Rev. E. V. Stevenson, the rector. On account of the illness of Mr. Keenan's father the nuptials were of the simplest character.

After the ceremony a quiet reception was held at the groom's home, only close friends and relatives attending. Mr. and Mrs. Keenan will reside on Johnston avenue.

He Wanted His Pay.

Eugene Ruckbill, a discharged employe of the Rushmore Dynamo Works, was arrested yesterday for hanging around the shop and annoying the management. Ruckbill was bounced on Monday. It is a rule of the works that workmen discharged during the week must wait until the following payday for the money due them, but Ruckbill insisted on getting his pay at once and put in a lot of time demanding it at the office. Judge Runyon suspended sentence but warned him to keep away from the shop until his money was due. He will get the pay Saturday.

All In His Eye.

A hot cinder from a passing locomotive blew into the left eye of Special Officer John Conroy as he was walking under the Park avenue railroad bridge Tuesday afternoon. It buried itself as deep as it could and raised all the trouble known to wicked little cinders. Conroy's eye was in bad shape next morning, and after Druggist T. S. Armstrong had vainly tried to give him relief for an hour, he went to Dr. F. C. Ard. It took the specialist a half-hour to dig the cinder out, and Conroy's eye has retired behind a blinker. It will be a week before he can use it.

There will be good singing and interesting speeches at the Christian Endeavor mass meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church.

QUERY FRELINGHUYSEN

CHILDS COMMITTED

Democratic Candidate Favors Local Option—Where Does Republican Opponent Stand on the Question?

Mayor Brokaw and the ministers of Bound Brook are hot after Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, the Republican candidate for State Senator in Somerset county, for a definite statement regarding his views on the liquor traffic. His opponent, Senator S. S. Childs, has already made himself plain on the subject. The Democratic candidate for re-election says that he believes in local option. Where Mr. Frelinghuysen stands is not known, but he will probably answer the open letter addressed to him by the Bound Brook people.

Here is what Col. Frelinghuysen is asked:

Col. Joseph S. Frelinghuysen:

My Dear Colonel—Your admirable speech of acceptance left very little to be desired in either matter or manner. Upon one point, however, many of the voters of Somerset would wish to hear a clearer exposition of your views than you were able to bestow in the haste and excitment incident to a Senatorial nomination.

What treatment, dear Colonel, do you propose to give the liquor traffic? Are you in favor of low license, high license, no license, prohibition, or, like your opponent, Senator Childs, do you favor local option? Peradventure some other and wiser plan than either of the foregoing may have occurred to your reflections upon this most important of all questions to engage the serious attention alike of the sociologist and the statesman.

As you are a candidate for the high office of Senator, we take the liberty of addressing you thus publicly through the four principal papers of your county, that you may in like public manner give your fellow citizens the benefit of your views in the premises.

Thanking you in advance for your reply, we are, dear Col. Frelinghuysen,

Very respectfully,

Robert J. Thomson, pastor of the Congregation church, Bound Brook; Cordie J. Culp, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Bound Brook; Rev. E. E. Robertson, pastor M. E. church, Bound Brook; R. H. Brokaw, Mayor, Bound Brook; Robt. T. Brampton, J. P. Oct. 31, 1905.

MEN'S CLUB BANQUET.

Bound Brook Association Listens to Speeches.

The Men's Union of the Presbyterian church, of Bound Brook, held its second annual banquet in the chapel on Tuesday night. Including the ministers and other invited guests there were sixty present. The banquet was prepared and served by the women of the Sunday School Society. Rev. C. J. Culp, pastor of the church, was toastmaster.

A unique feature of the affair was the menu, printed on souvenir postal cards having a photograph of the church building with a list of the speakers and their subjects on the address side.

The welcome address was given by L. C. Rugen, Jr., president of the union, who spoke of the past year and plans for the coming year. The other toasts were as follows:

"Men and the Town," Mayor R. H. Brokaw; "Man and Man," M. V. Brokaw; "Men and the Church," Rev. C. T. Anderson; "Elements of Success," Rev. Dr. Rogan, pastor of the Flemington Presbyterian church.

Second of Lecture Series.

The second of the series of lectures on the Life and Times of Jesus will be given at the Grove Street Rescue Mission this evening. This lecture was set for last Thursday night but owing to the rain it was postponed. The course consists of twelve lectures and is entirely free. The subject of this evening's lecture will be "Events Antecedent and Contemporary with the Birth of Christ."

Celebrated Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson VanWinkle, of Spruce street, celebrated the sixth anniversary of their wedding last night by entertaining twenty-five friends at their home. Music, games and a supper were features of the gathering. Mrs. VanWinkle was formerly Miss Mabel Gillies.

Good Government Meeting.

One of the weekly meetings will be held in the rooms of the borough Republican Good Government Club tonight. Speaking and singing will be features and cigars will be passed.

STOKES ON PATRIOTISM

Governor Addresses State Council of The Jr. O. U. A. M. at Trenton

ORDER IN GOOD SHAPE

Finances Show Flourishing Condition of the Organization—Some Changes in the Ritual.

Trenton, Oct. 26.—Gov. Stokes, who is a member of the Jr. O. U. A. M., addressed the State council of the order at its opening session in Masonic Temple yesterday morning. The Governor's theme was patriotism and character, and he dwelt upon the fact that wealth is not the only thing to be desired despite the growing tendency of modern times to esteem it as such. Character and patriotism, he declared, are fundamental to the welfare of the country and without them the nation could not hope to continue the remarkable progress it has made in the past.

The Governor paid a tribute to the work accomplished by the Jr. O. U. A. M., and expressed his satisfaction at the prosperity of the order as indicated by the reports of the various officers submitted at the opening session. The remainder of the session was taken up with the reading of the reports, it being the intention to elect the new officers late yesterday afternoon. William H. Miers, of this city, who has been State secretary for twenty-five years, will be re-elected without opposition. In commemoration of his quarter of a century of service in the order he will be presented with a gold watch by the State council.

Edward H. Mount, of Asbury Park, is slated for the position of State councilor, and no opposition to his selection has been manifested. Frank R. Sharp, of Irvington Council, No. 167, also seems to have a clear field in his race for State vice councilor. It is expected that, as usual, contests will develop for the minor offices, in which there is sure to be a friendly rivalry.

The report of State Secretary Miers, submitted yesterday, showed that there are 289 councils in the State, one new one having been added during the year. On June 30, 1905, there were 40,102 members in the State, an increase during the year of 1,646.

The finances of the subordinate councils are shown in the following statement:

Receipts—Total amount received for initiation fees, weekly dues, tec., $349,179.72; total amount received from other sources, $173,109.56; total receipts, $522,289.28.

Disbursements—Paid out for weekly sick benefits during the year, $96,156.78; paid out for other funeral benefits and assessments during the year, $108,599.91; paid out for other purposes during the year, $244,876.89; paid out for investments during the year, $72,052.12; paid out for per capita tax to the State council, $7,958.40; total, $529,644.10.

Total worth of councils June 30, 1905: Real estate, $61,004.96 investments, $396,655.65; paraphernalia, $88,951.48; cash in treasuries, $124,000.24; total worth, June 30, 1905, $670,612.33.

Total worth, June 30, 1904, $608,656.47; net financial gain for year ending June 30, 1905, $61,955.86.

State Councilor William R. Conrad, in addressing the council, urged that a committee of five be appointed to consider the laws of the order with a view of having them amended and simplified. He remarked that the duties of the State councilor had become arduous in recent years, that steps should be taken to lighten them, and suggested that a committee of past councilors be appointed to consider the question.

Mr. Conrad said the same was true of the State secretary. He recommended the appointment of an assistant at a suitable salary. In concluding his address, the State councilor said:

"The time was when a large majority of our membership was under thirty years of age, but our average age is growing older every day, and there are even now some of our members who have reached an age where they are almost beyond active service in the world's work, and some have become unable to work through prolonged sickness that are not so old. An organization that is in membership almost double that of other fraternal organizations in New Jersey and that is as wealthy as ours surely ought not to be outdone in benevolence toward its members. I would, therefore, recommend that a committee of five be appointed to consider this matter and submit at our next annual session recommendations for a plan, or a plan itself for taking care of our aged and indigent members and to combine with some provisions for our orphans, which we

DECLARING HIS INNOCENCE, CHIEF DEMANDS TRIAL

Kiely Says Tyler and Bullock Have Done Him an Irreparable Injury.

AN OPEN LETTER

Urges That His Good Name Be Vindicated by Proper Investigation — Wants Charges Framed Legally.

Chief of Police Kiely demands an investigation of the allegations given publicity in the report filed by the councilmanic police committee with the Common Council Tuesday night. These statements of Messrs. Tyler and Bullock, whose names were signed to the report, seriously reflected upon his public and private reputation.

In a letter sent to both Councilmen Tyler and Bullock today, Chief Kiely also declares his innocence. This is the letter:

"Messrs. William S. Tyler and William Starr Bullock:

"Gentlemen:

"On Tuesday evening last, October 24th, in a report presented by you to the Common Council, concerning the administration of police affairs in the city of Plainfield, you took occasion to attack my personal character and my record as Chief of Police in most savage and unsparing fashion.

"The insinuations made against me are of so grave a nature, the derelictions of duty laid at my door impute such flagrant disregard on my part of everything which a chief of police should be, that today I stand discredited before a people among whom I have lived for years and whose confidence and respect I have heretofore always enjoyed.

"It may seem to you a matter of small moment, gentlemen, to act as you have done, and take a man's good name from him as you have taken mine, but do you realize the far-reaching effect of it all?

"Do you realize the position in which you have placed me and my family in the eyes of those with whom we have associated?

"Do you realize that no matter what the eventual outcome of this present situation may be, you hurt us for all time in a manner for which there is no adequate reparation?

"I do not bring these matters to your attention, gentlemen, in any attempt to create or gain sympathy. I don't need your sympathy, but what I do need and must have, for my own sake and for the sake of those dependent on me, is justice.

"You have made insinuations so serious and derogatory that if the half of them were true, I should have no right to be retained for one moment on the police force. But they are only insinuations.

"The public may not realize it, but you are well aware that my hands are tied at present and that before I can vindicate myself or be adjudged guilty, specific charges must be formulated, reduced to writing and signed by the complainant, and a regular trial had before the properly authorized tribunal.

"Now, gentlemen, what I ask and what I demand, is that you shall at once make such specific charges against me in a legal manner, so that I may have the opportunity of answering them properly, and being tried before the body having jurisdiction of such cases, whether such body be the Common Council or the police commissioners.

"If you wish an investigation, so do I—a full and thorough investigation—which will probe into every one of your slurring innuendos, and prove me either the man I claim to be, or discredit me altogether.

"I feel that the citizens of Plainfield also have a right to know without delay what sort of man their Chief of Police is, and a trial before the properly constituted authorities is the only thing which can bring about that result.

"And let me said that I make this demand with no attending doubts or fears, because I know I am innocent.

"Yours respectfully,
"PATRICK S. KIELY,
"Chief of Police.

CADMUS BROTHERS BUY THE LOVE BUILDING

IMPORTANT PROPERTY DEAL CONSUMMATED THIS MORNING

A real estate deal that ranks in importance with many of those taking place in the business section of late was consummated this morning when Jasepr Cadmus, of the drug firm of Cadmus Brothers, purchased the Love building, at North and Watchung avenues. It is a brick structure, three stories in height, and has been occupied by the firm for more than a year. It was erected by Rev. Edward Love and was afterward sold by him to John Ross, from whom Mr. Cadmus purchased it. The consideration was $17,500.

The firm of Cadmus Brothers is composed of Jasper Cadmus, who resides on East Sixth street, and conducts the Plainfield pharmacy, and Nicholas Cadmus, who conducts a similar business at Bayonne. They succeeded Edward E. F. Randolph locally, and since taking hold of the pharmacy have been very successful.

In the rear of their store in the same building is the trolley waiting station and Timbo's branch lunch room. The scond floor is occupied by law offices and the third floor by family apartments.

The deal was made through the agency of Albert Lederer.

S. A. CELEBRATION.

Four Services in Observance of the Opening of New Hall

Services in celebration of the opening of the new Salvation Army hall on East Second street, next to fire headquarters, will be held Saturday night, November 4, and Sunday, November 5. Four meetings will be held, and several churches will assist in the celebration.

Saturday night the National Staff Band of the Army will hold a musical festival at Y. M. C. A. hall. On Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock, a service will be held in Trinity Reformed church. Col. Peart, chief secretary of the United States forces, will preach; Lieut. Col. Gifford will assist. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the dedication service will be held by Col. Peart; admission to this service will be by ticket. At 8 o'clock at night the Army will hold a united service in the new hall. Services will also be held at Hope chapel and Monroe Avenue M. E. church.

Charles W. McCutchen will preside over the dedication service. The following churches have arranged to take collections for the building fund: Crescent Avenue, First Baptist, Monroe Avenue, Grace Episcopal and Hope chapel.

MRS. ILLSLEY DEAD.

Former Plainfield Resident Passes Away at Home in Union.

Mrs. Mary Illsley, a former well known resident of this city and sister of Eugene O'Reilly, of North avenue, died yesterday morning at the Old Meeker Inn at Union, which she had conducted for the past eight years. She recently underwent an operation at a Newark hospital but upon her return home she became worse and was confined to her bed up to the time of her death.

Mrs. Illsley is survived by a son, William G. Illsley, of Elizabeth, who lived in Plainfield until his marriage four years ago, and a daughter, Miss Stella Illsley, of Union.

R. G. Simpson Dead.

Richard Gorden Simpson, only son of the Rev. Stephen P. Simpson, formerly rector of St. Stephen's church, died on Sunday night of typhoid fever, and was buried from the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, in Forty-sixth street, New York city. He was a very promising young man, and a great favorite with his friends, and dearly loved in the family circle.

New Plant for Brunswick.

A big plant to manufacture an improved electric arc lamp for general commercial use, is the latest addition to the list of New Brunswick's industries. It is the Scott Electric Arc Light plant, and is to be bulit by the Scott company. The company is composed of the same men who are back of the Cincha Stopper Company.

Summoned by Brother's Death.

Mrs. J. P. D. Kirch, of Duer street, received word yesterday of the death of her brother, Edward Y. Starr, of Tarrytown, N. Y. He was well known in Plainfield, having visited here on numerous occasions. Mrs. Kirch left at once for Tarrytown, where the funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon.

John Todd, of John street, who is at Muhlenberg Hospital with an injured knee, is doing nicely and will be discharged in a few days.

Announce Engagement.

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Mitchell, of 659 West Third street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ida Octavia, to William Cruse, of this city.

—Nobody who has ever tried White Label canned goods doubts the claim of the packers that they have no equal in the market. They are sold in Plainfield by Neuman Brothers, who recommend them.

William Sanford's loop lunch room has been rewired.

The boating season at New Market has closed.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

John Miller's house, corner of Westfield and Park avenues, seems to have been a target of late for some of the boys in town, who have been knocking out the cellar window lights with slung shots. Mr. Miller has become tired of the target practice and threatens trouble for some of the boys who have been enjoying the sport.

A New York company which has owned a large tract of land near Jerusalem road for several years has started work improving the property, streets are being laid out and two houses are already under way. The company intends booming the property as soon as the improvements under way are completed.

The Commissioners of Appeal were kept busy Tuesday trying to explain the increase in the taxation of certain properties. But few reductions were made from Assessor Charles French's figures.

Miss Alyea and Miss Parse, who have been visiting Mrs. Augusta Miller, have returned to their home in Newark.

Mrs. William Bacon, of Plainfield, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Joseph Schwalbach, of Westfield avenue.

The local hunters are anxiously awaiting the opening of the rabbit season next month.

Mrs. E. C. Kieb, of the borough, is visiting friends at Oneida Lake, N. Y.

Charles Maltby was out with dog and gun yesterday.

Mr. Ackerman as Orator.

Ernest R. Ackerman, Republican candidate for Senator, has arranged to speak at several mass meetings to be held throughout the county. Tonight he will be the guest of the McKinley Club, of Elizabeth. During the next two weeks he will speak at Rahway and Westfield.

On Wednesday night, November 1, he will be one of the speakers at the mass meeting to be held at the New Plainfield theatre. At that time Congressman Fowler and Senator John Kean, and possibly Governor Stokes, will be among the speakers.

Dr. Pittis Rents Stores.

Dr. Albert Pittis has rented his two new stores at 174 and 175 East Front street, one to Hertz Brothers, of Springfield avenue, Newark, who will sell dressmakers' supplies, linings and trimmings for women's dresses. The other store has been rented by John Wanamaker for a special sale of pianos of standard makes. Possession will be taken at once.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will meet tomorrow night. Miss May Pierson will be the leader and the subject will be "The Foreign Mission Work of Our Denomination."

FORTUNE OF $5,100 AWAITS TWO WOMEN

SEARCH BEING MADE FOR HEIRS SAYS LAWYER.

Freehold, Oct. 26.—A fortune of $5,100 awaits Mrs. Annie Packer and Mrs. Elizabeth McClusky, whose whereabouts are unknown, if they will come forward and prove their identity. Aaron E. Johnston, a lawyer, has that amount in his possession to give to the right parties, if he can find them. The sum comprises a portion of the estate left by Catharine Kelly, who died and was buried at Lakewood last month.

Behind this lies a story of frugality. Catharine Kelly came to this country from Ireland about fifty years ago. Twenty years ago she came to Lakewood and engaged as a domestic. She was industrious, and the money she earned was saved, and as soon as a little was accumulated she invested it wisely. When she died last month she left an estate valued at $7,500.

Aaron E. Johnston was designated in the will as her executor. She bequeathed $800 to Edward Neister, of Lakewood, a friend; $200 to Susan Kennedy, a friend; $1,000 to Rev. Thomas B. Healey, rector of St. Mary's Catholic church of Lakewood; $200 to Rev. Father Mannion, of Long Branch, and $200 to Rev. Father Ignatius, of Trenton. In case either of the sisters, who are left the residue of the estate, are dead, their descendants will receive their share. The will further requires that an advertisement be inserted in certain newspapers once a month for four years for the heirs. If, at the expiration of that time they have not come forward, the residue of the estate is to be equally divided between St. Michael's Orphan Asylum and Industrial School at Hopewell and the Sisters of St. Francis' Hospital at Trenton.

Commissioners' Report Expected.

It is expected that Elliot T. Barrows, Lewis G. Timpson and Evarts Tracy, commossioners appointed by the Common Council to treat with property owners in the matters of widening Sycamore street and Park avenue and the opening of Stebbins place, will make their report at the November meeting of the Common Council.

A Pumpkin Party.

Invitations have been issued by the members of the Benevolent Band, King's Daughters, for a "pumpkin party," to be held at the home of Mrs. DeWitt C. Ivins, 937 Hillside avenue, on Thursday, November 9. There will be many unique features.

Catarrh and Hay Fever.

Liquid Cream Balm is becoming quite as popular in many localities as Ely's Cream Balm solid. It is prepared for use in atomizers, and is highly prized by those who have been accustomed to call upon physicians for such treatment. Many physicians are using and prescribing it. All the medicinal properties of the celebrated Cream Balm are contained in the Liquid form, which is 75 cts., including a spraying tube. All druggists, or by mail. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

AN ORDINANCE

CONCERNING THE ASSESSMENT AND COLLECTION OF TAXES IN THE CITY OF PLAINFIELD.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That all taxes shall be payable as soon as the tax duplicate shall be delivered to the Collector; that where any taxes shall not be paid on or before the twentieth day of December following their assessment, interest thereon from and after that date shall be added at ten per centum per annum; that the Commissioners of Appeal in cases of taxation in said City shall meet on the fourth Tuesday of November annually, and shall give at least eight days notice of such meeting in writing set up at six or more of the most public places in said City, or advertised in the official newspapers of said City, and may adjourn from day to day until they have completed their work; that all city officers charged with any duty with respect to the assessment or collection of taxes shall promptly perform the duties severally devolving upon them in respect thereto, in strict conformity with the Act entitled "An Act for the assessment and collection of taxes," Approved April 8th, 1903, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and other general statutes applicable to said City; and that all ordinances and parts of ordinances inconsistent herewith, are hereby repealed.

Adopted by the Common Council, Oct. 23, 1905; approved by the Mayor, Oct. 24, 1905.

JAMES F. BUCKLE, Mayor.
Attest, J. T. MACMURRAY, City Clerk.

KEEP YOUR HEAD UNCOVERED.

The Constant Wearing of a Hat Propogates Dandruff Germs.

There are many men who wear their hats practically all the time when awake, and are blessed with a heavy shock of hair; yet if the scalps of these same men once became infested with dandruff germs, the parasites would multiply all the quicker for lack of air. Baldness would ensue as the final result. Newbro's Herpicide kills these germs and stimulates unhealthy hair to abundant growth. Herpicide is a pleasant hair dressing as well as a dandruff cure and contains not an atom of injurious substance. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Stylish Wool Waists.

Fashion favors the sheerer woolens this season for waists—they're quite as warm and comfortable as the heavier sorts and ever so much daintier—Nun's veiling, for instance, occupies a high plane in popular favor—there is nothing finer or more beautiful; in fact, many prefer this dainty fabric to silk. Our lines of woolen waists are strikingly complete, and the prices, as the following offerings typify, are fully up to the Bamberger standard of attracti eness.

Nun's Veiling Waists—A large line of fine French Nun's Veiling and silk poplin Waists, trimmed with hand embroidery and lace, wide tucks back and front, sizes 34 to 36, at 3.98 and.. 4.98

Black Brilliantine Waists—Also Nun's veiling and albatross kinds trimmed with embroidery, neatly tucked and tailor made, all of the very latest styles and a full line of sizes, at 2.98

Nun's Veiling Waists—These waists have fronts of very handsome silk embroidery, fine tucks between the embroidery, button back, all sizes, the best 2.98 waist ever shown, our price, only 1.98

Black Silk Poplin Waists—Made with tucks and wide tailor bands, fancy tucked back and wide cuff on sleeve; this is a very desirable mourning waist and comes in all sizes, at 1.98

Nun's Veiling Waists—Front made allover fine tucks, and back to match, prettily tucked cuff, black, white and all of the newest colors, excellent quality and actually worth 1.98, at 1.49

Nun's Veiling Waists—Four different styles, embroidered and tailored tucked buttoned front or back, very newest styles and colorings, all sizes, regular 3.98 kinds, each 2.98

A large line of Brilliantine, Nun's Veiling, Silk Poplin, Albatross and Sateen Mourning Waists from 1.00 to 5.98.

WEDS GIRL SON COURTED.

Tabor Is Forty and Has One Leg but Wins.

Greenport, L. I., Oct. 26.—Frederick Tabor is about forty years old and one-legged. But he easily beat his son, Russell, sixteen years and two-legged, in the race for Abbie Tuthill's young affections. Mrs. Frederick Tabor, who used to be Abbie Tuthill, is fourteen years of age, and two weeks ago she wore dresses up to her ankles and went regularly to the grammar school at Orient, near here.

Frederick Tabor, a truck farmer, twice a widower, has four children. Mrs. Tuthill, a widow, has nine children. So when Tabor began to visit Mrs. Tuthill's house everybody said he was courting her. Besides, Russell and Abbie kept company up to that time.

Last week the elder Tabor asked the Rev. William C. McKnight, pastor of the Presbyterian church here, to marry him to Abbie. The pastor said he would if Mrs. Tuthill consented, and she did; but the pastor changed his mind. So Tabor took Abbie to New Jersey and married her.

The school trustees at Orient are great on compulsory education, and maybe Mrs. Tabor will have to go to school until she is sixteen, anyhow.

ELEPHANT ARRESTED.

Tip Swallows an $800 Watch and a Fashionable Hat.

Popular Bluff, Mo., Oct. 26.—A warrant was issued Tuesday for the manager of a circus and Tip, one of his elephants, for the theft of an $800 diamond-set gold watch and the destruction of a Parisian confetion in millinery, the property of Mrs. Ella Goltz, of Portsmouth, O., who is visiting friends in this city.

Mrs. Goltz was feeding Tip with peanuts, which the pachyderm took her watch in his trunk, placed in carefully in his mouth and then followed the theft by stowing away her bonnet. Tip was packing up preparatory to moving to the next town, but the arrest stopped him. A suit for $3,000 damages was brought against the manager of the unmanageable Tip, his offer to pay for the watch and bonnet being spurned.

NEW PHASE OF R. A. FIGHT.

Brooklyn Man Seeks Injunction Preventing Suspension.

New York, Oct. 26—Fresh impetus was given to the fight against the new rates established by the Royal Arcanum yesterday by a new application by James Lawrence Mock for a permanent injunction to pay the increased dues put in force on October 1.

The application was made in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn and after a short argument the hearing was adjourned to next Monday.

The plaintiff is a member of Berkeley Council, No. 1954. The decision in this case will affect more than three hundred thousand members of the order.

—The Buffalo Commercial, in speaking of DeWitt Miller, says: "People's faces actually ached from ninety minutes' continuous laughing, excepting when the people were melted with the speaker's pathos. It is the height of art to conceal art. How naturally they seemed to flow from his lips—anecdotes, incisive penetration into men's motives and foibles, without hidden sting, denunciation of common meanness, and eloquent appeal which stirred the best elements of human nature." Mr. Miller will appear with the Van Eps brothers and W. E. MacClymont in the opening entertainment of the Y. M. C. A. Star Course on Monday evening next. Reserved seat tickets for the course may be obtained at Hodge's pharmacy.

AMUSEMENTS.

One of young Joseph Santley's most valued possessions is a gold medal which was given him during the past summer for life saving. Young Santley has spent most of his time during the heated term in a gymnasium, where he has been working hard on the trapeze and with fencing bouts, which two accomplishments are necessary in his part in his new play by Hal Reid, "A Runaway Boy." Young Santley would go swimming to Manhattan Beach every afternoon, as a means of relaxation, after his gymnasium lessons, and being an expert swimmer was able to save the life of a little girl who had gotten beyond her depth. One of the youngster's fondest ambitions is to become an all around athlete, and as he is built strongly there is every prospect of his making a name for himself in the athletic world before long. "A Runaway Boy" is to be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night.

Mrs. Sapp Catches Him Stealing Her Cow.

Mount Holly, N. J., Oct. 26.—Mrs. John C. Sapp, of Pemberton, driving to Mount Holly with her seven-year-old daughter, met a man walking along the road near Smalley's Corner, carrying a bundle, with one arm thrown over the neck of a cow, which she recognized as her own. Mrs. Sapp, asking where he was going, the man replied with an oath and threatened her if she did not mind her own business.

"But it is my business," said the courageous woman. "You must let that animal alone."

The man cursed. Handing the lines to the child, Mrs. Sapp jumped from the carriage and beat him severely with her whip. When he made a motion to draw something from his hip pocket she felled him with a blow on his chin. Then she beat him again over the head with the whip until he got up and ran away. She drove the cow home. Farm employes chased the fellow, but he escaped.

NEWSPAPERS AS TEXT BOOKS.

Northwestern Students Must Keep Posted on Current Events.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Newspapers have been ranked as a text book at Northwestern University, and hereafter students in the American history class of Prof. J. A. James must go to the recitation-rooms prepared to answer questions on the news of the day.

In the course of his lecture Prof. James referred to an article which appeared in a morning paper yesterday. Upon questioning one of the members of the class he found that the student was not prepared to discuss current news, and an examination of the class showed that only two members had read a morning paper.

"This will never do," said the professor. "Hereafter I shall expect you to have an accurate knowledge of current events as chronicled each day in the newspapers, and I shall consider it fully as important as the daily lessons assigned from the text books."

UNABLE TO SUPPORT WIFE.

Admiral Schley's Brother-in-Law's Answer in Divorce Suit.

Baltimore, Oct. 26.—Parks Fisher, stock broker, has filed an answer to the suit for divorce against him by Mrs. Marie Antoinette Schley Fisher, whom he married in 1865.

Mrs. Fisher charged abandonment. She is a sister of Rear-Admiral W. S. Schley, is prominent in society and was president of the Woman's Board at the St. Louis World's Fair.

Mr. Fisher admits that he and his wife have not lived together for three years, but neither admits nor denies the alleged abandonment. He says that his business is not as prosperous as formerly owing to his poor health and a financial misfortune several years ago, and admits he has not contributed to her support. This, he says, is because he is unable to do so, and he further asserts that he is unable to pay the counsel fee of $100 and the alimony of $15 a week allowed by the court.

PRAISE FOR MILITIAMEN.

Captain Martin Among Those Complimented by Inspector.

Captain Phillips, inspector of rifle practice for the Second Regiment, on congratulating the regiment for standing first in the order of merit for rifle practice, sums up by saying: "The final and greatest duty of a soldier is to shoot with accuracy."

He expressed much satisfaction at the good showing made by the regiment and took occasion to thank Colonel Collins, Lieutenant-Colonel Clime, Captain William Martin, of Company K; Captain William Libbey, Princeton, and others for aid that made the records possible.

Ralph Bache, superintendent of the electric department of the Public Service Corporation, has changed his residence from this city to Bound Brook, his former home.

J. B. Schultz, a member of the Common Council at Suffern, N. Y., and Edward M. Hogan, business manager for the Suffern Independent, at Suffern, N. Y., were guests on Tuesday of Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department.

NOTICE!
"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abscess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as a bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply Mr. and Mrs. James Embury Ave., care Hiller, Ocean Grove, N. J Signed, July 12, 1905: Mrs. C. RIDGEFIELD PARK REPUBLICANS MAY TAKE DRASTIC STEPS.

Hackensack, Oct. 26.—The Republicans of Ridgefield Park, in Bergen county, met in special meeting Tuesday evening to consider the advisability of supporting their county candidates for Assembly, Clarence Mabie and John Heck. It was generally understood that the real object of the meeting was to indorse the Democratic nominees for Assembly, John E. Hoey and Anderson Price, but George Smith, the local representative in the county Republican committee, who called the meeting and presided over it, said such was not the intention.

"As I understand it," said Chairman Smith, "the majority of Republicans are not in favor of supporting their candidates. The Public Service Corporation is what we are after. It has become bigger than the Republican party in New Jersey and is bigger than the entire State.

"It was the Public Service and the Prudential Insurance Company that decided the election of the United State Senator, defeating our candidate, former Governor Griggs, one of the best men in the State.

"This corporation can go to Trenton and buy all the legislation it needs to further its ends. President McCarter, in the presence of counsel for the Ridgefield Park Village Trustees, said that if we beat the Public Service in the fight over our roads, he would got to the next Legislature and have a law passed that would enable it to beat us any way. If this is true of the Republican Legislature, then something should be done to teach a lesson."

Trustee J. H. Boswell, secretary of the meeting, paid his respects to Senator E. W. Wakelee, who, he declared, is serving two masters. Mr. Boswell thought it inconsistent for the Senator to be counsel for the Public Service in the fight against his constituents and suggested that he resign from either one or the other position.

No decided action was taken by the meeting, but it was hinted something may happen at the Republican smoker next Tuesday evening.

TO ASSIST ELIZABETH BOY.

$200 Raised to Help Clear Him of Murder Charge.

Elizabeth, Oct. 26.—Friends of Joseph Simmons, a former Elizabeth boy, who is in jail at Bucyrus, O., charged with the murder of a railroad brakeman, have, through contributions and by means of a contest for a watch raised over $200, which will be sent to him to assist in saving him from the gallows. Simmons was a bootblack in this city and formerly worked for A. B. Carlton, vice president of the Public Service Corporation.

John Brennan, proprietor of a lunch wagon at West Grand and Broad streets, offered a watch on chances to help raise money to save him from conviction, if possible. Simmons' trial will come up on November 1, the grand jury now having the matter under investigation. No. 33 won the watch, which is still in the possession of Brennan. The drawing took place Friday night.

Simmons' defense will be that the brakeman took from him some shoe strings which he was peddling. He also slapped Simmons, so his friends declare. Simmons admits that he then struck the brakeman on the head with his crutch, the prisoner being a cripple. This blow caused him to be sent to the hospital, and, after being released as cured, the brakeman dropped dead while at work one day. Simmons was then arrested and has been in jail since.

WOMAN TIED KNOT.

Interesting Feature of Wedding at Atlantic City.

Simple and unostentatious in itself, yet the wedding in Atlantic City Monday evening of a local young woman and a happy groom from off shore was unique in that it was the first marriage in that city or county, or possibly in the State, to be performed by a woman. The latter was Rev. Emma E. Nutter, pastor of People's M. P. Church, Arctic avenue, Atlantic City.

The couple were Miss Hattie Layton, of that city, and Charles Sutton, of Bakersville. The ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock at the parsonage, 2501 1-2 Arctic avenue. The bride was attired in a pretty creation of white silk and wore a pink and white hat. Mr. and Mrs. Sutton will make their home in Bakersville. It was Rev. Nutter's first marriage.

Though not an ordained minister, Miss Nutter has the power of performing all of the offices of a full-fledged clergyman, such as marrying, baptizing and administering the sacrament, being licensed recently by the New Jersey M. P. church, which has just closed its annual meeting in Fair Haven. Miss Nutter served People's church as a supply and succeeded so well there that she was recalled by the congregation and was reassigned by conference to the charge.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tonight and have initiation.

In promptly demanding an investigation of the charges reflecting on his character, Chief Kiely has done the right thing at the right time. Let there be no delay. The public demands that an investigation, honest and thorough, be had at once.

So "Ham" Kean, former Republican county chairman and a brother of the Senator, tendered his friendly offices in Goff's behalf. It is well to remember how kind Hamilton F. is when you need influential friends. Just look at this from the official report of the councilmanic police committee: "He said," referring to Kean, "Goff had always been a good Republican and not only had paid handsomely to the campaign fund the previous year, but—" No use asking the why and wherefore, is there?

The general public will never give Mayor Buckle credit for acting purely in the interests of the municipality when he refused to allow the Democratic candidate for State Senator to speak to the workingman from the street. Such actions as these savor too much of narrow partisanship, and the use of an office for purposes other than for good. Mr. Nugent is a respected citizen of Union county. He is an able man. At present he appears before the public as a candidate for public office. Mr. Buckle cannot claim that his speaking to the voters on the thoroughfare, where he desired to, would interrupt traffic. Such might be the case in the centre of the city, but not elsewhere. In the name of a fair-minded public we ask that the Mayor reconsider his hasty action and allow Mr. Nugent to address the people for whose vote he asks.

WHITE AND BLACK SEPARATED.

Negro Criticised Because Banquet Table Formed Color Line.

Trenton, Oct. 26.—Criticism has arisen in this city and in Bordentown over the action of Professor James M. Gregory, principal of the State Industrial School for Negroes, at Bordentown, in inviting white persons to the recent marriage of his daughter, having the ceremony performed by a white clergyman, the collation served by a white caterer, with white waiters, and then placing the white and the negro guests on different sides of the table.

Miss Margaret Briggs Gregory, herself an educator, became the bride of Mason A. Hawkins, an instructor in a high school at Baltimore. The white guests included prominent persons in educational and society circles.

DETECTIVE TRAP WAS AN OUTRAGE

COURT DISMISSES SUIT FOR DIVORCE BY WHICH HUSBAND WAS LURED.

Characterizing the means which had been used to get evidence against the defendant as outrageous, Vice Chancellor Stevens, at Newark, yesterday dismissed the suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Carrie L. Mapes against Stephen S. Mapes, of Westfield. The case came to an abrupt end in the midst of Paul Q. Oliver's argument for the petitioner, one of whose principal witnesses was Edward W. Oxenford, employed by a Newark private detective agency.

It was while Mr. Oliver was speaking that the court asked:

"How do you explain the detective's going about with Mapes and Miller on that Sunday?" referring to March 12 last, when Mapes was entrapped in an alleged disorderly house in Newark.

"The ways of detectives are mysterious, and I don't pretend to be able to fathom them," was the rejoinder made by Mr. Oliver. It was a fatal question, for Mr. Oliver's inability to explain away the damaging fact of the detective's going about with the defendant on that Sunday lost him his case. He did not even finish his argument, while Frederick J. Faulks, counsel for the defense, was not called upon to say anything in the way of summing up.

It was in evidence that Oxenford had gone about with Mapes and John Miller, a friend of Mapes, on the Sunday in question. Oxenford, Miller testified, had arranged with him to bring Mapes to Newark, saying, "You bring Mapes to Newark and I'll do the rest."

Commenting on this phase of the case, the vice chancellor said:

"The detective deliberately led the defendant into a trap. He took care to see that he got into this place after he had got him intoxicated. I can't understand why the detective went around with them if he didn't go around with them to get them in this place."

"It's a peculiar method," Mr. Oliver put in, and the vice chancellor said:

"I should think it was. If he had merely intended to find out what they would do, he could have done it by merely shadowing them."

"The detective simply left the the door open," Mr. Oliver explained, and the vice chancellor asked:

"Didn't he do more than that?"

"If you believe his testimony," Oliver answered, "he didn't. If you believe Mapes and Miller, he did."

"It is an outrageous practice, but it seems to prevail to some extent, and I think it ought to be discountenanced," the vice chancellor went on.

"I have no explanation to make, and no doubt if that is the deciding point the case is at an end," Mr. Oliver remarked tentatively.

"Mrs. Mapes," the vice chancellor went on to explain, "is bound by the acts of her agents. If those agents engage in a criminal plan, because it is criminal to entrap a man to commit a crime, I don't think that she can take advantage of her agents' acts."

"If that's the view of the court I think the case is at an end," Mr. Oliver answered. "I can't give a rational explanation of the detective's going about with these people."

When counsel for the defense rose to sum up, the vice chancellor stopped him, saying:

"I don't think it necessary for you to say anything." This ended the case.

Walter L. Toucey, recorder of the town of Westfield, was one of the witnesses for the complainant, and he experienced a bad quarter of an hour, when, after having given testimony reflecting upon the defendant's conduct, he was made to admit, under cross-examination, that he himself frequented side rooms of saloons in New York City where women were in the habit of drinking with men.

Mr. Toucey explained that it was when waiting for trains that he went into side rooms of drinking places near the ferry, and passed the time in social converse with the women frequenters of such places. When excused from the stand Toucey made direct for the coatrack, and taking from it his overcoat and hat, hastened from the court room.

Louis Davenport, who was called by the defense, testified that March 12 last he saw Mapes returning on a car to Westfield, and that he was oblivious to his surroundings, and appeared to have been "doped." Louis Marenghi, who was also on the car that night, gave testimony to the same effect.

Miller denied many of the statements made by Oxenford. The detective had testified to the effect that on his first trip to Westfield he met Miller in a cigar store. Miller contradicted this, and said that Oxenford on that occasion came to his house, and that as a result of that and subsequent meetings, the trip to Newark was made.

Miller further testified, in response to a question by Mr. Oliver, that A. S. Flag, of Westfield, had told him that he could have money if he would testify in Mrs. Mapes' behalf.

—Mrs. Joseph Bormann has removed from Belvidere and South avenues to 1108 South avenue.

NEW STATE ARCHITECT FOR SCHOOL BUILDINGS

AFTER NOV. 1 WORK WILL BE DONE BY DEPARTMENT OF C. AND C.

Commencing November 1, the new State Department of Charities and Corrections will take charge of the work of supervising the plans for all public school buildings in New Jersey, superseding Herman Kreitler, of Newark, architect for the State Board of Education. George E. Poole, Assistant Commissioner of Charities and Corrections, who is a licensed architect, will do the work after the date mentioned, and Architect Kreitler will no longer draw a salary of $1,000 per year from the State.

The change is due to Governor Stokes, who, before approving the annual appropriation bill, requested Commissioner Wight's department to assume the supervision of the school plans. Having received the assent of the department, the Governor struck from the appropriation bill the $1,000 for Architect Kreitler's salary.

The State school law gives very specific requirements for the erection of school buildings, in order to insure the comfort and safety of the pupils. Every classroom must be at least 18 feet square and provide not less than 200 cubic feet of air space per pupil. Approved systems of lighting and ventilation must be provided, and all ceilings must be at least12 feet high.

Special provisions are given for the construction of school stairs. None must be less than four feet wide, and intermediate landings must be provided. Every stairway must be enclosed in a brick wall or walls of slow-burning construction, with no open well holes. Many other building technicalities are covered by the law.

The necessity of providing skilled architectural oversight for the new public school buildings erected led to the establishment of the position of State architect. Mr. Krietler was appointed to the place and has been paid an annual salary of $1,000. Before a school building could be erected its plans had to be approved by the State architect. Under the new rule this work will all be attended to by Assistant Commissioner Poole.

are, in a way, now taking care of.

"To impress upon you the virtue of some such scheme, allow me to say that I verily believe that if something is not done along these lines the time will come when members that would become charges on the individual councils would avail themselves of the opportunity to become charges of the State council, and that it would be money in the pockets of the subordinate councils."

The annual meeting of the Funeral Benefit Association of the Junior Order took place in Mechanic Hall Tuesday. The election of officers resulted in the selection of Rev. Dr. J. Morgan Read, pastor of the First M. E. church, as president, and George H. Poulson as vice president. The other officers elected were: Secretary, Howard S. Norris, Newark; treasurer, F. L. Morton, Newark. Rev. Dr. Read and Mr. Poulson were re-elected.

The directors elected were: Thomas H. Irvin, Trenton; William B. Cramer, Beverly; A. J. Cramer, Orange; B. W. Allbee, Hackettstown. John N. Reeve, of Wildwood, was named as the auditing committee.

DRAGGED BY HIS MULES.

Reins Around Him When Thrown from Wagon in Runaway.

A team of mules driven by their owner, John Donohue, ran away last night down Bridge street hill at Somerville. Donohue, who had the lines about his body, was thrown from his wagon and dragged for a half mile over a stone road, the heels of the mules hitting him about the head and body with every bound.

The team was stopped near the Baptist Children's Home. When Donohue was taken from under the wagon his skull was fractured and his face mangled beyond recognition. He was taken to the Somerset Hospital.

ONE SUCCESFUL CANDIDATE FOR PATROLMAN

FRANK STILLWELL PASSES PHYSICAL AND MENTAL EXAMINATIONS.

Only one of five applicants for positions as patrolmen on the local police force was successful in passing the physical and mental examinations conducted under the direction of the Police Commissioners. The successful candidate is Frank Stillwell, of Clinton avenue. There are now positions for two patrolmen on the force and in order to allow members of the regular force two days off a month, it will be necessary to employ additional men. There are sufficient funds to employ these men to January 1, and the Police Commissioners will make another attempt to secure at least one more man.

The physical and mental examinations in the case of the five applicants were conducted during the past two weeks and it was a disappointment to the commission that only one candidate was successful. Arrangements will now be made to conduct another examination within a short time.

RUSHING TROLLEY WORK.

Elizabeth and Summit Soon to be Connected by "Fast Line."

Elizabeth, Oct. 26.—The Morris County Traction Company, which is constructing a fast trolley line between Elizabeth and Summit, by way of Springfield, this week, brought its supply of ties to this city and placed them at convenient points along Morris avenue, where its line will join the terminus of the Morris avenue trolley line of the Public Service Corporation above Stiles street in this city. This is regarded as evidence that the recent talk of the line going to Newark by a cross country route, paralleling the Lehigh Valley Railroad tracks and cutting off Elizabeth, is mere fiction. Assurances have been given that the trolley company will start building this end of the line in a few weeks.

There are still several plots of ground which have not yet been secured by the trolley company. The county charter for the road provides that it shall build and maintain a private right of way between Elizabeth at the northern terminus of the Public Service Corporation's lines on Morris avenue, through lands to be purchased by the company from this city to Meeker's Inn, near Springfield, where the rails have already been laid. This property will probably be secured within a few weeks. The company promises to have the road in operation by spring. Along a great part of the road everything is now practically in readiness to operate the cars. By a traffic arrangement the cars will be operated into the heart of Elizabeth over the lines of the Public Service Corporation in time.

THIEF WITH KID GLOVES.

At Last Accounts He Had Taken Two Horses.

Two liverymen at Somerville have been robbed of their best horses by a well dressed horse thief who wears light kid gloves and chews an ivory toothpick.

The stranger entered Walter Pence's livery stable Tuesday morning and threw down a card which indicated that he was a representative of a New York newspaper. The man was aware that Pence had just hired a rig to two circulation agents of the newspaper of which he claimed to be a representative, and he said he said he wanted a good horse to follow them out in the country. He obtained a buckskin horse attached to a light road wagon and departed.

Soon after his departure Pence was called up on the telephone by Daniel Fritts, of High Bridge, who was in search of a stolen horse. Fritts said that he had hired the horse on the previous day to a well dressed man who wore light kid gloves and chewed on a toothpick, who had failed to return it. When the circulation agents returned they informed Pence that the man who got his horse was an impostor.

The stranger was last seen driving Pence's horse through Plainfield. The man and both horses are still missing.

Still Alarm for Chimney Fire.

A chimney fire at 217 Grant avenue caused a still alarm to be sent in at 9:06 this morning and No. 3 combination hose and chemical engine responded. One extinguisher was used to put out the fire. The chimney was found to be filled with soot and it was with difficulty that it was removed. The damage by fire was very slight.

Off On the "Amerika."

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Oct. 29: "African Missions"—I's. lxviii, 31; Is., ix, 2; xiv, 14.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Isaiah was deeply interested in the evangelization of Africa. He was probably the first man who ever thought of the possibility of Africa turning to Jehovah.

For centuries the Israelites had been in touch with Egypt, and not always to their advantage. They had exchanged goods and to some extent ideas. Egypt was the home of all that was best in art, science and literature. Her religious system was elaborate, venerable and influential. That of Israel was antagonistic to it. Isaiah discovered that religion was universal. More than that, he found that there was but one God and He was Jehovah; therefore the religion of Jehovah was not solely for Israel, but was for all men. Egypt, he confidently believed, would at some time be brought to worship Him. But Egypt was not Africa. In the depths of the dark continent lived then, as ever since, the black man. In Egypt he was a slave, as he has been since in many lands. Isaiah saw far off the time when the negro should find Jehovah and stand erect a man among his fellow men.

It was a sublime thing for Isaiah to think. It was an audacious thing for him to say in that age or in any age since, but it was sublimely, supremely true, so it must have fulfillment. It will come true, for God lives.

It has taken long years for us to learn the secret of the dark land, but these last years have solved the riddle which the ancients never penetrated. We have crossed and recrossed the whole land. We know its fearsome depths of jungle and forest and its more awful depths of depravity and wretchedness. Into the very heart of it all have gone the bearers of the Christ light, and the old, old prophecy is coming to fulfillment.

The hope for Africa lies little in the commercial activity that has in recent years set in. Not much of good is in store for the negro through the opening of the country to settlement by the white man. Civilization is not so much the need of the African as evangelization.

As a church we have great interests in that vast land. Liberia, on the west coast, is of special importance, because there we first began our work on the continent. We have in Monrovia, the capital, the largest and most influential school from Gibraltar to the Cape of Good Hope. Our progress has been slow, and often there has been no prospect of success. Recent developments are more hopeful. Dr. Camphor is at the head of affairs in the Monrovia school. His printing press is the best on all the west coast, and he is making an impression. Dr. Sherrill, recently from our Gammon Theological seminary, Atlanta, Ga., is at Cape Palmas and is pushing the work to success there. More of our graduates are ready to go, and as funds are available will be sent out.

In Angola, where Livingstone desired to see a mission established, we have made some beginning.

On the east coast, in Rhodesia and at Inhambane, the work is very prosperous. Bishop Hartzell has been untiring in his work of supervision. Bishop Scott was at the last general conference elected also for service in that field.

Besides the missions of our own church we need to know the work of the Baptists on the Kongo, that of the Wesleyans in the south and of the various European societies in the interior. The whole story is one of the most fascinating in all history. Heroism has been and still is being displayed, and the vision of Isaiah is slowly but surely coming to fulfillment. We have a share in accomplishing the will of the Lord in turning this people to the Light of Life.

Flowers In Our Footprints.

We are to live in the world pouring into it the fragrance of the love of Christ. There is a legend which says that when Jesus arose and walked out from the tomb in the garden white lilies blossomed where He stepped, so that wherever He went there were beauty and fragrance. So should it be wherever we go, if we are Christ's. We are not to shut ourselves indoors, but are to go out into the world to carry blessing and good among its many needs.—Rev. J. R. Miller, D. D.

What Being Christ's Means.

If I am Christ's, then His divine life must be poured into my heart, into my soul, into my life, into my body, into my property, into my home, into my business and into my pleasures.—H. W Webb-Peploe.

Sentence Sermons.

Many a homely seed holds a heavenly blossom.

Little courtesies are the wayside flowers of life.

God waits for us somewhere on every pathway of pain.

Every cry of need is God's open door to some garden of paradise.

Keep yourself sunny and the Lord will take care of your saintliness.

What most Christians need is not more assurance of faith, but more assets.

No money is tainted worse than that which is kept in the cold storage pocket.

Too many people bring their yearnings to meeting and leave their earnings at home.

Make home a heaven and the children will take your word for it as to the heavenly home.

The best friend is not the one who gives us most cold cash, but the one who imparts most warm cheer.—Henry F. Cope.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 29.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The foreign mission work of our denomination.—Dan. ii, 31-3.

The whole world is to be won for Christ. This is the prophecy of Nebuchadnezzar's dream, according to Daniel's interpretation, which he in turn received by revelation from God Himself. In the great image which the king saw the various nations of the world were represented by different metals—gold, silver, iron and clay. Then appeared a stone cut without hands which smote the image and brake it into pieces, and "the stone that smote the image became a great mountain and filled the whole earth." The stone symbolized the kingdom of God. His kingdom is to overthrow the kingdoms of the world, and then Christ, the great King, will rule over all. "And the kings of the earth shall bring their honor and glory into it"—the kingdom of God. Christ's kingdom shall become a universal kingdom. We may rest assured of that fact, for, as Daniel said, "The dream is certain and the interpretation thereof sure."

The world is to be won to Christ through the church. God might have summoned angels or archangels to perform this great mission, but instead He has given to saved men the great privilege of being His agents in the salvation of the world. To the apostles who represented His church Jesus said, "Go ye therefore into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." Indeed, this is the supreme business of the church and of the whole church. The following motto adopted by one of our churches aptly sums up the situation: "It is the whole business of the church and the business of the whole church to give the whole gospel to the whole world as speedily as possible."

The church of Christ is divided into various denominations. It is one in spirit and largely so in fellowship, but is divided by doctrines, form of government or by form of service. This being the condition, each denomination should do its part in the evangelization of the world. Each Christian denomination in a sense reaches a distinctive class of people. These classes of people are everywhere throughout the world, and if they are to be reached the denomination which appeals to them most strongly should be present to reach them. This requires, therefore, that every denomination should be actively and earnestly engaged in mission work. And this requires that every member of the denomination should be at work. Christian Endeavorers should pray for their denominational missions, know where these missions are stationed, something of what is being done, and, as far as possible, the names of the missionaries. Prayer and knowledge should be supplemented by giving. All should support their denominational mission work willingly and as liberally as possible.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. lxxii, 8-11; Isa. xxxv, 1-10; lii, 7-11; Nah. i, 15; Matt. x, 7, 8; xiii, 31-33; xxviii, 19, 20; Acts i, 1-8; Rom. x, 14, 15; Rev. vii, 9-17.

The Baltimore Convention Badge.

The Baltimore Christian Endeavor convention badge, designed by Spencer E. Sisco, chairman of the committee on halls, was universally admired for its beauty. A gilt metal cross with a kind of trefoil at the end of each arm bore on its face "Baltimore, 1905," and in white in the center the Christian Endeavor monogram. To the cross was attached a ribbon of Maryland's colors, black and yellow. This formed the background for a shield hanging from the cross. This shield bore, in enamel of black and yellow, red and white, a part of the coat of arms of Lord Baltimore, and on it was a raised representation of the battle monument from the city seal, the monument commemorating the victory in the war of 1812 that saved Baltimore from British invasion.

BALTIMORE CONVENTION BADGE.

Aside from the beauty of the badge and its relations to the history of state and city, a symbolism appropriate to Christian Endeavor was found in the heraldic symbols, while the whole was considered as illustrating the text, "Righteousness exalteth a nation."—Christian Endeavor World.

Committee Mottoes.

The following bright mottoes for Christian Endeavor officers and committees are by Rev. A. F. Newell and are taken from the Indiana Endeavorer. The author prepared them for an installation service, in which he inducted into office the new officials of his Christian Endeavor society. It will be observed that the initials in each case are "Y. P. S. C. E.:"

President—Your President Shall Counsel Earnestly.

Lookout Committee—You Pacify Some Cranky Endeavorers.

Prayer Meeting Committee—You Pray Silently Concerning Endeavorers.

Missionary Committee—You Put Some Christianity Everywhere.

Flower Committee—Your Plants Surely Cheer Everybody.

Sunday School Committee—You Pay Some Calls Evenings.

Social Committee—You Prepare Several Clever Entertainments.

Y. P. S. C. E.—Young People, Serve Christ Enthusiastically.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

WOMAN'S SUPERIORITY.

Professor Chamberlain, of Clark University, has figured out that women have a whole lot more ability han men. Following is his little list:

As an actor she has greater ability and more frequently shows it.

She is noticeably better in adaptability.

She is much more charitable—in money matters.

Under reasonable opportunities she is more gifted at diplomacy.

She has great genius in politics.

She more commonly has executive ability.

Her hearing is more acute.

Her imagination is greater.

Her intuitions are greater.

Her memory is better.

Her patience is greater.

Her perceptions are more rapid.

She has greater religious devotion.

Her instinct for sacrifice is greater.

She bears pain more heroically.

Her sympathy is greater.

She has greater tact.

She has more acute taste.

She has greater vitality.

She has more fluency in the lower form of speech.—Pittsburg Gazette.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

A preserve which even city dwellers may easily manage is tutti-frutti. It is nothing more than brandied fruit, and is made with the least expenditure of time and energy. Have a pint of good brandy in a small crock, and every day put into it whatever fruit is in the house, peaches, pealed and sliced, plums, grapes, pineapple, etc. Add pound for pound of sugar as the fruit goes in, and stir gently every time fruit is added. Keep covered tightly all the while. The fruit will be ripened in about two months. This is delicious, eaten with ice cream.

Escalloped cheese is a great favorite in one family. Cut slices of bread from a stale loaf, trim the crusts, and, if desired, halve the slices. Butter a baking dish and lay the slices in, alternating them with layers of grated cheese, mixed with salt and paprika. Pour a cupful of milk over all, dot with bits of butter, and bake for twenty minutes or half an hour in a moderate oven. A richer dish is secured by beating one or two eggs and adding to the milk before pouring it over the slices.

Good Housekeeping describes a similar dish, which it calls cheese custards. Like the escalloped cheese, they are excellent to serve with cold meats at luncheon or tea. Cald one one cupful of milk in a double boiler, and six tablespoonfuls of grated cheese and stir until the cheese is melted. Next add two eggs slightly beaten, and season with salt and sprinkle them with chopped red or green peppers, fill with the custards, and bake in a pan of hot water until firm. Remember that custards must be cooked at a low temperature.

FOR BRIDES.

A woman may know that she has ceased to be a bride only—

When she finds herself saying uncomplimentary things to her husband.

The first time her husband criticises her frocks.

When she discovers she has reason to be jealous.

When he grows economical with his kisses.

When she begins to nag.

When he becomes sarcastic about the food.

When she does not mind coming to breakfast in curl papers.

When he tells her how pretty some other woman looks.

When he begins to go to the club.

When she begins to hunt up her old friends and enjoy calling on them.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

CHICKEN AND NUT SALAD.

Stew until tender a plump, one-year-old chicken, having the broth in which it is cooked well seasoned with salt, pepper and a little celery salt. Let the chicken cool in the broth over night; when ready to use take the breast of the chicken and cut in small pieces, adding an equal quantity of tender celery and a half cup English walnut meants or butternuts, cut in small pieces; mix well, adding a little more pepper and salt, if needed, and a squeeze of lemon juice and moisten with a little of the broth in which the chicken was cooked. Add mayonnaise to taste and toss lightly; arrange on the lettuce leaves and crown each portion with mayonnaise.

CRESS SANDWICHES.

Wash well some watercress and then dry them in a cloth, pressing out every atom of moisture, as far as possible; then mix with the cresses hard boiled eggs chopped fine and seasoned with salt and pepper. Have a stale loaf and some fresh butter, and with a sharp knife cut as many thin slices as will be required for two dozen sandwiches; then cut the cress into small pieces, removing the stems; place it between each side of bread and butter, with a slight sprikling of lemon juice; press down the slices hard and cut them sharply on a board into small squares, leaving no crust.

CHAPTER XI.

QUEEN ROSALIE.

For ten minutes after reading that strange missive Benton stood absorbed in deep, painful thought. The alternative presented was a trying one. From what Dr. Chilton had said in the course of the evening's conference the prospect of long imprisonment seemed assured. Lounsberry was a man of influence, even a power, at Richmond, and he could be relied on to exert it against Benton because—"because," said the doctor, as he was rearranging the bandages on Benton's arm, "he is no longer kindly disposed toward my—household, suh," and Fred reasoned that Rosalie could, if she would, give further and more explicit information.

"I have been fearing this for several days, suh," said Chilton. "Several of my patients, who are loyal Virginians and fully in accord with the stand of their state, suh, have nevertheless been loyal in their friendship to me. They believe in fair play. They honor a chivalric enemy, and they know how you protected and aided me. From three or four sources, therefore, these warnings came, and—and other stories that I prefer not to mention. I refused to believe all until Maj. Lounsberry practically confirmed the truth—that is—the truth of those referring to him, to-day. But I shall write to Longstreet to-night, suh, and to Jeb Stuart and to Gen. Lee. They will have influence with the president, Mr. Benton, and meanwhile," here both the kindly voice and the gentle hand seemed to tremble, "I—I would give almost anything I own to—to stop your being sent to Libby, suh, but, I see no way—I see no way."

And soon thereafter, leaving Pomp to assist his soldier patient, the doctor had withdrawn to his study on the ground floor, promising to be with him again about five.

It was just after 11 o'clock by Benton's watch as he roused himself from the spell of anxious thought and looked about him. There was significance in Pomp's disappearance. It was evident that the youngster had been carefully "coached" to point out the lightning rod as the best means to leave the house unseen, unheard. That Benton was confidently expected to make the attempt was obvious. Otherwise Pomp would have remained to help him off with his boots and uniform. Even to his watch, purse, spurs and boots not an item of his personal equipment had been taken by his captors. His sword had been stricken from his hand during the melee at the stone house and his revolver was gone, but that was all. A year later everything would have become legitimate spoils of war.

Peering from his window Benton saw, or fancied he saw, the dim light as of a lantern flitting about the barn. Evidently they were even then waiting for him. Evidently he was expected to "lose not a moment." Yet who were they? Surely not his venerable host and helper—for Dr. Chilton could not lend himself to any scheme for the escape of the prisoner without breaking faith with the confederate government. Surely not Jack, his wounded son, for court-martial and dismissal in disgrace would follow even circumstantial evidence that he had aided or suggested the escape. Surely not Rosalie! She had shown such deep abhorrence of the plot to speed his going that, even after her impulsive outbreak early in the evening, he could not but feel it would be treachery to her and to those she held dear, were he now to make the attempt, notwithstanding the fact that transfer to Libby stared him in the face.

Pomp's complicity it was easy to explain. The negroes, as a rule, were glad to help the "Lincum soldiers," and, where they were hesitant, a bribe soon settled the matter. Then Pomp's suggestion of the lightning rod was still further proof that outsiders, not Chiltons, were at the bottom of the plan, for, did the household favor it, they would never have sent a one-armed man swinging into space when the back stairs and the back door were unguarded, and guards or sentries of any kind there had been none, so sacred was the word of a Chilton. No; as he still pondered over the question, the hands of his watch crept to half-past 11, and a horse, somewhere out in what appeared to be a lane or alley behind the barn, neighed impatiently; and, surely as he could hear the tick of his watch, the beating of his own heart, Benton caught the sound of a low voice almost directly under his window, and then the dull, muffled tramp of hoofs on rain-soaked ground—then there were two horses and two parties—one in the dark lane, one here almost at his feet.

"Lose not a moment," said the note he had crumpled in his hand, yet here had he lost 20 in childish hesitancy. Again he read the clearly penciled lines. Again he recalled Rosalie's eagerness to see the previous note, and her contemptuous confidence as to its authorship. "Burn this, too," said the second missive; and, in honor, was he not bound to shield one who so eagerly, unselfishly sought to aid or rescue him? Yet Rosalie wished to see, and—good God, how he longed once more to see her and satisfy himself that she would approve, condone, forgive if he seized this chance of escape!—to satisfy himself, moreover, that she no longer held him as she had—in rank disfavor, that possibly—possibly—— But that thought was madness!

And then, though his door stood a trifle ajar and he had been listening, listening for any sound that would tell of her presence near him—that he might, even at so late an hour, have one word with her; though not the whisper of a footfall had reached his ears, something, light as down and barely audible even to him, was softly, stealthily tapping on the panel.

Marvelling, he tiptoed to the door, and a little scrap of paper waved before his eyes. Not a finger was visible. He took the paper with his one unfettered hand; threw open the door by a quick twist of the foot, and something with long, dusky masses of hair trailing behind it sped away in the dim light from the lower hall. A board or two creaked. There was a faint swish of skirts, a whiff of fragrance like that of the wild violet, but that was all. On the floor below the hall lamp still burned, and the doctor, busy in his sanctum, hemmed loudly and stirred as though to hail or speak. A door closed across the wide landing—her door as Benton could judge by the sound—and then he was alone with this second note.

Bearing it to the dressing-table, he read:

"Precious time wasted! Go—or it may be too late. Rely implicitly on first guide you find."

And this, at least, was not from the hand that penciled the other!

Again the sound of horses' hoofs beneath the window, and low-toned, rebukeful, yet almost imploring remonstrance. A darkey's voice surely.

"Cain't yo keep him still?" it asked, and Benton crept to the open window and peered down into the dim depths below, and then came the soft hail in tones he felt sure he knew—Black Dan's—Dan whom he had heard singing and doing chores about the sheds and gardens for days past: "Fo' Gawd, Marse Benton, 'f you doan come quick dis horse'll spile de whole business."

Then another voice—a mere whisper, half drowned by the sweep of the wind in the trees—Pomp's quavering tenor. "Yo doan need fotch nawthin', Marse Benton. We've got everythin' hyuh."

Then came a sudden scurry without, as midway to the barn a soft, low whistle sounded, and almost instantly Benton heard the sound of hoofs again. They were hurriedly leading a horse—or two horses—away. A lantern swung impatiently at the corner of the barn. Somebody was surely signaling. Something prompted him by way of answer to blow out his candle, to thrust the notes—both scraps of paper—into a convenient pocket, then to kneel by the window and watch and listen.

Almost instantly the lantern disappeared, and there were five minutes of silence. Then, as he knelt and watched and waited and all was still without and his darkey aides-de-camp made no further hail, suddenly he heard the creak behind him of a door cautiously opening, and, looking over his shoulder in the dim ghostly light sifting through the balustrade from the floor below, he was able to discern a tall, slender form coming noiselessly, cautiously, straight to his now wide-open door. Rosalie beyond a doubt, and she believed him gone!

Go then he must! Athlete that he had been, ever since boyhood, it was no trick at all to swing, even one-handed, on so thick a rod. His heavy gauntlet was already on, and, just as he reached forth to grasp the iron, his practiced ear caught the stealthy tread of spurred boots on the path below—coming from the back gate—the way to the barn. Another moment and, distinctly, in a sudden lull of the breeze, he heard a low, cautious voice in half murmur, half whisper. Words were indistinguishable, but he knew the tones—Lounsberry beyond question, and Lounsberry hailing in expectation of finding there an accomplice.

Not a second could he lose now! To go would be to meet the death of an escaping prisoner—or, at best, justifiable imprisonment behind the bars. To stay where he was might involve her—might at least so startle as to force from her a cry of alarm. Quick, light and lithe as a panther he sprang to his feet and met her just outside the door. No time for explanation!

"Silence!" he whispered, almost savagely. "Lounsberry is there," and then defiant even of her wrath, he wrapped that one strong arm about her, for (this at least, long after, was his one excuse) he thought she would fall, so sudden was the shock and start, so wildly beat the little heart once more fluttering on his breast. For a moment she was too dazed to use her strength, then, through her set teeth, savagely as he had spoken, she hissed at him, while slender fingers tore at his muscular hand:

"Let me go, instantly!"

And when he had released her, she again seemed like to fall, and he again essayed to hold her, but now with clinching little fists she fairly beat him off. Then, springing past him, reeling a bit, but desperate and determined, flew to the window, knelt and listened, leaving him faltering one moment at the door. Only a moment, though; for, casting aside all scruple, he followed and knelt beside her. Shrinking from him, with her white hands pressed to her temples; amaze, indignation, then triumph in her face, though he could not see it, she seemed listening absorbed. Again it was Lounsberry's voice, and Lounsberry had found his fellow spy, and with amazing confidence and fluency was Pomp replying. Oh, what gilliness of guile!

"Ye-as, suh. I don' tole him so. He cum down the back stayuhs an' outen de back do' mos' an hour ago, an' fo' we could show him de way, suh, Miss Rosalie come tay'in after him, an' draw'd him back into de house again!" Benton could feel, although only a fold of her gown touched his knee, that the girl beside him was fairly quivering at that bare-faced whopper, but quivering with wrath or delight he knew not which.

"You imp of hell! If you are lying I'll skin you alive! Whose horses were those in the side lot as I came up?" demanded Lounsberry.

"Fo' Gawd, captain, I do' know! Dey wasn't ouhs—ouhs is in de bahn, suh. Take de key and see fo' yo'self. Hyuh's the dochtuh now, suh!"

A stream of yellow light had shot suddenly forth as a door in the north wing was thrown open, and, lantern in hand, out came the head of the house, angering, bareheaded.

"What are you doing here at this hour, you black rascal, and with whom are you talking? Maj. Lounsberry!" and with amaze and dismay in his voice the old Virginian faced his unlooked-for visitor.

"I do not wonder at your surprise, doctor," promptly replied the staff officer, stepping forward into the little circle of light. "I had thought to be at Gordonsville before this, but—strange things are happening, strange stories are afloat. It came to my ears while on the way that your servants had been bribed to enable Lieut. Benton to escape this night. I returned at once, and two of my escorts declare that two horsemen rode away from your side yard yonder barely ten minutes ago. You can hear their story, or satisfy yourself and me, if you will, that—that our prisoner is still here."

"Still here, Maj. Lounsberry," answered the doctor, with grave dignity. "Though I warn you now that since your order was issued remanding him to Libby I no longer assume responsibility. I know that he is still here, but—do you prefer to search in person, suh?"

EQUAL TAXATION IS THEIR PROBLEM

MEMBERS OF THE STATE BOARD HOLD SECRET SESSION AT TRENTON.

Trenton, Oct. 26.—At a session Tuesday the State Board for the Equalization of Taxes considered the report it is to make in relation to the taxation of main stem and other tangible property of railroad companies.

The meeting was held behind closed doors. All the members—Major Carl Lentz, chairman; Charles C. Black, Henry J. Irick, Theodore Simonson and E. Ambler Armstrong—were present. The law passed by the last Legislature abolishing the State Board of Taxation and erecting lieu thereof a Board for the Equalization, Revision, Review and Enforcement of Tax Assessments, provides among other things that it shall annually submit to the Legislature such recommendations as it shall find necessary to prevent the evasion of just and equal taxation and from time to time also report to the Legislature what changes, if any, it considers should be made either in the laws governing the method of taxation or any changes of the rate of tax upon property of any person or corporation, including railroad and canal companies, in order to produce equality of taxation.

At the same session the Legislature passed a resolution requesting the board in almost the same language to make such a report to the next session.

The first thing which the board considered was whether it should, following the law, include its recommendations on the subject in its annual report or make a special report in compliance with the resolution.

There was much discussion on this point, during which it developed that there was some difference of opinion as to whether the resolution should be heeded and a special report made. It was finally decided to leave the matter open until the next meeting of the board, which will be held November 8.

It was also decided that whatever report is made should be based on a resolution, which sets forth that the board is of the opinion that such adjustment of valuations and rates of the railroad property known as "main stem," should be made, as compared with other taxable property of the State, so as to produce equality of taxation.

It was also decided that each member should work out for himself the details of the plan embodied in the resolution and lay them before the board at the next meeting. These individual drafts of details will then be thoroughly discussed, and the report, of whatever nature it may be, will be based on such of the recommendations as the board can agree upon.

The board also approved a form of appeal from county assessments which has been prepared by Frederick R. Lehlbach, the secretary of the board, and which will be embodied in the annual report of the body. Mr. Black particularly commended Mr. Lehlbach's work, saying he would print it in his new book on taxation, which soon will make its appearance.

The board also announced that there was now in the hands of the printer a complete compilation of all the tax laws, with the changes and the decisions of the courts up to date.

-:-:-:-MEN OF PLAINFIELD-:-:-:-:-

In accordance with my plans for meeting the voters of Union County, I had arranged to speak to the employes of the Pond Tool Machine Company's shops, at noon today, October 26th.

Respecting the ordinances of the City of Plainfield, Mr. Clarence Teel, of Plainfield, applied to his Honor Mayor James F. Buckle for a permit, in my behalf, to address such men as might gather to hear me and Noah Woodruff, candidate for sheriff, at a point in South Second Street, not far from the Pond's shops

MAYOR BUCKLE REFUSED THIS PERMIT!

In doing so, the Mayor said to Mr. Teel:

"No, he cannot have any permit; let him {Nugent} hire a hall or a vacant lot, if he wants to speak."

Hence my failure to address any noonday meeting in Plainfield today. Is that fair play, or do the citizens of Plainfield approve of such official action on the part of the Mayor of Plainfield?

I WILL THEREFORE ADDRESS THE VOTERS OF PLAINFIELD on the issues of this campaign, from time to time, through the advertising columns of the newspapers, and by other means.

EDWARD NUGENT,

Democratic Candidate for State Senator.

BASEBALL LEAGUE.

Big 'Varsity Organization May Be Formed.

There is considerable talk among the students of the leading colleges in the East as to the advisability of forming a baseball league next season to determine satisfactorily the championship question. The initiative has been taken by Columbia College, and the athletic boards of the other colleges, including Princeton, Yale, U. of P. and Harvard, have been communicated with and decision is now awaited. For several years past series of games have been arranged between certain colleges, but the real test of supremacy and championship honors have always been in dispute more or less, because other colleges have claimed recognition in awarding the honors. The idea in forming a college league is to have each team play a certain number of games, at home and abroad and in this way determine the championship the same as in professional baseball leagues. It is understood that some of the colleges do not approve the plan owing to the fact that it would require more time away from studies than the professors are willing to allow. Efforts are now being made to arrange for a conference of representatives from the various colleges to be held in New York when the question can be discussed pro and con.

"RED" WALLER TO GO WITH DETROIT AMERICANS

HIS DIFFERENCES WITH BRIDGEPORT AMICABLY SETTLED.

"Red" Waller, the baseball twirler who made Westfield famous, has pitched his last game at Recreation Park for some time to come, and this familiar figure will be sadly missed by the fans throughout Union county, who have often seen him play.

The auburn-hair twister of curves has signed with the Detroit Americans for next season, the manager having amicably settled the differences existing between "Red" and the Bridgeport, Conn., club. During this season his work has been of the best and no doubt the fact that his old friend, "Matty" McIntyre, formerly of eWstfield, is with Detroit, has influenced him in going with this club. It is understood that if "Red" makes good he will be used in the box in regular order with the other pitchers.

Another interesting bit of baseball gossip is the announcement that Ross, the clever catcher for the Trenton Y. M. C. A. and Elizabethport Stars, has signed with the New York Nationals. While the Giants were playing in Trenton recently, Johnny McGraw was attracted by the fine work of Ross behind the rubber and at once signed him. He is considered a good one and his friends predict that he will "make good" with the world champions.

MORE TELEPHONE STOCK.

New York and New Jersey Co. Will Largely Increase Its Issue.

The stockholders of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company authorized yesterday the increase of the capital stock from $15,000,000 to $50,000,000. INSURANCE COMPANY AND BANK HELP THE CITS?

Mayor Smalley Says Prudential Influence Is Thrown Against Him.

FIRST NATIONAL, TOO

C. E. Ball is a Prudential Agent and T. E. Currin Works in the Bank —Mayor Has Something to Say of President Brunson.

Mayor Smalley's Good Government Club entertained another crowded house last night, with its fourth campaign smoker. The store-clubroom was jammed so tightly early in the meeting that newcomers had to fight their way through the doorway.

Mayor Smalley was pretty nearly the whole programme. He gave one of his heart to heart talks, speaking as the spirit moved him. He made one somewhat sensational statement: The Prudential Life Insurance Company and First National Bank, he declared, were working against him, because their employes were on the Citizens' ticket. C. E. Ball, the Prudential agent here, and T. E. Currin, a teller in the First National Bank, are the Cit candidates for Council.

"There are three strong elements against us," said the Mayor. "On the Citizens' ticket there is an employe of the Prudential Life Insurance Company, and that company is working for his election and using what power it has here to bring it about. That company is a great big one, and powerful, and it is striving to defeat our ticket. Another candidate of the opposition is an employe of the First National Bank, and that institution is working to defeat us. Allied with them are the men who favor the advancement of leaders in the other end of the county. So you see what we have against us—three strong elements: The great Prudential Insurance Company, the First National Bank and the men who seek to turn the borough wholly over to the faction in the county that cares nothing for its welfare."

The Mayor explained why he got out of the First National Bank directorate last year.

"A lot has been said about my leaving the bank. I have been accused of leaving it because I couldn't control the votes of North Plainfielders in the staff and because I couldn't run the institution. The truth is that my differences with the bank sprang solely from a clash with the president. Mr. A. J. Brunson (the president) came to me and asked me to use my influence in having a boulevard cut through his property in the West End. I though it would be a good thing, and took into consideration that Mr. Brunson paid about $1,500 a year into the borough treasury on his bank stock. A few weeks after that I learned that he had transferred nearly all that stock to some little southern county. I told him I didn't like that action. I said it was understood that he was to leave his stock where North Plainfield could assess it when we considered that boulevard, and did not consider that he had acted fairly or in a proper business way. 'That's all right,' he said, 'you needn't build the boulevard; I've decided I can do better by having my stock in South Jersey.' I felt sore over that; and so would you if you had been in my place. That year—the year Brunson transferred his stock—the tax rate jumped to eighty-one points; those things all affect the taxes.

"I am sorry to engage in a controversy with a blind man, very sorry, but these things must be set straight before the public. The bank was trying to secure the election of Currin, the Mayor declared, because it wanted his help in getting the borough moneys in its vaults.."

The Mayor said the Hallowe'en parade planned by the Exempts was a political move.

"They have fooled some good citizens into joining into the affair," he said, "but it is nothing more nor less than a political dodge. The Exempts are a political body and nothing else, anyway—and always have been, as those who were in a position to watch them knew."

The Mayor said he wasn't sorry the Governor and other States officials were not to speak in the borough as had been tentatively planned.

"They said they would rather not speak on local affairs, and I told them that if they didn't speak on local affairs I didn't care whether they came. This campaign is being conducted solely on local issues, and the other and bigger issues in the State and the nation are temporarily in the background. What the people her want now is local matter, and I believe a meeting purely local will be

MISS VON OHL RESCUED IN ANOTHER RUNAWAY

THRILLING STORY VIA PRESS AGENT BUREAU OF PUBLICITY.

Miss Adele von Ohl, of this city, who is one of the riders at the Hippodrome, New York, has a press agent without any regard for her comfort.

Some press agents are satisfied to have their clients lose $100,000 worth of diamonds, which is bad enough, but only conducive to mental troubles. Miss von Ohl's press agent insists on scaring her horse, or somebody else's horse, and making her look death in the face and muss her clothes all up, and such things.

A week ago the press agent heard that the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association was to held a big benefit and wanted a moving picture representation of a runaway stopped by a Central Park mounted officer, to show one of the phases of everyday heroism on the force. "Fine!" said the press agent, and immediately volunteered to have Miss von Ohl be the distressed damsel in the make-believe rescue. He knew that her horse would make it a real runaway, and she would have a terrible time escaping with her life, but he insisted on her taking part. That's the sort of a P. A. he is.

The course for the mock runaway and rescue on the drive near the sheepfold in Central Park, and the moving picture drama began yesterday afternoon. The scene was going well when the horse did exactly as the press agent expected. The P. A. knows more about this part than anybody else. Let him tell it:

"The mad race, with every mark of reality about it, was almost run. Just then Miss von Ohl's horse was seen to swerve. She was not prepared for it, and lost her poise in the saddle. There was an instant's desperate struggle to regain her seat, and then she fell sidewise. She grasped the pommel of the saddle, or she would have fallen and have been dragged head downward. Her left foot was still in the stirrup.

"Still clutching the rein, she hung, while her horse galloped on for twenty or thirty feet, her head and arm grazing the ground.

"The cop knew it was now or never. He overtook the racing horse—now a runaway indeed—leaned down, cowboy fashion, on his mount's off side, and seized Miss von Ohl's waist. In another second he had lifted her and swung her over in front of him, upon his own horse. The horse ran on free.

"Miss von Ohl had fainted. The police got an ambulance from Roosevelt Hospital in no time. The surgeon revived the heroine, put sticking plaster on some scratches on her cheek and left elbow. She said it was an experience she wouldn't have missed for worlds."

And in the dim background the press agent is coldly planning another runaway. If Miss von Ohl gets through the season without a broken neck it will be no fault of her press agent.

MEN'S ASSOCIATION PLANS.

Trinity Organization Arranges for Two Events.

The Men's Association, of Trinity Reformed church, held a business and social meeting in the lecture room of the church, last night. During the business session, at which the president, Frank Storr, presided, it was suggested that the association give an oyster supper sometime during the winter for the benefit of the church, and this committee was appointed to arrange the affair: R. E. Bohan, chairman; William F. Oliver, M. F. Gano, P. A. Vroom and Charles M. Dolliver.

It was also decided to make the next meeting of the club on Thursday night, November 23, a "ladies' night," and an effort will be made to have Rev. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, give an illustrated lecture on his recent trip to Spain.

During the social part of the evening there were several selections by a trio comprising Horace J. Martin, Jr., Charles M. Dolliver and Edmund D. Young, and violin selections by Boardman Drake, with banjo accompaniment. Refreshments were also served by the social committee, of which William F. Oliver is the chairman.

ENDEAVOR UNION RALLY

State President Sproull Reviews Work of Nation Convention at Baltimore.

MUCH ENTHUSIASM

Rev. J. W. Musson Tells of Doings at the Morristown Conference —Some Good Music.

Inspiration for great efforts along Christian Endeavor lines was found in the interesting addresses delivered at the congress of the Plainfield Local Union held at the First Presbyterian church, last night. The addresses were delivered by J. T. Sproull, president of the State Christian Endeavor Society, who told of the Baltimore convention of the society, and Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of Faith chapel, who reported on the State convention held recently at Morristown.

There was a large attendance of Endeavorers from all societies in the Local Union. The meeting opened with a song service, led by Horace J. Martin, Sr., followed with the reading of Scripture and prayer by Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church. U. B. Crane, as chairman of the committee arranging for the meeting, made a few remarks as to the objects of it and then introduced Rev. J. W. Musson, who spoke concerning the State convention held at Morristown on October 4, 5, 6, and which he attended. In the words of a friend of his who when he returned from the Chicago fair a few years ago, he said "It was grand. You ought to have been there." He referred to some of the addresses, including those made by S. H. Hadley, superintendent of the Water Street Mission, New York, who spoke on "Winning Souls to Christ," suggesting prayer and the study of God's word as essentials, and Rev. Dr. John Robertson, the Scotch evangelist, who talked on the subject of "Type of Christian Life." He gave interesting extracts from each address and concluded by giving the keynote of the convention, "Aggressive Personal Work."

After a soprano solo by Mrs. Edmund D. Young, J. T. Sproull was introduced and gave a graphic account of the Baltimore convention, which continued for five days, during which time 140 meetings were held. He chaperoned a party of 205 delegates from New Jersey. The building in which the convention was held seated 18,000 people.

In referring to the hearty welcome given the Endeavorers by the city of Baltimore, he said that the city expended $1,500 in decorating the City Hall and illuminating it with electric lights at night. He said that the great spiritual life was the undercurrent of the whole convention and resolved itself into a definite plan for greater work in the future.

Mr. Sproull said that the reports showed that there are 66,000 Endeavor societies, with a total membership of 4,000,000. During the twenty-five years of Endeavor movement, 2,000,000 members have united with the church of their choice.

Among the noteworthy incidents of the convention mentioned by Mr. Sproull was the singing by a choir of 2,500 trained voices and a Junior choir made up of 1,500 children, so arranged as to represent an American flag, the coat of arms of Maryland and the words "Christian Endeavor." This choir sang "Star Spangled Banner," "My Maryland," and the Endeavor hymn. The speaker also referred to a men's meeting, attended by 8,000 men, of the 400 conversions as a result. This demonstration Mr. Sproull said proved that the church is the friends of the laboring man.

In conclusion Mr. Sproull said that the New Jersey Endeavor Societies standing fourth in the list of those making the greatest gain in number of societies, secured the banner for that achievement, having gained an increase of 171 societies since 1902. This banner was presented by the World's Union. It is made of silk by a Japanese society, and Mr. Sproull exhibited it at the meeting. Another remarkable incident mentioned was the fact that Charles Bonaparte, Secretary of the Navy, a Catholic, addressed the convention and impressed all by his earnest Christian words. This was referred to for the purpose of showing the broad-minded spirit of the Endeavor movement.

After Mr. Sproull's remarks, Fred C. Lounsburg, Jr., president of the Local Union, brought two matters before the meeting. One was that the executive committee has decided to award the honors to the society showing the largest attendance and participation in the prayer meetings of the society during the coming year. This contest will commence November 1 and terminate May 1, after which the contest will be for a year. The other matter was that of

GRAND JURY INDICTS GOFF?

Reported About the Court House at Elizabeth That It Has Found a True Bill in the Case Against Plainfielder.

ALLEGED SPEAK-EASY

Bullock, Tyler, Hamilton and Vanderweg Give Testimony—Aftermath of Sensational Raid.

John J. Goff, it is reported, was indicted yesterday by the Union county Grand Jury. This was the general opinion of those who were about the court house at Elizabeth. The Grand Jury is now completing its labors and may finish them within the next week.

It was generally known that the Grand Jury was considering the Goff case yesterday, when Councilmen W. S. Tyler and William Starr Bullock, together with Special Patrolman Peter Hamilton and Patrolman Matthew Vanderweg were summoned before that body. They spent some time in the Grand Jury room, and it is said that they produced much evidence against Mr. Goff.

Councilmen Tyler and Bullock conducted a sensational raid at Mr. Goff's hotel on Sunday night, September 3, when it is alleged that they found a dozen or more people there drinking and playing cards. The councilmen were accompanied by Justice of the Peace Kelly and a constable from Elizabeth, and that after gaining entrance and securing the necessary information court was held there and Mr. Goff was arraigned. He was held for the Grand Jury and furnished bail for his appearance later.

Mr. Goff was out of town today, and it is understood that he went to Elizabeth. A member of the Grand Jury, when questioned as to what disposition had been made of the Goff case, replied, "The Grand Jury will do its full duty. That is all I can say.."

TRIED TO JAB COP.

Woman Drunk Uses Hatpin in Resisting Arrest; Long Sentence.

Annie Morando, forty-eight years old, of nowhere in particular, was sent to jail for fifty days, with a fine of $50 to lengthen the term, by Judge Runyon, this morning, in the city court. Annie is familiar with the interior of the county jail.

Officer Higgins got Annie on East Front street late last night. She was raising a reprehensible disturbance and added to her sins by resisting arrest. She tried to jab Higgins with a hatpin, and expressed a bald, undecorated opinion of his character as an officer and a man. Annie had some frayed and timeworn excuses when she was arraigned this morning, but the magistrate was not in a melting mood.

Interscholastic League Standing.

The Newark Academy football team has made the best showing in the Interscholastic League series, thus far, with a total score of 145. In five games played by Newark the oposing teams were shut out. East Orange High School is second with a total of 62 to 0, and the Newark High School is third with a total score of 37 to 35. Then follow Montclair High School, Montclair Military Academy, Broomfield High School, Leal's School, Pingry School, Orange High School and Stevens School, in the order named. On Saturday Leal's School will meet the Pingry School eleven on the Cricket Grounds in North Plainfield.

To Entertain the Women.

The Men's Club, of All Souls' church, will hold its first meeting for the season this evening at the parlors of the church. It will be a "ladies' night" and all the women of the parish are invited. The subject for discussion is, "Sunday Observance."

—Vegetable specialties at Neuman Brothers' tomorrow will include fancy green and wax beans, fancy head lettuce, table celery, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, spinach, beets and egg plants; all strictly fresh. Low prices are still prevailing.

MAYOR EXPLAINS WHY HE REFUSED PERMIT TO NUGENT

Mayor Buckle declares that he has been misunderstood in his action in refusing a permit to Edward Nugent, the Democratic State senatorial candidate, to speak on the streets here. He says that Mr. Teel, representing Mr. Nugent, asked him for the required license and that he acted in a friendly spirit when declining to issue one.

"I told Mr. Teel," said the Mayor today, "that I couldn't grant the request to use the streets for that purpose, and I advised him to secure a vacant lot immediately in the vicinity of where he desired to have the meeting. Merely as a suggestion, I told him to see James T. MacMurray at the Pond works. I added that I thought Mr. MacMurray would be glad to let him have the lot for the purpose.

"There was no politics in my action, although the Democrats are trying to make capital out of it," said Mr. Buckle. "You go see the Corporation Counsel and he'll tell you I have no right to grant such permits," said he.

Clarence Teel sticks to the statement he made yesterday. He reiterates that Mayor Buckle declared: "No he can't have any permit; let him hire a hall or a vacant lot if he wants to speak."

Mr. Buckle remarked today that he had refused the Socialists a similar permit a week ago and that he intended to treat all parties alike.

"My version," said Mr. Teel this afternoon, "was a verbatim report, to which I never added to or substracted from."

Mayor Buckle remarked this afternoon that he would donate his back lot on Second street, if Mr. Nugent wanted to use it.

"BIG CHIEF TYLER" NOT OF TAMMANY

THE OFFICE BOY'S CONTRIBUTION PUBLISHED AT HIS REQUEST.

Laying aside his dime novel for a moment, something few of his tribe are known to do, our office boy puffed up strong on one of his favorite brand of twenty-for-five dope weeds. A few minutes later he handed in at the "desk" the following parody, admitting at the same time that he was occasionally gifted with poetic inspirations:

(Air: "Tammany".)

Patrick Kiely is a big chief; so is McCard-ell.
They've ruled this town for many a year but how they'll never tell.
But there is another chief, the kind you're read about;
When he grabs his tomahawk you'll hear the braves yell out:

Chorus.

Bill Ty-ler—Bill Ty-ler
He's got Kiely on the run; with McCard-ell he'll have some fun;
Bill Ty-ler—Bill Ty-ler
On the level, he's a devil
Bill Ty-ler.

A city judge we have in town—Bill Runyon is his name;
His readiness to sing a song has been his claim to fame.
Chief Kiely ran to him and said "there's work for me and you,
Bill Tyler's got his war paint on, O Judge what shall I do?"

Chorus.

"Sue" said he—"Sue" said he.
"Don't get scared it's all a bluff;
We'll show Tyler we're hot stuff.
With McCard-ell—we'll do him well."
"But," said chief, "I'd just as 'lief
We let him be."

ROUTE OF BOROUGH'S MASQUE PARADE ARRANGED

MANY HOUSES ALONG LINE OF MARCH WILL BE DECORATED.

The route of the Hallowe'en parade to be conducted by the North Plainfield Exempt Firemen's Association Tuesday night, has been arranged as follows:

Form on Somerset street, opposite the club house; march to Craig place, to Duer street, to Linden avenue, to Grove street, to Rockview avenue, to Harrison street, countermarch to Greenbrook road, to Duer street, to Linden avenue, to Somerset street, to Grandview avenue, to Watchung avenue, to Jackson avenue, to Somerset street, to Manning avenue, to Watchung avenue, to Chatham street, to Somerset street to the point of starting and disband.

The committee is desirous of having women in line as well as men and will reserve places for them, also at the supper and entertainment to be held later at the clubhouse. The plans have attracted widespread attention and plenty of outsiders in addition to boroughites will participate. Many houses along the line of march will be decorated.

Long a Missionary.

Rev. Lewis Bond, who will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting on Sunday afternoon, was a missionary for thirty-six years in European Turkey, twenty-two years of that time being spent in Macedonia. He was in Turkey during two massacres and was engaged in relief work in connection with them. He was burned out during the Russo-Turkish war and found it necessary to flee at that time. Mr. Bond will gave an interesting talk on the political, religious and social conditions in Macedonia.

The Daily Press of today consists of twelve pages.

REPUBLICANS CANCEL BIG MASS MEETING

KEAN AND FOWLER CAN'T COME HERE TO SPEAK NOVEMBER 1.

Because the Republican City Executive Committee cannot arrange the details for the mass meeting to be held at the New Plainfield theatre on Wednesday night, November 1, and it is not possible to secure the playhouse for any other night before election, it has been decided to abandon the plan altogether. Arrangements will be made for a smoker, when the candidates will be present for an informal hand-shaking time.

In planning for the mass meeting the committee hoped to have all the candidates present. Congressman Fowler, Senator John Kean and Governor Stokes were to speak. It was afterward learned that Governor Stokes could not attend and it was doubtful about Mr. Fowler and Mr. Kean for the night chosen. Then the committee tried to secure the theatre for another night, but found this to be impossible, as Manager Counihan has all the available dates filled for shows.

Now the committee will select a night when the candidates can be present and arrange a smoker. Just where this will be held has not been determined yet, but will be announced in due time.

ARNOLD SHOWED HOW MONEY WAS SPENT

CITS WANTED TO KNOW ABOUT STREET DEPARTMENT EXPENSES.

A delegation of Citizens' party members composed of Councilmen Krewson and VanWinkle and T. S. Armstrong, called on Councilman James K. Arnold, last night, for figures in connection with street department expenditures in the borough. Their visit was brought about through the published statement from members of the party that the bills paid were not itemized and it was not known where the money went.

Mr. Arnold, who has been chairman of the street committee for a long time, received the delegation cordially and in a few minutes had satisfied them thoroughly as to the legitimate passing of every cent of money placed with him. His method has been to pay the street men each week a separate account, afterward totalling it up at the end of the month for presentation to the Council in a simplified form. In this way, the work of the auditing committee is greatly lightened. Mr. Arnold produced all his books and the investigators had no difficulty in understanding they any insinuation that the accounts had been blanketed, was an attempt at falsehood.

Readings from Her Writings.

Mrs. Maud Howe Elliott, a sister of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of Madison avenue, who is at Oak Glen, Newport, R. I., with her mother, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, has been giving readings at some of the Newport cottages from her forthcoming volume of Italian studies and sketches entitled "Two In Italy." Mrs. Elliott's new book, to be published by Little Brown & Co., Boston, will be illustrated from drawings by her husband, John Elliott.

Men Needed For Co. K.

There are a number of vacancies in Co. K ranks and Captain Martin wants applications for enlistment. Not once since the company was formed has there been a full enlistment and an effort will be made this winter to enlist other young men. Information can be obtained about enlistment any Monday night at the armory on West Front street.

MUSIC AND SPEECHES

Citizens Party Has One of the Best Meetings of the Campaign.

SEVERAL ADDRESSES

Member of the Executive Committee Reads Figures Relating to Borough Taxes and Salaries of Officials.

One of the most enthusiastic meetings of the present campaign in North Plainfield was conducted by the Citizens' party in Spencer's Hall last night. More than a hundred men were in attendance and a spirit of goodfellowship and joviality reigned, though not to the detriment of the real purpose of the gathering —the expounding of the principles that are being used by the antis in their fight against the regular Republican organization.

As on former occasions, Chairman T. S. Armstrong, of the executive committee, presided, opening the meeting with a short address. He forecasted success for the Citizens, declaring that the signs were never more favorable than at present, but cautioned the workers for the party on the importance of continuing their work on purely legitimate lines. There are more ways than one to participate in a campaign, he said, and one of the most important is the art of keeping a man's friendship and commanding his respect, even though his views of municipal conduct and affairs are different. He also dwelt on the importance of the independent voter, declaring that he is an important factor and that it is he who frequently causes the landslides in New York and often brings victory in New Jersey where it is least expected. Mr. Armstrong's address on the whole was well put and did much to encourage those who are bearning the brunt of the Citizens' movement.

He was followed by Edward D. Hutchinson, a member of the executive committee, who read a speech that he had written previously. In this he made the statement that the real issue of the campaign is Smalley and what he represents, or "The people against the bosses." No matter what may be the argued point or contention on the outside, he said, nothing should be allowed to creep into North Plainfield and interfere with the matter at stake.

Getting more direct in his address, Mr. Hutchinson said it was not quite clear to him why Mayor Smalley should continue to seek re-election, "as the office does not pay anything —I mean salary." In the same trend he remarked that the Mayor's assessed property valuation at the present time is $5,000 more than what it was when he became the borough's chief executive. Taking up the matter of taxes and expenditures, which has been a point for discussion on the part of the Citizens more prominently than ever during the past two weeks, Mr. Hutchinson read as follows:

While the assessed valuation of property in North Plainfield borough has only increased 15½ per cent. within ten years past(the valuations being $2,275,000 in 1895, and $2,626,800 in 1905), the salaries have been increased more than two hundred per cent. The salaries for the following borough officials up to the 1895 Borough Report were:

Recorder (none)
Borough Clerk	$200
Borough Counsel	250
Borough Collector (fees, probably amounting to)	350
Total	$800

The salaries for the year 1905 are as follows:

Borough Recorder	$ 200
Borough Counsel	350

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

An agent of the voting machine company instructed the election officers in the workings of the machine assigned to Dunellen, at the borough hall last night. Instruction to the voters will be given by the election officers several evenings between now and election. A dummy model of the machine has been sent to Dr. Brakeley.

The hectograph, on which the Outlook, the Democratic weekly, is printed, wouldn't work yesterday, so the regular issue of the paper has been put off until a new gelatine solution is fixed up. One of the worst things that can happen to an editor is to have his press bust just as he wants to put the paper out.

While the family were out early Wednesday evening, sneak-thieves broke into the Maltbie cottage in the village and stole a razor, a rifle and a ladies' watch. Other goods were packed, but the thieves had evidently been frightened away before they had a chance to carry them off.

While playing with a group of boys who were throwing wooden spears in mock combat, eight-year-old Arthur O'Leary was struck over the right eye by one of the sharp-pointed sticks, receiving a deep gash. Dr. Brakeley took two stitches in the wound.

W. J. Schein and Miss Sophia Duering, of Vailsburg, were quietly married at the home of William Schein, Wednesday afternoon, by Rev. W. W. Casselberry. Mr. and Mrs. Schein will live in Newark. The nuptials were very simple.

The women of the Methodist church will hold a Hallowe'en dime sociable at the home of Mrs. Cole tonight. An enjoyable programme of old-fashioned Hallowe'en games has been arranged.

J. N. Apgar represented W. G. Holton Council at the State Jr. O. U. A. M. convention in Trenton, and Fred Vail represented the council at the Funeral Benefit Association meeting.

C. T. Rogers has just received a shipment of 1,800 bushels of oats, one of the biggest carloads ever received at the village.

Miss Nellie Gallagher has returned to her home in South Amboy after a long stay with her aunt, Mrs. Charles Thornton.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Merkey have returned from their honeymoon trip. They are boarding with Z. P. Osmun for the present.

F. O. Nelson was Friendship Council's representative at the Jr. O. U. A. M. convention in Trenton.

The fire company held a meeting last night. Routine business was transacted.

Mrs. Mahlon Dayton has been entertaining her mother, from Bryn Mawr, Pa.

The light recently granted to Depot street petitioners has been started.

W. S. Hasleton is spending the week at his old home in Little Falls, N. Y.

Charles Rogers has put all his boats into storage for the winter.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The young people in town are preparing to celebrate Hallowe'en in royal style Tuesday night. Several parties are being arranged and gates and other portable property will disappear as in the past unless taken care of by the owners.

Charles Meyers has returned from Trenton, where he has been attending the State Council meeting of the Jr. O. U. A. M., as delegate from Twilight Council.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Guttridge, who were married Tuesday, have started housekeeping in the Marsh flats, corner of Park and Bartle avenues.

Delegates from the Baptist church have been attending the three days' convention meetings held in the Central Baptist church, Elizabeth.

Miss Grace George in "The Marriage of William Ashe," at the New Plainfield theatre last night, was enjoyed by a number from here.

The weekly prayer and praise service tonight at the Baptist church will be led by Rev. T. Moore-Smith.

George Baldwin, formerly of this place, but now residing in Rahway, has been visiting friends in town.

Mrs. H. C. Smith, of Plainfield, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. L. B. Coddington, of Park avenue.

A meeting of the Township Committee will be held tonight in the town rooms.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Mrs. J. A. Cubberley, Miss Nellie Manning and Miss Mabelle Cubberley attended the mass meeting of the Christian Endeavor Union at the Presbyterian church in Plainfield last night.

Thomas Brown has sold his small farm to Mr. Fountain, of Plainfield, and removed to Plainfield.

Mr. Quinn, of Plainfield avenue, has sold his farm and moved to Plainfield.

as good for the present campaign as any other. Such a meeting we will hold on November 3, in Saengerbund Hall. The speakers will all be local, and Judge Runyon has promised to come over to sing and play for us. I believe that meeting will be as interesting and profitable to us as one of the other sort. Keep that meeting in mind; it will be out last gun.

"We don't intend to go in for fireworks and hysteria. We will go on holding this sort of meeting and present the facts in a plain, straightforward way. As far as those things go, the fight is settled now; the issue has been decided and it only remains for the seventh of November to disclose the decision.

"The people have made up their minds, and I am not doubtful of the issue. No matter what the Citizens say or how they calculate, rest assured that we will win. A careful canvass shows a clean majority for our ticket. The Citizens' books may show things the other way but they have a lot of men marked with a 'C' who will vote our way."

In this connection the Mayor said he didn't want the vote of anybody who disbelieved in him. There were some men whose votes he would rather not have in this campaign under any circumstances.

The Mayor made a general denial of the charges of graft, money grabbing and despotism made against him by the opposition.

"I have never made a dollar out of politics since I was born," he said, "and have lost many a one. I drifted into politics through interest in the same, and one thing led to another, situations changing and blending, so that I have stayed at it. But long as I have been at the game no one can say that I ever interfered with his or any man's voting or took a dollar in political toll.

"There are officeholders and members of the opposition in the room. I challenge anyone of them to get up and say that I ever tried to force their vote my way or any way. I challenge any man that has ever done work for the borough to say that I ever attempted to get one cent out of them or the work—ever did anything but seek to keep them to the line of duty. If one such statement is proved I will retire."

Another repetition of the debate challenge was one part of the speech.

"That offer to meet anyone or any group of those people," said the Mayor, "holds good until the night before election. An time between now and then I will be ready to meet them.

"But there is no likelihood of their accepting the challenge. They know if they meet me in that way I'll tell them in plain language just why they are opposing the administration, and they don't dare face me in public. If those people don't like cowards they must have a poor opinion of themselves. They are afraid to make their fight in the open, and slander is their stock-in-trade."

The Mayor wound up with another appeal to put the Councilmanic candidates in office, even at the expense of his own success.

"I tell you again, if there is any cutting to be done—if you feel you must cut—cut me. If the Citizens' Councilmanic candidates should be elected we will then have a Council opposed to progress. So I say, if you cut, cut the head of the ticket—leave the body alone. The body is the most important part of this ticket.

"But I don't want anybody to cut the ticket in any way. I have been a candidate four times, and it gives the other people a chance to say I am a candidate-in-perpetuity, but I tell you I wouldn't want another term if I thought a change would benefit the borough. I know it won't, and I am convinced that if you put me back for two years nobody will be harmed. And I am convinced we will win; the people disbelieve what those Citizens say, and have made up their minds to the truth."

Clifford A. McGee, candidate for Council, and Peter Emmons made brief speeches. Mr. McGee turned the charge of perpetual candidacy on A. V. D. Honeyman.

"If you write the name of one man—there is no need to mention his name—over every office on the Citizens' ticket you will have the real candidate; there is another perpetual candidate for you."

Off to the Emerald Isle.

Michael McCarthy, of Lee place, and Michael Nevins, of West Fourth street, two of the best known conductors on the local trolley system, will sail on the White Star liner "Celtic" this afternoon, for Ireland. They will spend three months visiting familiar scenes on the Emerald Isle and will probably spend a short time in England and Scotland before returning.

WE WANT ONLY A SQUARE DEAL

To the People of Plainfield:

In view of the fact that Mayor Buckle yesterday refused to Noah Woodruff, candidate for sheriff, and myself, a permit to address such citizens as might gather at a point in South Second Street, it will be impossible for us to hold any noonday meetings in Plainfield.

Only a few days remain of the campaign and as our program of noonday meetings had been completed without provision for another such meeting in Plainfield, we cannot change our schedule without neglecting other places in the county which we are already advertised to visit.

Having been deprived of the opportunity to make a noonday address in your city, the Democratic county candidates, SATISFIED THAT THEY WILL SECURE A FAIR HEARING FROM THE CITIZENS OF PLAINFIELD, IRRESPECTIVE OF PARTY, will appear and speak at a

MASS MEETING IN REFORM HALL

Friday Evening, November 3, 1905.

We invite the people of Plainfield to this meeting to hear a presentation of the issues upon which the present campaign is being conducted.

EDWARD NUGENT,

Candidate for State Senator.

AMUSEMENTS

Piquant and pretty Victoria Walters will play the soubrette role in the production of "The Way of the Transgressor," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre Thursday, November 2. She is an accomplished soubrette who acts in an artistic manner, sings charmingly and dances gracefully. Her part is one that will please everyone. During the action of the play she foils the villian several times but in a manner that is perfectly natural and plausible. She is ably seconded in her work by a group of canine thespians and that is, to say the least, a refreshing novelty. These highly educated Landseer dogs do everything but talk. Without a word of command they perform duties in the play that are marvelous. The play itself is most timely and has the added novelty of new soul-stirring situations, effective climaxes and realistic tableaux. As it is presented with the most expensive equipment of scenery that has ever been shown in this city, it cannot help but make a hit.

"Shadows of a Great City" tells a story of New York life in a manner which does not violate the probable, adding all the greater force to its already strong situations through its naturalness. Of villainy there is plenty, the sort that most men have encountered either in a greater or lesser degree. The shadows, however, are not all dark. On the contrary, the play is enlivened from beginning to end with good, wholesome comedy, thanks to the happy-go-lucky Biddy Ronan, who is the angel of light, appearing always to disperse the shadows and save from the machinations of the evil doers, the good and true. In conformity to the wise saying, "the course of true love never runs smooth"—still it reached the goal, and clouds disappear and truth and virtue win in the end. In short, "Shadows of a Great City" is a great play, well liked and should do a record breaking business at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, November 3.

Total	$2,450

In other words, the salaries paid today are more than three times the fees and salaries of ten years ago and previous.

There is no pretense on the part of any that the amount of business done by the officials today is three times greater than it was ten years ago.

When the borough was first formed—twenty years ago, in 1885—the salaries were as follows, per year:

Borough Recorder (none)
Borough Clerk	$100
Borough Counsel	150
Borough Collector (fees, say)	300
Total	$550

It may be stated in this connection that the Borough Health Board, following the example of increasing salaries, has just doubled the salary of the clerk of the board, so that in place of his receiving $150 per annum he is to receive from this time forward $300 per annum.

What is usually known as the Reed-Smalley combine (so-called because ex-Senator Reed is the planner and Mayor Smalley the executor of the details connected with the borough administration), consists of Mayor Smalley, his legal counselor and confidential friend, Charles Arthur Reed; his brother-in-law, Collector George S. Brown, and two others closely connected with him in running the expenditures, financial and legal, of the borough, viz.: Chairman James K. Arnold and Recorder Thomas S. Doud; also Borough Clerk Frank Rowley, in whose business Mayor Smalley has (it is said) a personal interest.

It will enlighten the taxpayers to know the amount which has been paid to all the member of this combine since they have been in office or have served the borough. The following table shows the figures as accurately as they can be given from the published reports:

Mayor Smalley and his brother, A. I. Smalley, work, labor and materials	$15,000.00
Borough Counsel Reed (figures now quite complete)	7,177.60
Collector Brown (brother-in-law of Mayor Smalley)	9,200.00
Borough Clerk Arnold (predecessor to Clerk Rowley)	3,561.19
Borough Clerk Rowley	2,000.00
Recorder Doud	800.00
Total	$37,738.79

These figures carry their own comment, as furnishing abundant reason why the six men named above are so extremely anxious that the present administration should be continued, and are so adverse to a change that every kind of statement and allurement or being made by them to voters to continue the Smalley administration in office.

Mr. Hutchinson was followed by Mayoralty Candidate Conroy, who reiterated his statement made at previous meeting that he "believed in a square deal for everybody," and that if elected he would see that every man got it. He again predicted victory for the party and stated that he would have something of importance to tell the voters at the big mass meeting that the Citizens will conduct in Saengerbund Hall one week from Saturday. Before retiring he expressed the wish that all in the audience who were strangers to him present themselves for a handshake, as when they knew him they would find that he was not the "bad fellow" he had been painted.

During the meeting musical numbers were furnished by Dr. J. H. Buchanan and M. A. Korff, with piano and violin selections and vocal solos by John Goodwin. The gathering broke up after all had joined in singing patriotic airs.

L. B. Woolston, of Fairview avenue, is detained at home by illness.

Mrs. W. F. McCarthy, of this city, has returned from a visit with relatives at Raritan.

CLEANLY WOMAN.
Erroneously Thinks by Scouring Her Scalp That She Cures Dandruff.
Cleanly woman has an erroneous idea that by scouring the scalp, which removes the dandruff scales, she is curing the dandruff. She may wash her scalp every day, and yet have dandruff her life long, accompanied by falling hair, too. The only way in the world to cure dandruff is to kill the dandruff germ, and there is no hair preparation that will do that but Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide by killing the dandruff germ, leaves the hair free to grow as healthy Nature intended. Destroy the cause you remove the effect. Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

The New Sack Suits
The style of the new-season Watson-made sack suits just seems to have caught the fancy of the best dressers we know. And really, we haven't any question that you'll approve the style when you come in to see what Watson has done for you. The changes this season, from the style of last spring, are slight, but they're important.
Single or double breasted coats, a little longer than in the past—long, broad lapels,—center vents with buttons — close-clinging collars — hand tailored shoulders—are characteristic of the Watson hand-cut kind.
Some of the suits are stunning effects in the new gray worsteds, cheviots, tweeds and fancy mixtures will win the young men's liking. Blacks and more conservative patterns are plenty enough for their older brothers.
The Watson skill at designing and tailoring has lifted these suits to a pretty high level—you'll share our enthusiasm the minute you slip into one and note the effect on you.
You haven't any reason to worry about Watson fit or Watson prices.

WOMAN ATTACKED BY FOOTPAD IN DAYLIGHT

FELLOW SPRANG FROM AMBUSH AND STRUCK HER IN THE FACE.

Philadelphia, Oct. 27.—Mrs. D. F. Blakerman, a saleswoman, of New York, is suffering from injuries received when she was attacked and robbed by a negro footpad in daylight at Sixteenth and Locust streets. The robber sprang upon her from behind a pile of bricks.

The fellow struck Mrs. Blakerman in the face with his fist, grabbed her purse and ran. As soon as she recovered she cried, "Stop thief!" and gave chase to the fleeing robber. Men working on a building hurried down ladders and joined her in the chase.

The negro was soon lost in the network of alleys and small streets.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

If you have any second-hand clothing to sell see Ike Richards, of Somerset street.

Carpentering work of the right sort is done by Herman Hansen, of Watchung avenue. Ask him for estimates if you contemplate building.

Besides contracting for all kinds of building work, Laury & Daudt, of East Front street, have taken up the mantel business. Their work and prices are right.

Grocers come and go in popular favor, but W. W. Wilson, of West Third street, goes on in popularity. Housewives know full value awaits them at his store.

This is the season of the year when you want kindling wood. Send your orders to John Mobus, the Watchung dealer. He also makes a specialty of grate wood.

Charles L. Stanley, the North avenue florist, makes a specialty of cut flowers. They are received at the store fresh from the Netherwood greenhouses each day.

Suits or single bits of furniture are to be found in great and attractive array at Powlison & Jones' store, East Front street. If you are thinking of buying furniture go there without delay.

Seaman Williams, of Sandford avenue, has been in the building business in Plainfield for many years and is capable of giving the best work. He has many handsome homes in Plainfield to his credit.

The soda water at Powers' Somerset pharmacy is simply delicious. If you have never tried it you are certainly missing a treat. This pharmacy is headquarters for drugs, medicines and toilet articles.

Have you seen the stylish new dress goods at Levy Brothers' dry goods store. These goods are the best in the market and the prices are cut so close consistent with the quality that everyone can buy.

Don't allow your teeth to run away with decay. Stop them at the first sign of restlessness by taking them to Dr. Atwood, of West Front street. Go with them and see how well Dr. Atwood knows his profession.

When you order groceries of Herman Weber, the Liberty street dealer, you can be sure that they will be the best the market affords. Weber makes a specialty of low prices, too. Orders sent by telephone will be delivered promptly.

Protest of Taxpayers.

The Commissioners of Appeal of Plainfield will meet in the Common Council rooms on Tuesday, November 28, to hear taxpayers who have any objection to make to their assessment. This is one month later than usual, it being the custom for the commissioners to meet in October.

Plainfield, N. J., October 27, 1905.

Quite a different story is told by Mayor Buckle regarding the Uugent incident yesterday. His statement that he informed Mr. Teel that he had no power to grant a permit for one to speak in the streets and that he had refused a similar application a few weeks ago, puts another phase on the matter. As Mr. Teel still sticks to his version of the conversation, it is purely a matter of opinion as to which is telling the correct story.

When the official investigation of Chief Kiely takes place there should be no closed doors. The examination should be as free and open as the insurance probe in New York. The public takes no stock in "star chamber" methods. Official reports made after such investigations are completed are discounted very frequently. What the people demand are the facts. They want to be able to follow the progress of the probe in an untrammeled manner. It is a matter of right. If it is denied no one should put any trust in it. An open investigation or none at all!

DEMAND HEAVY DAMAGES.

P. S. C. Sued for $25,000 by Bowers' Executor; Nolan Want $5,000.

Two suits for damages, aggregating $30,000, have been started as a result of the trolley accident at Roselle in which Oscar Bowers, driver for Capt. William Hand, was killed, and Albert Nolan, one of his helpers, was severely injured.

Ira Bowers, brother of Oscar, sues for $25,000 as executor of the estate. Nolan demanded $5,000. The papers have been served. W. G. De Meza is counsel for the plaintiff in each action.

Kiely Matter Rests.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh declared today that there are no new developments in the matter of Councilmen Tyler and Bullock's charges against Chief Kiely. It was rumored that a special meeting of the Council would be called within a week but Mr. Marsh said so far as he was concerned no such action was contemplated. Judge William N. Runyon, counsel for Chief Kiely, also said the matter rests at present.

Women's Federation Meeting.

The eleventh annual session of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs opened in the First Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, this morning, and will continue tomorrow. Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, of this city, is acting as recording secretary pro tem today. This afternoon Mrs. Emily Williamson, who attended the International Conference of Women's Clubs, presented a report of that conference this afternoon.

Ackerman and Runyon Speak.

The McKinley Club, of Elizabeth, held an enthusiastic rally last night, with the various candidates present. Previous to the meeting there was a parade of Republicans about the city and the display of red fire. Among those who spoke at the meeting were Ernest R. Ackerman, candidate for State Senator, and City Judge William N. Runyon. The meeting was attended by a number of local Republicans.

L. B. Woolston Seriously Ill.

L. B. Woolston, president of the Board of Trade and a member of the firm of Woolston & Buckle, is seriously ill at his home in Fairview avenue. each member contributing twenty-five cents toward the erection of an Endeavor building in honor of Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark, for so many years the National president. It is estimated that $1,000,000 can be secured in this way from the 4,000,000 members. This building will be a headquarters for the United Society and other rooms will be leased. Mr. Lounsbury said that the matter would be brought before the Local Union at a meeting to be held two weeks from last night, when definite action will be taken.

After the meeting adjourned, all adjourned to the chapel of the church, where a social time and refreshments were enjoyed. Members from the various societies provided refreshments.

LIST OF CHALLENGERS.

Party Workers at the Polls Announced by Secretary Newcorn.

Secretary Newcorn, of the Republican City Committee, announced the following list of party challengers for the coming election this morning:

First Ward, First District—Samuel Robinson, James McMurray. Second District—Joseph Neal, Gilbert Studley. Second Ward, First District—William N. Runyon, John F. Keely. Second District—Robert Guttridge, F. T. Ostrom. Third Ward, First District—Frank Dunham, H. C. Phillips. Second District—Charles Foster, Harry McDonald. Fourth Ward, First District—John De Meza, William Newcorn. Second District, William A. Westphal, Amos Gray. Third District—Robert Craig, Andrew McCardell.

Has Blood Poisoning.

John A. Koch, the Watchung avenue butcher, is suffering from blood-poisoning of the left hand, due to a slight accident a few days ago. He was placing a large piece of beef on a hook, when the edge of a sharp bone scraped his hand. He did not attend to it immediately and being obliged to go out doors, caught cold in the wound, resulting in blood-poisoning. Mr. Koch has since had the hand treated and no serious consequences are feared.

Nugent Campaigning.

Edward Nugent, Democratic candidate for State Senator, addressed the employes of the J. Stephenson Car Works at Elizabeth today noon, and among other things he said that he congratulated the men upon "living in a city where free speech was permitted, quite unlike Plainfield, where its Mayor refused the candidate a permit to speak in public at a noonday meeting."

Lounsbury Fire Loss Adjusted.

Miller & Maltby, insurance adjustors, have effected a satisfactory settlement with the twenty insurance companies carrying policies on Fred C. Lounsbury's embossing works. By the settlement Mr. Lounsbury will receive about $19,000, which covers loss on building, stock and machinery. This morning the works were started and the full force will be employed day and night for an indefinite time.

GOLD IN FARMINGDALE WELL.

Lawyer Finds Valuable Ore—May Make Paying Mine.

Long Branch, Oct. 27.—Holstead Wainwright, a lawyer, of Manasquan, while returning from Lakewood yesterday, exhibited to friends on the train a large piece of ore, exceptionally heavy for its size. When placed under a magnifying glass by William D. Martin, of this city, and others, it showed a valuable amount of gold. The gold dots were easily discernible to the naked eye, some of them being as large as pinheads.

The ore was taken from a six-inch well that is being bored at Farmingdale. The excavation has now reached a depth of 500 feet. Those who have seen the ore think the vein could be worked with considerable profit. The vein is thought to extend some distance.

A business meeting of the Monroe Avenue church Epworth League will be held tonight at 8 o'clock.

MISS GEORGE SCINTIALTES

Popular Actress Delights a Brilliant Audience at New Plainfield Theatre.

MANY CURTAIN CALLS

"The Marriage of William Ashe" a Dramatic Event of the Season —Wm. A. Brady in the Audience.

The third performance of the dramatization of Mrs. Humphrey Ward's novel, "The Marriage of William Ashe," was given in this city at the New Plainfield theatre last night before as cultured an audience as has ever gathered in a local playhouse. The reception accorded it and the star, dainty Miss Grace George, was in reality an ovation, the curtain calls testifying to the appreciation of her work and that of her admirable supporting company. It was the dramatic event of the season and fully agreed with the reports of its success received from Newburg, N. Y., Tuesday night.

In the role of "Lady Kitty Bristol" Miss George has easily the best part of her career and it promises to become as distinctive as "Frou Frou" or "Camille." Those who remember Miss George for her clever work in "Her Majesty" at Music Hall seven years ago, expected a display of dramatic talent, but they were little prepared for her splendid interpretation. Her "Lady Kitty" was played along the lines which the novelist evidently had in mind when she penned the story. Miss George was the woman who, while acting upon sudden impulses, was at the same time always of good intention. Her comedy was bright, not the least bit overdone, and the opportunities offered in the more sombre passages were brought out in a manner that won for her the sympathy of the audience and caused it to forgive her for her wrongdoing. In arranging the story for the stage Miss Margaret Mayo kept the bright side will in the foreground and it more than compensated for the opposite when the more impressionable women were inclined to weep.

Miss George's supporting artists were not smothered in making her the star. Every part appeared to have been filled with a view to selecting just the proper personality for each role, with the result that the performance was extremely well balanced. H. Reeves-Smith as "William Ashe" was magnetic in his actions and others in the cast who attracted special notice were Ben Webster as "Geoffrey Cliffe;" Katherine Stewart as "Lady Parham;" W. J. Constantine as "Lord Parham" and Miss Davenport Seymour as "Mary Lyster."

The scenic mounting was superb, distancing Manager William A. Brady's planning in many other productions. Though not gorgeous, every set is in harmony with the time and locale, the garden on the Grand Canal, Venice, in the fourth act, being one of the prettiest effects every placed on a local stage.

The play will continue a short tour in this section before entering New York for a Broadway run. Manager Brady and several well known theatrical men were among the spectators last night.

"RAFFLES" ESCAPES STATE'S PRISON

JUDGE IN SENDING HIM TO REFORMATORY TELLS OF REMARKABLE CASE.

Jackson B. Thorn, alias John W. Thompson, the "gentleman burglar," also known as "Raffles," who confessed to having perpetrated many robberies in Newark, Orange and Montclair, was committed yesterday by Judge Skinner, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Essex County, to the Rahway Reformatory on an indeterminate sentence.

After confessing his many crimes, Thorn expressed a desire to be given a chance to mind his ways. A petition signed by citizens of Mercer, Pa., where Thorn was born, appealed to the court to save the prisoned from the State prison. Letters of a similar kind were also sent by individuals.

In passing sentence Judge Skinner said that Thorn had been guilty of robbing the residence of Adam N. Groel, of Orange, and Solomon Nught, of Montclair.

"I have learned," the Court said, "that you come from a good family and were well brought up, but that during all your life there seems to have been some moral irresponsibility, some influence of heredity in you. There appear to have been epilepsy and habitual drunkenness in your family. That, it may be, is partly responsible for your actions. If that is so I hope you may be cured."

Judge Skinner said afterward that the petition in Thorn's behalf had saved the prisoner from State prison.

"The case of this man is a most remarkable one," he said. "My investigations have resulted in the receipt of letters from prominent persons, all revealing a most unusual state of affairs. Men high in the affairs of their city have signed their names to petitions asking for leniency, and it is partly as a response to these statements that Thorn has been sent to the reformatory.

"One petition was signed by more than forty lawyers, one prominent judge, five bank officials, besides clergymen, several school principals and merchants and a newspaper editor."

Cream of Tartar
Baking Powder

ROYAL Baking Powder is Made of Cream of Tartar and is Free From Alum or Phosphatic Acid

Royal Baking Powder is pure and wholesome beyond question. There is never any doubt of the healthfulness nor of the superiority of the food it leavens.

Consumers are sometimes solicited to buy baking powders other than Royal because they cost less. It is evident to cost less they must be made of inferior ingredients.

Low-priced baking powders — 10c., 20c., 25c., etc., — are made from alum, phosphate or other harsh acid

At most, an alum powder would not lessen the cost of a cake or batch of biscuit more than the fraction of a cent. But can you afford for any sum to endanger your health by making your food with a dangerous baking powder?

"I regard the use of alum baking powders as highly injurious to the health of the community, and believe that their sale should be forbidden by law."—Geo. F. Barker, M.D., University of Pennsylvania.

DYING THIEF CRIES OVER BABY'S LETTER

BURGLAR SHOT BY POLICEMAN GRIEVES FOR FATE OF HIS CHILD.

Geneva, N. Y., Oct. 27.—Dying in the City Hospital here is a burglar who was fatally shot by Policeman McNerney, of the local force, in a running pistol fight in the streets. The policeman was shot at twice at close range by the burglar, one bullet going wild, the other just grazing McNerney's face. The policeman pursued the burglar, shooting twice in the air to make him halt, and when he would not, fired directly at him as he was crossing the bridge of a creek. The man toppled over into the bed of the creek, mortally wounded.

The man refused to give his name, but he is supposed to be from Bath, N. Y., and from admissions is thought to be well connected. He has a small child for whom he cries, saying no one will care for it, the mother having died in childbirth. In his clothes was found a few scrawls on a sheet of paper which he said was a letter from his baby.

$19,794 IN HER SKIRT.

Anna Schmidt's Faded Clothing Covered Fortune.

Poorly dressed and with every indication of poverty, a woman charged with disorderly conduct, on whom a fortune had been found when she was arrested, was arraigned in Jefferson Market Police Court, New York, yesterday.

The woman, when arrested, said that she was Anna Schmidt, but a bank book, showing she had deposits amounting to $19,794, which was found concealed in her skirt, was in the name of Augusta F. Freitag, as was also a deed to a house at 15 Second street. The woman also carried $500 in cash.

The police say that the woman's name is Freitag and that she lives at 54 Great Jones street, where she was arrested with Edward Brown, sixty-six years old.

When taken to the police station the woman wore an old shawl over her head and a faded, threadbare skirt covered one petticoat. It was in this petticoat that the bank books, deed and cash were found.

"Where did you get all that money?" she was asked when taken to the Mercer street police station.

"I made it speculating in stocks," replied the woman.

THROWS AWAY $6,351.

Nevada Rancher Queerly Affected While Visiting Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—A. Mueller, a ranch owner from Nevada, attempted to give away $6,351 in front of the Palmer House yesterday. He might have succeeded had it not been for Policeman Peterson, who was attracted by Mueller's actions. When the policeman neared Mueller, the Nevadan threw the money on the sidewalk and called out "Will no one take it?"

"Yes, I will," said Peterson, as he picked up the money and seized Mueller. Peterson, believing he had in custody one of the men who yesterday robbed a bank in Indiana, took Mueller to the Central police station. Mueller told the police he had arrived in Chicago Tuesday and had disposed of several carloads of cattle at the stock yards. He then left the place and went out for a drink.

The prisoner was unable to tell the police where he had been subsequently. The money was placed in the treasure vault at the station, and Mueller was turned over to a police sergeant for safe keeping.

CHECKS FOR TWO CENTS.

Unusual Method to Attract Attention to Entertainment.

Hundreds of residents in Jersey City, principally politicians, received through the mail yesterday checks on the First National Bank of that city for two cents. Accompanying the check was an invitation to attend an entertainment to be given under the auspices of the George M. McCarthy Association. Attached to the check was this note:

"Presuming that your yearly income is about $20,000, and that your time is money, we respectfully submit check for two cents in payment for one minute of your valuable time to be employed in a perusal of this statement."

Then follows the programme of the entertainment. Standard-bearer McCarthy is a member of the Jersey City Board of Health. A few years ago he was press agent for a well known actress.

Dressmaker Inherits $815,000.

Los Angeles, Oct. 27.—Mrs. S. E. Bowdell, a dressmaker, has fallen heir to an estate in Colorado worth at least $815,000. Mrs. Bowdell's uncle, L. Hilton, who died recently in Colorado, left an estate valued at $25,000,000, and Mrs. Bowdell will receie, with other relatives, portions of the estate. Hilton made his fortune in mines.

Ordered to Sell Plant.

Vice Chancellor Stevens directed yesterday George M. Keasby, receiver of the defunct Wheeler Manufacturing Company, of Waverly, to accept the offer of $35,000 which has been made for the plant by Mathias Plum, Jr.

LIFE TERM FOR "BLUEBEARD."

Sentenced to Spend Rest of His Life in Prison.

Sioux City, Ia., Oct. 27.—E. S. Blydenburg must spend the rest of his life in jail. The Supreme Court, with two dissenting, has affirmed the sentence of life imprisonment against him.

Although convicted of only one wife murder, Blydenburg is suspected of having been guilty of three. The last victim died after eating a dinner which had been prepared for her by Blydenburg while she was attending church.

Blydenburg was arrested in Eldora on the night of November 10, 1903, charged with the murder of his wife, and was released the next day under $10,000 bonds.

At the instigation of the dead woman's sister the corpse was exhumed and the stomach sent to Ann Arbor, Mich., where Professor V. C. Vaughn made an analysis of the contents. He reported that he found enough arsenic to have caused death.

Blydenburg's second wife is said to have died in Brooklyn, N. Y., in May, 1900, and it is asserted that her life was insured for $7,000. Before her marriage she was a Miss Goddard, and lived at 999 Lafayette avenue, Brooklyn.

During his residence in Eldora Blydenberg manifested great zeal in religious work and his arrest there and conviction caused a great sensation in Eldora.

BON-FIRE OF LOVE-LETTERS.

Man Sued for Breach of Promise Invites Friends.

Columbus, Oct. 27.—"The motto henceforth will be 'Talk seldom and write not at all,'" said George Z. Smith, of Steubenville, to his friends whom he had invited last night to help him celebrate the recovery of love-letters which Miss Mayme Keise, of Dayton, had made the basis of a breach of promise case against him. Tightly wrapped, the letters made a package ten inches long by six inches in each of the other dimensions. Smith had recovered them through his attorney in settlement of her claim for wounded affections. How much they cost him Smith left his friends to guess. He is wealthy.

The celebration was held in front of his lawyer's office and Smith fed the letters slowly to the flames, one at a time. When the last one was consumed he took a stick and stirred the embers of the bonfire, to be sure that not a scrap of evidence of his ardent but unfortunate wooing was left.

PRINCE'S VISIT ANGERS.

Irish and Germans to Join the Meeting of Protest.

The United Irish Societies and the German Singing Societies of New York, fearful of an Anglo-American alliance, are so wrought up over the reception planned for Prince Louis of Battenburg that Cooper Union, New York, has been engaged for a mass meeting of protest on November 9. Patriotic songs will be sung by the societies, and a parade will follow.

In a circular sent out by Secretary Lennon, of the United Irish Societies, it is stated that the sinister purpose of the visit of the British squadron makes it imperative that all true Americans decline invitations to the banquets planned. Another circular sent to sailors in the navy condemns the fact that they have been "obliged to subscribe toward the entertainment of the sailors in the British fleet."

CURFEW SCARED HER.

She Wouldn't Risk Going to Theatre in Dooley's Precinct.

A woman about sixty-five years old asked for matinee tickets at the New Amsterdam theatre yesterday.

"We give no Wednesday matinee," said Treasurer Gordon.

"I'm very sorry," said the woman, 'for I would like to see the opera before I go home tomorrow."

"The prices are just the same tonight," said Mr. Gordon.

"I know, but won't I be arrested if I come alone in the evening?"

"Arrested!" gasped the treasurer.

"Why, yes; I see by the papers all women have to be in the house by 10 o 'clock."

Mr. Gordon couldn't convince the woman that Police Capt. Dooley's orders did not affect all women, and she went away ticketless.

FIND 105 BOLTS OF CLOTH.

Police Recover Stolen Goods From a Barn in Newark.

Detectives with the help of the Newark police, Wednesday night recovered 105 bolts of cloth stolen from J. Goldberg & Co., at Broadway and Tenth street Monday in a barn on the outskirts of Newark, N. J.

The cloth was stolen by a delivery clerk who had been ordered to take it to a sponging establishment. The clerk disappeared. B. Bibner, of Newark, was hired by the thieves to cart it from the Newark station to his barns, where it was found. He said he did not know it had been stolen.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Frost and Miss C. L. Frost, of Watchung avenue, are registered at the Chalfonte, Atlantic City.

—Thomas DeMeza, of West Second street, who was operated upon for appendicitis at Muhlenberg Hospital, is now able to sit up, and he expects to return home tomorrow.

Newark's Hallowe'en Night Spectacle Parade will be the greatest sight New Jersey has ever seen; 10,000 participants in masks and costumes; scores of bands; beautiful floats; and a thousand-and-one odd sights. THIEF WITH A PAST.

Man Who Robbed Summit Home An Old Offender.

Summit, Oct. 27.—Chief of Police Brown succeeded this week after much trouble in learning the true name and some facts about the man arrested for robbing the summer residence of Wallace M. Scudder, here, on August 14. The man was captured in Madison, where he was trying to dispose of some jewelry taken from the Scudder house, which he had robbed at about noon, while the servants were busy. Most of the jewelry was recovered. Except for declaring that his name was John Baldwin the prisoner would answer few questions.

Chief Brown sent the man's picture broadcast with a request for information about him and yesterday learned that he was an old offender. He found that under the name of John Waller the man had been convicted in Somerset county for burglary and sentenced to five years in State prison in 1904 last, just one month prior to the Scudder robbery.

The records show that just before he was sent from Trenton he was confined in St. Francis' Hospital, there, with a broken skull. Chief Brown was unable to learn how the injury was inflicted.

SAYS HE WAS FORCED OUT.

Discoverer of Turning Silver Into Gold Wants Court to Intervene.

Trenton, Oct. 27.—Suit was begun in the Chancery Court yesterday by William B. Pervis, of Philadelphia, against the Mirable Company and its president, Rudolph M. Hunter, and other officials, to prevent the selling of the stock of the company, and also to prevent the company doing business in any form. The announced object of the company is to turn silver into gold by means of a secret process, which Purvis asserts he discovered. He says he was to do the laboratory work and was to receive 676 shares of stock, but alleges he was forced out of the company after Hunter learned his secret.

Hunter and others, according to Purvis, formed the United States Assay Bullion Company, with an authorized capital of $25,000,000, into which, Purvis says, he was not admitted, and into which, apparently, he believes the Mirable Company is to be merged.

TRAFFICKERS DRIVEN OFF.

They Leave City Just as the Police Hoped to Arrest Them.

Trenton, Oct. 27.—Vigilance by Police Captain John J. Cleary and his men has driven from Trenton three men who came here a short time ago and established headquarters for the prosecution of traffic in white girls. The men rented a house on North Clinton avenue and hired hangers-on at saloons for their agents, offering a liberal commission for all the women and girls who could be enticed from "side rooms," dance halls and similar resorts.

The traffic was carried on several days before the police secured convicting evidence, and then, just as the trap was to be sprung, the men fled the city.

AUTOISTS MUST BE SOBER.

That Is, if Senator McKee's Bill Becomes a Law.

Senator Wood McKee, of Passaic county, will, at the opening of the Legislature, introduce a bill relating to automobiling. One provision will have for its object the discouraging of the habit of drunken or partly drunken men running machines.

Any person found running an auto when intoxicated will be liable to summary arrest, and on conviction may be fined $1,000, sent to prison for three years, or both. Other provisions will be made for the licensing of chauffeurs.

May Wed Girl Again.

The friends of Ambrose B. Tremaine, of New York, who deserted his wife for a pretty manicure girl, deny that he has separated from the young woman. It was rumored that she is to begin a suit for the annulment of her carriage. The first Mrs. Tremaine is planning to begin a suit for divorce. The manicure, who was Miss Marie Thibedeaux, is said to have left Tremaine as soon as she learned that he had another wife. Tremaine's acquaintances declare that the girl will stick to him, and that, as soon as the first wife obtains her decree, she will remarry him.

Call Bellboy a Thief.

Edward O'Meara, aged twenty-two years, a bellboy in the Hotel Ballatin, at No. 70 West Forty-sixth street, New York, was arraigned yesterday charged with the theft of a $500 ring from Mrs. James Harriman, of Washington, a guest at the hotel. The police expect to fasten upon him, also, several other robberies in the Gallatain, including the stealing of a ring worth $350 from the apartment of a Mrs. Flower.

Kill Men for Science.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 27.—Murderers condemned legally to die should be made the subjects of medical and surgical experiment, in the opinion of Chancellor E. Benjamin Andrews, of Nebraska University. In an address at the National Prison Association's meeting he advocated the plan and suggested that criminals who might survive the operations and tests be given their freedom.

The Iron Brigade

A Story of the Army of the Potomac

By GEN. CHARLES KING

Copyright, 1902, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

In an instant Rosalie was on her feet. Only a second or two she stood there, quivering with excitement, then seized him by the arm. "Quick! Follow me," she whispered. Out into the broad landing she rushed, and to Benton's amaze, struck a light, threw open the lid of an old colonial desk that stood with its back against the wall between the doors of her own and her aunt's room, plumped him down into a chair, and scattered paper and envelopes in front of him. "Be writing your letters," she whispered command. Then away she sped, closed her door behind her just as the doctor's voice was again heard in the hall below.

Two minutes later, lantern bearing, the master of the house came slowly up the stairs, followed by the clinking boots of Maj. Lounsberry. Feigning surprise at such interruption, the union officer rose deliberately from his seat and confronted the two. They stopped short, and for a moment were speechless; then—

"As I told you, suh," said Dr. Chilton, with a bow of mock deference, to his unwelcome follower.

"As I—should have known," said Maj. Lounsberry, in prompt though unpalatable acceptance of the situation.

"The major, suh," said Dr. Chilton, to his guest, in pardonably magniloquent enjoyment of the situation, "required ocular demonstration that you had not taken unto yourself wings. I rejoice that we didn't have to disturb you in bed. Are you satisfied now, Major Lounsberry?

"Perfectly, Dr. Chilton." Then to Benton: "Since you do not care to sleep, sir, perhaps it will not incommode you to start at five."

"It would incommode the household, not me," answered Benton, calmly, yet wondering what he would do if ordered searched at the moment, for both those little tell-tale notes were now crumpled together in his hand. "Breakfast is ordered at 5:30, but—I am entirely at your service." Then placidly he turned and resumed his seat and pen. Once more the doctor ushered his visitor to the front door, ceremoniously bowed him out, regretting, he said, inability to offer him the hospitalities of his roof, for every room was taken, and then, tremulous with wrath, returned to Benton.

"I cannot fathom this, suh," said he. "That man gave me to understand he would be at Gawd'nsville to-night, and here at midnight comes prowling around my place like he was layin' a trap, suh. Mr. Benton, if there were any way in my power, suh, to get you out of that fella's clutches, I believe I'd do it—hyuh an' now!" and the gray haired physician sank into a chair.

"You can best serve me, doctor, by getting to bed and resting," was Benton's reply. "You need it, sir." And then, to the surprise of both, Rosalie's door opened and forth she came, candle in hand, her lustrous hair falling in ebony waves all down her back, her face pale but beautiful, and with quiet force she led the passive doctor from his seat to the stairway; escorted him to his room; talked with him quietly, soothingly a moment, and then, bidding him affectionate good night, came tripping lightly up the stairs.

But it was a transmogrified face that now met Benton's gaze. Flushed, eager, brimful of wrath and determination, she came straight to his side, for one moment too excited to speak, again the girl who had dared every peril the night she donned confederate uniform for the sake of—what?

"I owe everything to your quickness of wit," Benton began. "I should never have thought of this. I was going to jump into my blankets."

"And spoil everything!" said she, in deep disdain of such stupidity. "He would have seen and suspected at once. You, with your boots—in bed! Listen, now. They are riding away," and as she spoke the clanking of sabres and the squashing of hoofs in the soft, muddy side street told that Lounsberry's aggressive party was really on the move. She ran to a window and glanced out after them. Then, when they were surely out of earshot and the sound had died away on the night, once more she came to him, her eyes ablaze, her cheeks afire.

"And now if I had any compunction," she murmured fast, "it is gone! Of course I had striven that you should never suspect we aided you; and, had you gone at once, you never could have known. No, don't!" For here, with protestation on his lips and eager, outstretched hand, he stepped impulsively forward. "No—no! Listen, for there is no second to spare. The horses—your horses—will be back in a moment. Go without question! You should have been miles up toward the mountains now. I simply took a leaf out of that man's book. He planned to lure you to attempt to escape with creatures of his own waiting back of the barn. Then he was to overtake and arrest you, or they might have shot—I do not know. But they would have been badly fooled. They bribed Pomp to bring you his—her note, and he had to give it first to me. They were to wait beyond the barn, but we had horses right under your window. Then you delayed. They became impatient. Pomp gave warning in time to get the horses away. You know the rest. Now, are you ready?" And the brave eyes looked one instant gloriously into his.

"Ready?" he cried. "Ready but for one thing," and again and with burning eargerness he sprang forward, and again she recoiled, her hand uplifted; but he would not be denied. "You shall hear me, Rosalie," he murmured, hoarsely. "You must hear!" and one strong hand had seized the white, slender wrist. "I bless you and thank you, but more than all I love——"

"Hush! Silence!" she cried, adding imperative stamp of her little foot.

From the window of his room there came a pleading voice. In the soft glow of the candle light two rolling eyeballs and a double row of gleaming teeth were seen. It was Pomp, simian-like scaler of the lightning "rawd." "Miss Rosalie," he panted, "the horses is hyuh! The sojers done gone!"

"Now, Lieut. Benton," she cried, though her voice—her very form—was shaking. "If you mean to make a try for freedom, it's now or never!"

And when at dawn Lounsberry's guard came hammering at the door, they came too late—the bird had flown.

CHAPTHER XII.

"IN THE TEETH OF THE BRIGADE."

Once more the Badger-Hoosier brigade was swinging away southwestward. For the sixth time in less than a year the men of the "Black Hats" at the head of column had picked their way over the stone-ribbed pike, saying opprobious things of Virginia pathmasters. An impudent lot were these fellows in the imitation "Kossuths." Marvelously snappy and precise in drill, steady on parade, enduring on the march and reasonably respectful toward their officers (who were the only ones in the division to don and habitually wear the fulldress headgear of the regular service), the rank and file were blessed with not a little soldier skepticism as to the value or stability of other commands in and out of the brigade, and a calmly critical attitude toward officers other than those of their selection. They had not been over well content with their original field and staff, and, for lack of leaders of that rank, had become somewhat split up at first Bull Run, fighting sturdily all the same by company or squad to the fag end, and never knowing they were whipped when finally "herded" off the field. Now, however, they had men at their head—colonel, lieutenant-colonel and major—by whom they positively swore and on whose skill and valor they would have banked their last cent. Yet, with all their regard for these, their honored leaders, it must be owned the Black Hats gave them lots of trouble. They would guy the rest of the brigade and lord it generally over the whole division, only one other regiment of which had as yet faced the foe in battle. They had a curious defect of vision when "outside" officers happened along, and were forever being complained of as failing to "render honors," whereat they were heard on more than one occasion unblushingly to declare they saw, but didn't suppose the strangers could be officers. They were preternaturally keen sighted as sentries toward men of other regiments "running guard" or smuggling contraband of war, and were correspondingly blind when the culprit was of their own complexion. They were probably the best drilled and positively the worst hated regiment in the whole division—and relished one distinction quite as much as the other—when they were marching this third time on Manassas, and the little West Pointer in saddle at their head thanked God that at last he had them where, with work against a common foe, there was possibility of keeping them out of mischief.

Centreville had been passed, Bull Run recrossed, and Bristoe reached—a point beyond their previous explorations. Then back had they to go to meet a threatened raid on their railway communications, and, that matter settled, again they were trudging through the well-remembered wood roads when, as a turn of the way brought their foremost company in full view of the fine sweep of country off to the west, the gray-bearded colonel, for the time commanding the brigade, reined out to the right for a look at his men, and his tall, born-soldier of an adjutant rode alongside the black-bearded, dark-featured, stocky little leader of the Black Hats, pointed with his gauntletted hand to the blue curtain of the Bull Run range and remarked: "I'd give a good deal to know just what that fellow Jackson's doing behind that screen to-day."

"Why so?" asked O'Connor, shortly. "Shields licked him well at Kernstown. Ban's has turned his whole force back there. Blenker's big division has gone to reinforce them. Why, we've got enough men there to eat 'em alive—Jackson and all."

"First catch your rabbit," said the adjutant, musingly. "Old Stonewall knows every footpath in the valley—every path through the mountains. He'll trip Ban's and Fremont, sure's your born, colonel. Then we'll have a shy at him."

"May the Lord grant it," was the pious answer, as the colonel looked wistfully away toward the little rift in the dark ridge where, ten miles distant, lay Thoroughfare Gap, the best and shortest route to the Shenandoah—the gap through which four months later this same much-discussed and as yet little-known Jackson was with such fatal effect to pour his columns on the union flank and rear.

It was a moist afternoon. The men in the marching column, heavily burdened with bulging knapsack and double blanket and the long Springfield over their burly shoulders, whipped off their hats and swept the coat-sleeve over their dripping brows, peering curiously at the old colonel sitting sturdily in saddle and watching their array. A grim smile stole over his grizzled face as his own battalion came striding forth in the wake of the "Scoffing Second." Then the kindly eyes clouded with something like displeasure at sight of a tall, lanky civilian on a decrepit gray, riding with the lieutenant-colonel commanding. He had seen the man before many a mile from the spot and more than a week away. "How came you here?" he asked, as the civilian ambled out of the column and touched his worn hat-brim.

"My place is just over yahnduh, colonel. P'haps you doan' remember my comin' to you with a pass, back o' Fairfax," and the tall stranger looked confidently into the grizzled, sun-burned face. "Been in to Alexandria, yo' know, for supplies. Wagon went sho't cut by stone bridge."

Keenly studying the veteran's face, he suddenly added: "Ain't Col. Bayard's cavalry out there?"

THE ATONEMENT

Remington tossed his cigar stub into the grate and lighted a cigarette.

"I dont' know why I am telling you all this," he observed—"I was always one to contend against confidences."

He looked over at me in a half-quizzical, half-tentative way, as though unconsciously pleading for encouragement.

I waited a second before I spoke.

"And I am at a loss to understand why you haven't told me before, considering what good friends we've always been."

"There are some things that friendship doesn't touch at all," he responded, gravely.

"True enough. And on the other hand, there are many things—most things, I may say—that demand—"

"The solace of friendship?" he interrupted, a little satirically.

"The necessity of it."

"I fail to make any application in my particular case."

"At any rate, now that you've told some one, you are bound to admit that you feel better."

Remington shook his head dubiously.

"I couldn't swear to that," he returned, with a faint smile. "As long as the thing was a secret, it was mine to guard, to cherish as —"

"Yes; to hug to your breast like a vulture, eating the very vitals out of you."

"And do you think it is any the less so—now?" he asked, somewhat cynically.

"We shall see."

I regarded him almost hopelessly. I had never seen a fellow change so. Up to the time of his marriage, five or six years before, he was the jolliest, most open-hearted, ingenious boy I had ever known. The wedding took place in Ireland, and to an Irish girl. She was reputed to be beautiful. They lived together just three months. After the separation Remington was never the same.

No one ever knew the real cause of the rupture. Neither vouchsafed any explanation, and the public was too wise, for once, to invent one.

When he came back home everything he said to me was:

"Don't ask me any questions, Tom, I loved her—and I'm a heartbroken man."

Today for the first time he had given me his confidence.

"I think I can sympathize with you better than anyone else," I told him. "I appreciate your temperament thorough, and then—I am married myself. I know what it means to love a woman as you did that one."

"And it is your opinion that I was entirely blameless in the matter?"

"Absolutely."

"Mightn't there have been extenuating—"

"I don't admit anything of the sort."

"It was the one transgression."

"I don't take much more notice of arguments of that kind. In all probability the action was merely a text to her whole character."

Remington whitened at this, but said nothing. Then, after a pause—

"She was young—very young. I didn't give her a chance—not even half a chance. I don't believe she was guilty, after all!" he broke out suddenly. "But—perhaps you are right," he added presently, in a dull tone.

I looked at him closely. The expression on his face showed me that he had suffered and would continue to suffer as few men do.

"I can almost believe that you are still in love with the woman," I reflected, after a silence.

Remington, too, was silent for a time.

"At least," he remarked finally, "I shall never care for any other."

"Yet you divorced her," I observed, curiously.

"My entire course was marked out by impulse—fierce, passionate. Had I loved her less things might have been—different."

"With your quixotic notions, you ought to have lived several centuries ago."

Remington made no reply, but sat for a long time, gazing with strange eyes into the bed of pink and purple coals.

"Have you a picture of your—of her?" I asked, presently.

"Not one; I burned them all—then."

As he spoke he pulled out his watch and started to his feet with a little gesture of surprise.

"You mustn't think of leaving without seeing my wife," I objected, laying a protesting hand on his arm. "I want you to meet her; I want you to see what admirable taste I have in selecting a companion. We've been married just one year, and I think I can truthfully say that she has proven my ideal of a perfect woman."

Remington smiled and passed a reflective hand across his forehead.

"It's easy enough to see how the wind is blowing in your household," he laughed.

We smoked away in silence for several minutes, and presently the door opened and my wife softly entered the room.

She wore a dinner gown of pretty pale yellow stuff that fell about her in graceful scallops and made a faint, musical swish as she moved. In the semi-dark her bare shoulders gleamed like snow, and the pendant of her necklace rose and fell almost imperceptibly on her white bosom with each gently taken breath.

As she came forward into the light toward us, Remington stood up and acknowledged my introduction with a low bow. When he lifted his face it was the color of ashes, and man seemed to have aged ten years, in the ghostly glare of the fire.

My wife had left the room to give some order about the dinner, and Remington turned to me with an abrupt excuse for leaving.

"You will make my apologies to your wife, old man? I'm positively ill—too ill to keep up much longer. Fact is, I've been feeling knocked out all day, and wouldn't give in. When I feel better, I shall be glad to drop in on you both some time again."

But we did not see him again. Two days later he wrote me, stating that his regiment had been ordered away.

Several months after leaving London, Remington wrote the following letter:

"Dear Old Tom—I've been intending to drop you a line ever since my departure, but first one thing and then another coming up, I've kept putting it off.

"I do not need to remind you of the conversation we had on that last night at your house. Do you remember all I told you about her? You will recall that I was more than half inclined to condemn my own action all the way through. Well, since then certain facts have come to my knowledge establishing her complete innocence beyond the question of a doubt.

"God! how I've suffered! But it is too late now for me to make any reparation. She is married again—married to one of the finest fellows I know.

"If you ever should chance to run across her, I want you to remember that she is innocent. My only atonement must consist in proving her stainless before the world. Sincerely yours,

"REMINGTON."

Any my wife, with her pretty Irish brogue, says she pities my friend, Remington.—N. C. G., in Illustrated Bits.

CANDIDATE REFUSES TO RUN.

So Democrats Will Be an Assemblyman Short.

Elizabeth, Oct. 27.—The Union county Democratic leaders were taken by surprise last night, when former School Commissioner Paul J. Marz, of Elizabeth, a nominee for Assembly, sent them word that he would positively not run. A lively scurrying was made for another candidate, and today Nicholas Feid, a German merchant tailor of Elizabeth, consented to fill the vacancy.

It is said, however, that, according to law, his acceptance is too late, as yesterday was the last day for the filing of names of candidates, so, if such is the case, the Democrats will have only two Assembly nominees on the ticket on November 7, where there should be three.

FOR PRACTICAL MAN ON TENEMENT-HOUSE BOARD

STATE MASTER BUILDERS' ASSOCIATION DELEGATES WANT BUILDERS LICENSED

Delegates representing the Master Builders' Association of New Jersey, in their tenth quarterly convention held at Jersey City, took up two special questions and referred them to the legislative committee, with power to act.

One of these questions involves the personnel of the present Tenement-house Commission. It was said that none of the present commissioners is a mechanic or a practical builder. The builders, it was pointed out, want at least one, if not more, of the members to be practical.

"Often there comes up," said one of the members, "the question of building on peculiar and at the same time valuable property. It would be impossible to strictly adhere to the tenement-house regulations. Not having any practical men on the commission we cannot put the information in such a way that concessions can be secured. If we had a practical man on the commission this would be an easy matter."

Another question referred to the legislative committee is that of preparing a bill for presentation to the next Legislature requiring builders to be licensed the same as plumbers. It is contended that this is necessary to keep out of the ranks of master builders incompetent and irresponsible men. This bill is already under way.

Following the deliberations of the delegates a banquet was served by the members of the Master Carpenters' Association of Hudson County. Before the banquet, Mayor Mark M. Fagan made an address of welcome and was enthusiastically cheered. Before adjourning it was decided to hold the next convention at Perth Amboy in January.

Banks-Davis.

The marriage of Miss Emma W. Davis to John Banks, both of this city, was performed by Rev. F. D. Tildon at his home Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The bride was attended by Miss Nancy Mason.

Fire in Senator Dryden's Home.

The residence of United States Senator John F. Dryden, at 1020 Broad street, Newark, was threatened by fire early last night. A servant discovered a blaze in the furnace room in the basement. She tried to battle with the flames, but without success. The fire department was summoned. It extinguished the blaze before it reached the first floor, in which paintings, rare bric-a-brac and other articles worth many thousand dollars are kept. The family is at Bernardsville. The loss was about $1,000.

HALLOWE'EN COTILLION.

If you are a society girl you can insure your guests an ideal evening's entertainment in a Hallowe'en cotillion. What to Eat describes such an affair as follows:

Have a ghost figure for your Hallowe'en cotillion. The girls don sheet and pillow case masks and the men choose them. Unmask at close of figure. For a candle figure, let the girls hold lighted candles aloft and the men try to blow out the flames. Have a lantern figure using the toy Jack-o'-lanterns. In the "bobbing for apples" figure, use sawdust or finely cut tissue paper instead of water in the tubs. For the mirror figure, have the girls eat apples before mirrors, the men waltzing up behind them. Bring the favors into the ballroom in a toy automobile. Have tiny automobiles, Jack-o'-lanterns, skeletons, ghosts, candy, fruits, black cats, bats and spiders. Serve your ice cream in shapes of witches with broomsticks. Paint all the electric light globes with grotesque faces and decorate with imitation cobwebs, bats, witches and other signs of bad luck.

—Arthur Weaver, of Grove street, who has been detained at home six weeks with inflammatory rheumatism, is able to be out again.

The Young People's service at Bethel chapel will hereafter be held on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Scheuer's 45th Anniversary Sale

45 YEARS OF STEADY, UNINTERRUPTED SUCCESS——A MAGNIFICENT RECORD!

NONE BUT PUREST, FRESHEST, BEST, WHOLESOME FOODS!

Way back in 1860, the first Scheuer Store was planted! Today it's reached a marvelous growth: in place of one, there are over thirty go ahead Scheuer Stores throughout this and other States, representing one of the greatest retail grocery enterprises in America today! Success like this is no "mystery" but the outcome of popular liberal common sense methods applied to fit the needs and purses of the people.

1st—Scheuer's have always run cash stores! There are no costly "credit losses" to be charged up to cash patrons! 2d—Scheuer's always buys direct from grower and producer. No middle profit for us to pay or charge for! 3d—Scheuer's ways are so straight, and prices are so clearly marked that a youngster can buy with same safety as a grown-up! 4th—Scheuer's generosity in giving away the valuable Red Star Stamps as premiums for cash trade has never been equalled! 5th—"Small Profits, Quick Sales," our motto ever since we started! And now we're "celebrating" all this success with the most remarkable commotion in price cutting on famous and worthy goods that ever touched town, a sale you'll long remember as the sensation of the year! Come, look, buy—and big savings will be yours!

GRATEFUL TO DR. COLES

Newark Orphan Asylum Association Expresses Thanks For His Generosity.

THE HOME A GIFT

Managers Report that "the Joy that His Offer Brought Cannot Be Told"—Asylum at Mountainside.

Warm tributes of praise were given Dr. J. Ackerman Coles at the fifty-eighth anniversary meeting of the Newark Orphan Asylum Association, held in the institution, at High and Bleeker streets, Newark, yesterday afternoon, for his generosity to the little inmates in providing for them a summer home at Westfield. This is the first public meeting of the association since his gift was made, and in the annual report of the secretary, Mrs. Newton A. Merritt, the appreciation of the managers for his munificence was expressed. The exercises included, besides the reading of the annual reports, songs and recitations by the children and an address by David B. Corson, assistant superintendent of the public schools.

During the year nineteen children have been admitted to the home, and fourteen have been placed out in private homes, most of them for adoption. Mrs. Merritt reported that the managers were hoping in the future to be able to keep the children longer that it has been the custom. Hitherto the children have been sent out at twelve years, and this age, the managers feel, is too young for the little ones to be turned out. The secretary added that ten of the children in the home had not a friend outside of the institution, so far as the managers know. Her report was in part as follows:

"In looking back fifty-eight years we see a little band of women forming themselves into a society with Christianity for its corner-stone, strong with heart and hand to alleviate the suffering of a few children who had been left without the protecting care of father or mother. Of these noble women of fifty-eight years ago, only one remains with us today. Mrs. Daniel P. Kidder is living, and rejoices in the ripe old age of ninety years. The memory of those others, now dead, inspires those who are carring on this noble work, with self-sacrificing love and zeal.

"Of all the fifty-eight years, the past year has been the most eventful to us as a society. Should you turn back to your report of one year ago, you would see that while writing that report, with the wish uppermost in the heart of the writer that our children might in some way, unknown to us then, have privilege of more space, more air, more trees and more grass, there was put into my hands a letter containing the offer of a house and farm of twenty acres, well supplied with fruit and shade trees. The offer was from a lifelong friend of the home, Dr. J. Ackerman Coles. The surprise, the joy that this offer brought cannot be told."

Continuing, the secretary told of Dr. Coles' generosity in helping to furnish the Westfield home, and of the progress made in the erection by him of two wings to the summer place. Mention was also made of a gift of $1,000 by the Young Ladies' Guild to buy furnishings. Mrs. Merritt spoke, too, of the new barn, which is to contain a workroom for the boys, and of the renovations made in the High street home during the absence of the children in the summer. She reviewed the treats given the children in the past year, both in Newark and at Mountainside, and mentioned specifically the work done by the different committees.

THANKSGIVING DAY NOVEMBER 23 OR 30?

There is always some doubt about what day will be selected for Thanksgiving when the last Thursday falls on the 30th of November. The calendar-makers generally select the Thursday preceding the 30th on such years, and most of the calendars contain a statement qualifying the day selected for the red letter, saying, "subject to proclamation." The last time that the last Thursday fell on the 30th that day was chosen for Thanksgiving, though many wanted the 23d chosen because that would leave about a month between Thanksgiving and Christmas. The President's proclamation will not be issued until early in November. The State proclamation is generally issued about the end of the first week in November, and it is probable that the matter will not be decided any earlier this year, though there is a great deal of curiosity to find out as early as possible.

A great many families have reunions on Thanksgiving, and vacations have to be arranged for weeks in advance, especially in widely scattered families.

Storekeepers who want to make special displays for Thanksgiving do not like the uncertainty with a whole week of a margin, and the majority would like to have the earlier date selected because it makes a distinct holiday season separated from Christmas by a whole month instead of three weeks. This is better for business.

Custom covers the date of Thanksgiving. It was Lincoln who made the last Thursday of November an annual holiday, and since his time Presidents and governors have followed his example. The governors wait, as a rule, until the President has issued his proclamation before issuing theirs, for the President's proclamation is only effective in the United States service and reservations. It requires the governor's proclamation to make a bank holiday that will add a day to all promissory notes falling due on the day selected. This is a matter of interest to many.

President Roosevelt will issue his proclamation in a day or two after he returns from his Southern trip next week, then suspense will end and all will know whether Thanksgiving Day will be November 23 or November 30.—Jersey City Journal.

FATHER'S SLAYER FREED.

Young Man Was Fondly Embraced by His Mother.

William Bevins, who shot his father, George Bevins, while in the act of defending the lives of his mother and sister on his houseboat a week ago, was yesterday exonerated by the Mercer County Grand Jury at Trenton.

The facts attending the shooting were presented before the Grand Jury by Prosecutor Crossley exactly as other cases were presented, and before being discharged for the term yesterday morning refused to order an indictment.

Following this negative action of the Grand Jury, Prosecutor Crossley appeared before Judge Reilstrab and asked for the release of Bevins. The court granted the petition and Bevins is a free man.

He was joined by his sisters, and later by his mother, as he went down the court room aisle. The women were dressed in black, and they were in tears. The sight was very affecting as mother and sisters embraced him on his release.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

A, B, C MATRIMONY.

The following are extracts from the "Matrimonial Primer," by V. B. Ames, just published by Paul Elder & Company, San Francisco:

A is for Announcement.

How beautiful is love! How perfect it seems, with all its illusions, delusions and dreams.

B is the Bride.

Don't be a valet to your husband.

C is the Ceremony.

Probably you intend your wife to have some money; it might be conducive to intelligent expenditure if she knew the amount.

D is for Devil, Dakota or Divorce—or for Duty.

Don't be satisfied with just keeping the wife—keep her love, by about the same method used in winning it.

E is for Ever, as Each fondly thinks.

Perfect frankness as to your financial standing will remove the temptation of secret expenditures for your own and extravagant ones for your wife's pleasure.

F is for Flowers, Fortune, Faith.

To desire your wife's happiness amounts to mighty little, unless you are willing it shall be accomplished in her way.

G is the Groom.

Two positive matrimonial opinions are apt to have a negative effect on harmony.

H is for Heaven, Home, Happiness.

If you married your husband without compulsion be his companion without reservation.

I is a lonely pronoun.

Many a man has won a woman's love and later lost her respect. To keep the latter is always the finer and more vital accomplishment.

J is for Jars, Jangles.

A woman can easily overdraw on her husband's sympathy; it is one of his short assets.

K is Kisses—also Kitchen.

Try and appear conscious that the domestic machinery is running smoothly before the opposite condition arrives.

L is for Love.

For a wife who whines, or a husband who sneers, there is no sort of marital salvation.

M is for Money, Mother-in-Law,
Millions, Mistake.

Of course, your wife has flowers every day if you smoke more than one El Sidelo.

N is for Now—the appointed time.

Did you really have foremost in your mind, and at heart, the woman's happiness when you married?

O is the Optimism.

Be entertaining to your husband, or some other woman will.

P is the General Public.

Beat your wife in private, but don't mortify her in public.

Q begins the Quarrel.

Adjust your mood to that of your mate, but don't ever expect him to reciprocate.

R introduces Relatives.

If a woman's people are distasteful to you you better not make them relatives, unless you contemplate the field of foreign missions.

S is for Solemn Silences.

Devotion of the genuine brand will make wrinkle remedies and rouge a drug on the market.

T is for Truth.

Not two wives in a thousand but that are absolutely true in thought and deed; but, being women, masculine attentions are dearer than myrhh and sweet incense.

U is the Union—Unison of soul.

Wear whatever your husband gives you, even if it is a candlestick for your back hair.

V stands for the Virtues.

Be sure that your husband carries each day the impression that he left at home that morning the most charming, cheery, freshly-gowned woman in the city.

W is for Woman, Wine—Woe, Wife,
Work and Weal.

If your selected your wife because of her style don't growl when the styles change.

X is for the Ten you lost just when the coal in the bin was low.

Elevate your husband's sports by participating in them.

Y is for Youth.

It lingers long where love doth dwell.

Z is for Zoo.

Compound your interests daily,
Subtract all fear and doubt;
Multiply your joys, add more love;
The sum's worth figuring out.

EVENINGS FOR "HIM."

This is a little "heart-to-hear" talk with the woman who keeps no servant. She does not deliberately wish the sordidness of housework to interfere with the pleasure she and her husband found in each other's society when they were first married. Yet, as duties multiply, she finds it less possible now to spend her evenings with him. The dinner dishes must be washed, and there is no one but herself to do them. Perhaps there is a baby or two to be put to bed. The biggest part of her evening is given to these things. Meanwhile "he" has finished his paper in the sitting room. Tired of sitting alone, he has gone out, or yawned and gone to bed, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

In this way the only opportunity they have for being together and developing the intimacy marriage was only meant to begin is thrown away. This is their chance to ripen love and deepen affection into an abiding friendship. And they are not using the chance!

Ask yourself, little wife, if this is not your fault? You are to blame if you are letting a mistaken zeal for housekeeping come before higher needs. It is more important that your husband should see you in a pretty dress, ready to spend the largest part of the evening with him, than it is that the dishes should be washed. Yes, it is! I know that sounds like heresy to the ears of a "good housekeeper," but I know, too, that many a "perfect housekeeper" has spoiled an affectionate companionable wife.

When a man of the right sort marries he wants companionship. It won't worry him to have the dishes stacked in a pan of water till morning. He will love his wife better for it. I have heard domestic, home-loving men beg their wives to "let the dishes go" and come share the evening with them; and I have seen the good ladies look aghast at the idea, and hasten out in the kitchen in housewifely indignation, to putter a precious hour away over lifeless cups and saucers and plates. Many a woman has realized too late the sad mistake she has been making in this respect.

It is necessary that the long days should be spent apart, at your different work. But the evenings should bring you together to develop the heartside of life. An atmosphere of quiet and leisure should prevail. Your husband should find his house a "home," pervaded with the restful presence of those he loves. No one but you can bring this to pass. But you can do it, if you will let dishes go until morning, and have the babes trained to shut their drowsy little eyes early in the evening.

Try it. It may not work well at first, but try it persistently. It may be the very thing your husband silently hungers for. If he does not, you can teach him to hunger for it. It rests with you.

LAWSON'S OPEN LETTER TO JOHN A. M'CALL

From "Lawson and His Critics," in November "Everybody's."

Sir—It is time your attention was called to the moral sense of the American people. * * * It is time you were shown yourself as you are today seen by the millions of your countrymen who, a month ago, believed you to be a great and honorable man.

In spite of the terrible exposures of the past few weeks, * * * in spite of the unveiling of the jugglery, trickery and corruption of your administration of the most sacred trust that can be confided to man, you remain unconvinced of your fall and unpenetrated by your shame, * * * forgetting that the enemy against whom you manoeuvres were directed was the American people and that * * * your character and reputation were as absolutely before the bar as though you had been indicted for sequestration of the funds of some dead man's wife.

* * * You have made yourself the custodian of these funds under sacred pledge of square dealing and safe and honest administration. You have made yourself the national executor * * * of the widow and the orphan. * * * Hundreds of millions of dollars have been confided to you annually—half the savings of the nation have been turned into your coffers. * * *

With this money you have been rigging syndicates, debauching legislatures, juggling judges, manipulating stock markets—even corrupting the franchise. Instead of employing the vast power and the immense wealth entrusted to you to conserve the interests of your policy holders, you have made yourself a part of the cruel robbing machine which the "System" has created to deprive the American people of their savings. * * * Yet today you describe the investigation being conducted into your operations as an impertinence, * * * you are unrepentant, unashamed and defiant.

One year ago, in Everybody's Magazine, I said:

"The officers, trustees and officials of the 'Big Three' life insurance companies have been and are systematically robbing their policy holders. They are thieves—mean, contemptible thieves."

I gave specific instances of their thieveries.

You replied, not by haling me to court, but by:

Circulating throughout the world documents by the millions, disparaging my reputation by advertisements and "news" and "editorial" statements from your subsidized insurance press, denying my charges and attacking my character, all at the expense of hundreds of thousands of dollars of your policy holders' money.

You employed James M. Beck, ex-assistant attorney general of the United States, then and now chief attorney for Henry H. Rogers, the Standard Oil Company, the "System" and the Mutual Life Insurance Company, to ridicule my utterances and asperse my honor in addresses in the cities of Philadelphia and Boston.

You employed James H. Eckels, ex-comptroller of the currency of the United States, now president of the Commercial Bank, and representative of the "System" in the west, to attack my arguments and distort my motives in Chicago.

You ordered Vice President Perkins, of the New York Life Insurance Company, to perform similar service in Philadelphia; and

The burden of all these documents, advertisements and disguised advertisements and addresses was: "Lawson is an unmitigated liar and scoundrel, whose sole reason for attacking the insurance companies is that we refused him insurance."

Today you and your fellow plunderers stand convicted in the eyes of the whole world not only of juggling the moneys of the widow and the orphan in the stock market, but of manipulating these trust funds for the benefit of your own pockets. * * *

Notwithstanding the turpitude already exposed to the people you still imagine you can so conduct yourself as to prevent the investigators from fastening on you and your associates the more desperate crimes that have been committed in the past—the 150 to 200 millions stolen and diverted or used in corruption. * * *

I have been authorized in writing by over 16,000 policy holders, carrying over fifty-four millions of insurance, to act for them.

I had intended to await the finish of the New York investigation before proceeding, but as I have had placed in my hands during the past few days evidences of the determination of yourself and your accomplices and fellow conspirators to face it out regardless of consequences, and as I believe men capable of committing the crimes that have been proved during the past few days are fully capable of taking the transportable part of the billion and a quarter funds to foreign countries, and of using them to keep themselves from their justly deserved punishments, I have decided to act now. * * *

THOMAS W. LAWSON.

LITERARY.

His Grace the Duke of Argyll (brother-in-law of Edward VII.) contributes to the November number of The Smart Set a long poem entitled "The Three Little Africanders," which is delightfully humorous. The ventures of royalty into literature are always interesting, and this contribution by His Grace will be read by everyone. The Countess of Winchelsea is also represented in this issue by a short poem of distinct merit. "The Game and the Candle," by a new writer of great promise, Frances Davidge, is the novelette which opens the November number. It presents a fine picture of modern New York society, and the plot, hinging upon the marriage of a young man of wealth and station to a girl almost wholly lacking in culture, is engrossing. The author's pen is delightfully epigrammatic and satirical, and she knows thoroughly the life of which she writes.

David Belasco has given his views on "The Art of Acting" to the world in the November issue of Appleton's Booklovers Magazine. It comes somewhat as a shock to hear that master of subtle emotions and delicate shades of feeling decry temperament in favor of such externals as voice, gesture, and presence. Mr. Belasco quotes Hamlet's instructions to the players as his authority, and makes it clear that ever since the initial play was performed playwrights and managers have met the same difficulties in securing the interpretation of their thought. The player must feel, says Mr. Belasco, as otherwise it would be impossible for him to express, but to the audience he must be a picture of the emotion he is expressing, rather than an individual expressing the emotion in his individual way.

Pearson's Magazine for November contains an unusual collection of bright short stories and clever articles for the long indoor evenings. First, there is Lawrence Perry's deep-sea story, "The Duel of Two Ocean Tramps," a tale of storm and stress and spume and the creaking of iron hulls and men's consciences. "The Shirker" is a capital Esquimaux Dog yarn, full of the human interest that has made Kipling's animals immortal. "The Great Seal of England" is an exciting link in the "Burglars' Club" series; just as "How Kid Brady Broke Training" is a vivid chain in the new gentleman prize-fighter character, who appears now and then in this magazine. Then, there is our bandit friend, "Don Q.," and three other stories; a ghost story, an automobile story, and a funny story about George Harlis—Charles Battell Loomis' new character. Besides, there are six special articles: one on Richard Mansfield; another, "The American Diplomat in Foreign Eyes;" "A Sailor of Fortune" and "The Story of the Y. M. C. A." "Night in a Marconi station" is a vivid pen picture of the work among chained lightning in the interior of that most holy of holies—a wireless station. "The Casualty Roll of Peace" will interest you, perhaps even more than anything else. Read this, by Rene Bache, the juggler of statistical figures into stories. You will be interested.

Theodore Roosevelt's second article describes a very different sort of hunting and country from that dealt with in "A Colorado Bear Hunt" in the October number of Scribner's Magazine. In this he describes the hunting of the coyote with a pack of hounds, riding at full speed over the flats and great rolling prairies. There is the same frank enjoyment of the vigorous exercise and exhilaration of the chase, and spirit of comradeship with the guides and other members of the hunting party. Among the guides was the famous wolf hunter Abernethy, who catches coyotes and even large wolves alive with his hands. The article is a distinctly valuable contribution to natural history, and contains a great deal of special information accumulated during the author's many hunting expeditions in the West. The illustrations are from photographs by Dr. Lambert and W. Sloan Simpson, who were with the expedition. In this number begins F. Hopkinson Smith's serial story, "Tides of Barnegat." Nothing that Mr. Smith has done heretofore is more full of vigorous manhood, broad sympathy, humor and pathos than this fine story, the scene of which, as is evident by the title, is laid on the New Jersey coast. The illustrations, which will be printed in tint, are George Wright.

Frederick Trevor Hill, the author of "The Accomplice," "The Case and Exceptions," and other books, has just completed work on a series of articles to be called "Lincoln the Lawyer," which The Century will print, beginning in December. Notwithstanding the fact that Lincoln's practice as a lawyer extended over twenty-four years, his achievement as a statesman so transcended his legal accomplishment that his chief biographers have necessarily given but brief space to his experience as a lawyer. Mr. Hill's articles are largely based upon the examination of court records and other personal investigations in the old Eighth Illinois Circuit, over which Lincoln traveled. Mr. Hill has had the assistance of Robert T. Lincoln, Robert R. Hitt, Judge Lawrence Weldon, and many members of the bar and officers of the Illinois Historical Society.

KEAN LAYS THE DUST.

Chauffeurs Angry, Declaring That Crude Oil Rots Tires.

The haze of dust which has hovered over the roads of this county for the past three weeks, as a result of the high speed at which automobiles are driven, has become especially annoying to United States Senator John Kean, whose home, Ursino, on Morris avenue, is on the direct road leading from Springfield to Elizabeth, and a favorite roads for chauffeurs to speed their machines. He has adopted the plan of sprinkling the roadway with a preparation of crude oil for the purpose of keeping the dust down.

This has aroused the ire of the automobile owners who have occasion to come down that thoroughfare. They declare that the oil on the road has a tendency to rot the tires. At any rate, the plan has proven a success in keeping down the dust.

LAKEWOOD'S OPENING.

The season at Lakewood, beginning gradually after October 1st, is in full swing a month later and extends to the first of June. Situated in the pine belt of New Jersey, Lakewood is noted for the warm and healthful atmosphere tinctured with the aromatic odor of the woods which renders its autumn and winter climate sr delightful. Although nine miles from the ocean, the climatic influence of the Gulf Stream is readily discernible, and a uniform stratum of beach sand which unedrlies the soil affords a perfect drain for the surface water so that dampness is never to be encountered. The character of the soil also makes the roads well adapted for horseback riding, which is one of the most popular of the many outdoor recreations. The principal driveway girds the banks of Lake Carasaljo. A line of beautiful villas commands one side of the lake, while on the other the forest is supreme, and throughout the entire drive one catches glimpses of enchanting stretches of water between the pines. The famous Cathedral Drive is a narrow path through the silence of the "druid wood." The excellent railroad service brings Lakewood within easy reach of New York, so that the distance of sixty miles from the metropolis is no more than a requisite insulation against the Wall street atmosphere. An interesting booklet on Lakewood recently published by the Central Railroad of New Jersey may be had free of charge by applying to C. M. Burt, G. P. A., New Jersey Central, 143 Liberty Street, New York City.

Next Sunday's New York World.

How would you like to go and look at a million dollars? You can—at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. At least, you can see ten remarkable art objects worth that sum—the most valuable ten art treasures in the world. How near John D. Rockefeller came to being kidnapped by Pat Crowe is told by the great kidnapper himself. Besides, a tale of an unusual kind of a golden wedding, the story of a romance that will interest you whether you're romantic or not; something about a wonderful woman lion tamer, an educated man who is doing housework, a story by O. Henry and many other features go to make next Sunday's New York World a most entertaining number.

Still More Improvements Arranged by the New Jersey Central.

To further facilitate travel between the Jersey Central's new Twenty-third Street Ferry and points uptown, and particularly the Grand Central Station, the management has arranged with the Metropolitan Street Railway to operate through cars between the West Twenty-third Street Ferry and the Grand Central Station. The first car leaves either end at 7:30 a. m. and runs on a four minute headway until 7:00 p. m. This is a great convenience for persons going north and east via the New York Central and New Haven roads, and will no doubt be greatly appreciated by the Jersey Central's traveling patrons.

Newark's Hallowe'en Festival.

Newark is ready for its first Hallowe'en festival, which is to be held Tuesday night next. A committee made up of well known business men and city officials which for the last several weeks has been making arrangements has practically finished its work. The "spirits" revel in Newark, it is expected, will be enlivened as it never was before. Fifteen thousand masked paraders are expected to be in line. Business will be suspended from 5 o'clock Tuesday night until the streets have been cleared of the merrymakers.

Prosperity at Pennington.

At the October meeting of the board of trustees of Pennington Seminary, Pennington, a prosperous state of affairs in that institution was disclosed. The number of students already enrolled for the year was 175, an increase of more than 50 per cent. over last year. More than $52,000 has been subscribed toward paying the debt of $60,000, while the endowment fund is steadily increasing. A hearty vote of confidence in and approvel of President Moore was adopted.

"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abscess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as a bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply Mr. and Mrs. James, Embury Ave., care Hiller, Ocean Grove, N. J. JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Playing a Political Tune.

With a multi-millionaire running for State Senator in Warren county on a Colby platform, Johnston Cornish will hardly be able to devote much attention to the organ business this fall if he expects to go to Trenton as a representative of the people.—Mount Holly Herald.

Newspapers Backing Colby.

The Republican press of Essex county is, without an exception, in favor of the election of Everett Colby, candidate for State Senator; Frank Sommer, candidate for sheriff; Edward S. Perry, candidate for register, and every candidate on the ticket with them. So also is every independent paper. The Democratic press would make trouble for those candidates and create a real breach in the party if it could. But it cannot. Neither can it prevent thousands of Democrats from voting for Mr. Colby.—Orange Journal.

Can "Tap" Jim Smith.

The county Republican committee of Hudson is said to have decided to give no part of the funds of that organization to Mr. Fagan for campaign purposes. If this is true, Mr. Fagan cannot reasonably find fault with the committee because he has informed it that he is able to get along without it; and if James Smith, Jr., is as good to him as he was when he ran for Mayor of Jersey City the first time, he will probably be able to do so.—Trenton State Gazette.

A Political Coward.

For a man who is too cowardly to trust his popularity and his public esteem to the test of a primary to afterward strive to force himself on the ticket regardless of the expressed wishes of the people, is, as we have said before, nothing less than the act of a political coward.—Paterson Call.

Mitigating Circumstances.

A Camden jury aequitted of the charge of highway robbery a defendant who testified that he had only taken his own money from a man who had won it from him at crap shooting and afterward taunted him because of his loss. Judge Joline charged that it was unlawful for one to recover possession of money lost in gambling, except by due process of law, but the jurors found that the prisoner had no intention of committing a crime, possibly regarding the taunt as a mitigating circumstance.—Trenton Times.

Black a Humorist.

Want-to-be-Governor Black is a humorist. The funniest thing the political paragraphers have written this fall is not half so funny as that one sentence in Black's opening speech: "It is the mission of the Democratic party to elevate the standards of public life."—Elizabeth Journal.

Prosperity of the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

The fifty-first annual report of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, the details of which have already been made known through the public press, shows a state of prosperity, which should be gratifying to any one interested in the welfare of the company.

The property was fully maintained during the year, and in addition, many substantial improvements were made in the matter of equipment, stone ballast, constructing and extending yards and side tracks, rebuilding bridges, etc., in line with the policy of the present management to keep the property up to the highest standard of efficiency in operation and earning power.

Among the important items of construction are the new shops at Sayre, now practically completed, and placed in partial operation. The operation of these shops will aid very largely in minimizing the expense of repairs to equipment, and thus result in a saving to the company.

The policy of the company to enter new fields for traffic and thus enlarge its scope of operation, is shown in the movement of building branch lines to manufacturing and shipping points not heretofore reached conveniently, where this construction can be done at reasonable expense. A branch line was constructed during the year from Elizabeth, N. J., to Irvington, a distance of about three miles, and a large freight house and coal pockets built at Irvington. This line will be a source of a large traffic increase from the growing district which it serves.

Work has also been done to improve terminal conditions at Tifft Farm, in Buffalo, which gives increased and improved facilities under the control of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, for the expeditious and more economical handling of its increasing tonnage.

Work of a similar nature has also been done at other points, with a view to increasing traffic. During the year fifty-two new industries were located along the line, and track connection made with forty-two of them.

The commercial growth of the country and the opportunities for industrial development of the territory served by the Lehigh Valley Railroad, the progressive methods of the management of the company, its increasing business and net earnings, make it a line of importance in eastern railway affairs.

Richard Carle, the Playwright, Starring in His Farcical Opera Success, "The Mayor of Tokio," at the New Plainfield Theatre Tonight.

AMUSEMENTS.

Caecilia Rhode, leading comedienne in support of Richard Carle with "The Mayor of Tokio," which is at the New Plainfield theatre tonight, is the young woman who was recently sued $1,000 by Dr. Wm. Pratt, of Chicago. The physisian alleged that he had changed the color of Miss Rhoda's eyes from a greenish gray to a soft dark brown by the employment of a composition of radium. Miss Rhoda admitted the hue of her eyes was changed by Dr. Pratt, but not to the color agreed upon which was black. She, therefore, refused to settle his bill. The physician filed suit last week in the superior court in Chicago. Physicians, particularly oculists, are awaiting with great interest the trial of the case, as it involves a new scientific discovery if Dr. Pratt really employed a radium compound in changing the color of Miss Rhoda's eyes.

It takes an exceptionally strong dramatic attraction to survive the seasons, with the discriminating press and public of today, but when a play can look back over three seasons of phenomenal business and still not show the slightest indication of waning popularity, it shows that same discriminating press and public "to sit up and take notice." That it the record of "Oue Night in June," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night. It is without doubt the strongest attraction which will visit our city this season. The play is pastoral in style, but contains many striking situations and startling climaxes. Its theme is an old one, the innocent girl and unscrupulous man, but is deftly handled by its author, who keeps the heart interest constantly in prominence. The lovers of comedy are not forgotten either for a rich vein of mirth permeates the play. The characters are faithfully drawn from life, and show many interesting types. Magnificent scenic and electrical effects and beautiful gowns add to the ensemble. Miss Susette Willey, widely known as one of the cleverest emotional actresses heads the cast of metropolitan artists. Miss Willey and the number one company will positively appear at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night.

For genuine novelties in stage mechanics and in the business of the play it is doubtful if in recent years there has been presented a melodrama which contains more than Hal Reid's latest effort "A Runaway Boy," in which America's greatest boy actor, Joseph Santley, is being starred this season by Manager Max H. Meyers. The production itself is a most elaborate one built by Bernard MacDonald and painted by Otto Amsbruster, of the Broadway theatre, New York city. There are four acts in the play and each is replete with novelties. The third act shows a big circus in full operation, the performance going on. The stellar role, Harry Reynolds, is said to fit the star exceedingly well, and to offer him an exceptional opportunity to display his talents. "A Runaway Boy" is to come to the New Plainfield theatre Monday night.

Scene in "A Runaway Boy" at the New Plainfield Theatre Monday Night.

White Squaws Close Pow-wow.

Long Branch, Oct. 27—The eighth annual convention of the Degree of Pocahontas, the woman's branch of the Red Men of New Jersey, closed a two days' session here late yesterday afternoon The Great Chiefs were raised to their respective stumps by Great Junior Sagamore Joseph aFrrier, acting as Great Incohonee, who also conferred the honors of Past Great Pocahontas on Mrs. Harriet S. Whitmore, of Red Bank, the present Great Keeper of Wampum. A new constitution was adopted and Trenton was fixed as the permanent meeting place.

WOULD MARRY HIS 70-YEAR-OLD AUNT

NEPHEW, AT FORTY, APPLIES FOR DISPENSATION TO WED RELATIVE.

Stamford, Conn., Oct. 27.—William Stokes, of Sprice street, has asked the Rev. James C. O'Brien, pastor of St. John's Catholic church, for a dispensation to permit him to marry his aunt, Mrs. Margaret Malloy, of 26 Spruce street. Stokes is forty years old and twice a widower. Mrs. Malloy is more than seventy.

The announcement that a dispensation had been asked for followed a report that the couple were married Sunday.

Mrs. Malloy, at her home, blushed when asked if she were a bride. She would not say yes or no.

"Come around in about two weeks and I will be better able to answer the question," she said. "Or maybe you had better see Mr. Stokes."

Mr. Stokes could not be found.

Mrs. Malloy is the mother of Mr. Stokes' daughter-in-law, who is the mother of several children.

At the Catholic rectory tonight it was admitted that a request had been made for a dispensation, but further information was refused. Town Clerk Waterbury said the aunt and nephew had not applied for a marriage license. They cannot be married in this State without one.

POISON FOR FOUR IN BUTTERMILK

CARBOLIC ACID PLACED IN PAIL OF FLUID USED BY FAMILY.

Middletown, N. Y., Oct. 27.—What is believed to have been an attempt to kill an entire family was discovered here yesterday afternoon. At the residence of Fred Snyder, 122 Prespect avenue, a pail of buttermilk from which the family had been in the habit of drinking, was found to contain carbolic acid.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder have an infant son, and an uncle, Willis Bradner, lives with them. They occupy the upper floor. Mrs. Snyder took her baby downtown yesterday afternoon, and when she returned she went to take a drink of the buttermilk from the pail, which had been left standing in the hall at the head of the stairs to keep cool. She had no sooner taken the buttermilk in her mouth than she became conscious of a burning sensation and immediately spat it out.

Although the analysis of the buttermilk has not yet been made there is every reason to believe that a large quantity of carbolic acid was placed in the pail. The odor is strong.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder have been married two years. Mr. Snyder says he received a somewhat threatening letter on Monday from a man with whom he has had business relations. The men of the family, who are employed in the Ontario and Western shops, had been absent from the house all day.

DID HE KILL THE OLNEYS?

Mrs. Ingerick Now Recalls a Tall Man Calling.

Middletown, N. Y., Oct. 27.—Memory of the events connected with the Olney murder has so far returned to Mrs. Ingerick that she has told her daughter, Mrs. Aiken, that she remembers cutting up potatoes on the fatal day, and recalls that on Thursday or Friday, the day of the murders, a tall man called at the farm, inquired for the Olney brothers, and went to the barn.

She says the stranger had black, curly hair and a dark mustache, wore a Fedora hat and drove a dark horse attached to a light wagon.

War Romance Ends in Divorce.

Vice Chancellor Garrison at Jersey City yesterday advised a decree of divorce in favor of Alfred F. Sorenson, captain of Company G, 4th Regiment, National Guard of New Jersey. He was married in 1898 on the eve of the departure of the 4th Regiment for the war with Spain, as he had volunteered his services. Mr. and Mrs. Sorenson separated last December after a thrilling scene, in which Sorenson, his wife, a boarder and a pistol took part. The divorce proceedings were immediately entered. They were not contested.

Burglars Left Bloody Trail.

Paterson, Oct. 27.—Blood spattered about the floor and the showcases of the Mills hardware store, in North Main street, yesterday morning, showed that burglars had met with a mishap. The burglars carried off fifty-four penknives, as many razors and other cutlery to the value of $200. It was their second visit to the store. The police believe the injuries received by the burglars are serious enough to lead to their arrest.

MAYOR BUCKLE'S ACT STAMPED AS AN OUTRAGE

Bolton Hall, Sociologist and Lawyer, Severe in His Criticism of the Nugent Incident.

HE MAKES AN OFFER

Tenders the Free Use of Any of His Vacant Property in This City to Political Parties.

Among the communications received by this paper concerning the action of Mayor Buckle in refusing to issue a permit to Edward Nugent, the Democratic State Senatorial candidate, to hold a street meeting near the Pond Tool Works Wednesday noon, is one from Bolton Hall, of New York. He has a national reputation as a student of sociological problems, and by profession is a lawyer.

BOLTON HALL.
Well Known Sociologist and Lawyer, Who, Denouncing Mayor Buckle's Action, Offers Free Use of His Property Here for Political Meetings.

Mr. Hall stamps the Mayor's action as "an outrage on free institutions" and offers any vacant property owned by him in this city for the use of political meetings. He makes no distinctions as to party, saying that "free speech cannot be exercised if it be limited to those who can afford to pay rent for meeting places."

Here is his letter:

Editor The Daily Press:

I see in your columns that the Mayor of Plainfield has refused to grant the Democratic candidate for State Senator a permit to hold street meetings; that he has also refused to allow Socialist meetings, and says that candidates should hire halls or vacant lots.

Of course streets are primarily used as highways. But from time immemorial they have also been places for assembly and discussion. The right of free speech cannot be fully exercised if it be limited to those who can afford to pay rent for meeting places. And the necessity created by such interference makes essential the collection of campaign contributions that are often raised by intimidation or the promise of future inequitable legislative favors.

It is doubtful whether the Mayor can legally prevent all street meetings; it is certain that to do so is an outrage on free institutions. While this matter is one to be settled by the residents of Plainfield, I meanwhile offer to any candidate and any party the free use of any vacant property I own in Plainfield for the purpose of holding meetings.

Yours truly,
BOLTON HALL.

STATE WOMENS CLUB IN SESSION AT ELIZABETH

ANNUAL CONVENTION WILL BE CONCLUDED THIS AFTERNOON.

Four hundred delegates, representing every women's club in the State, including the Monday Afternoon Club, of this city, were in attendance when the annual convention of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs was called to order at Elizabeth, yesterday. Mrs. Andrew J. Newbury, of Jersey City, president of the federation, presided and will continue to do so until the end of the convention this afternoon.

The address of welcome was delivered by Mrs. David M. Miller, of Elizabeth, and after the minutes had been read by Mrs. William E. Taylor, of Newark, the reports of the various officers were received. Among them were those of Mrs. Peter Stryker, of Bound Brook, on behalf of the Town Improvement department, and Mrs. S. Elizabeth Demarest, of Passaic, on forestry and the condition of the Palisades. An interesting exhibit of adulterated foods was presented by Miss Alice Lakey, of Cranford.

At the afternoon session, Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, county probation officer, made a report on her study of prisons and probationery systems in other countries. Mrs. Williamson was appointed by President Roosevelt the representative of the United States at the International Prison Conference at Budapest.

This morning's session began at 10:30 and was devoted to the hearing of further reports and an address by Dr. James M. Green, president of the State Board of Education. This afternoon's programme is practically the same, with musical features by the Battin High School orchestra and Elizabeth vocalists.

The guest of honor at the convention is Miss Clara Barton, of Boston, president of the Red Cross Association.

Will Join Stock Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roberts, of Prospect place, leave this afternoon for Richmond, Va., where they will join the John Osmun Stock Company for a tour of the Southern States. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts will be featured in vaudeville specialties in which they have been successful during the past two seasons.

Did Not Live at Homestead.

Miss Carrie Runyon, who was recently taken to the State Hospital at Trenton, did not live at the Runyon homestead on Watchung avenue, as reported. At the time she was taken to Trenton she was boarding with Mrs. J. H. Krymer, of 219 East Fifth street.

Mrs. William H. Sebring, of Fairview avenue, is spending sometime with relatives in Dover Plains, N. Y.

TYLER AND KIELY MET BUT NO CASUALTIES REPORTED

Councilman Tyler stood on the station platform yesterday morning, waiting for his train. A bulky man, wearing thick-soled shoes, was walking in his direction. Mr. Tyler's gaze rested calmly on the approaching figure.

"Good morning, Chief," he said.

The heavens didn't fall, the station didn't blow up, neither did Mr. Tyler shrivel. Chief Kiely turned a quiet and unconvulsed face to the councilman.

"Good morning, Mr. Tyler," he said. And so they parted.

It was the first time the chairman of the ex-police board and the chief had met since the presentation of the charges against Kiely.

"That was a fine exhibition of self-control by the Chief this morning," said one of the head cop's friends admiringly after the incident.

Mr. Tyler's friends were also stirred to admiration.

"Wasn't that a great example of magnanimity?" asked one of them.

NEW 'PHONE BUILDING

N. Y. & N. J. Company Decides to Erect Structure on East Fourth Street.

SWEEPING CHANGES

Common Battery System of Operating Instruments to be Installed — Local Exchange's Rapid Growth.

The New York & New Jersey Telephone Company has decided definitely to erect a new building in this city to meet the growing needs of the company for the present and years to come. It will be located on East Fourth street, near Park avenue, and will be one of the most modern structures and in equipment one of the most complete yet planned by the big concern.

Recently the company purchased from C. Frank French and L. E. Hart their property on East Fourth street, and it will be better adapted in many ways for the new building to be placed there than the Park avenue site. The present building owned by the company will be given up for its present purposes, although it may be decided to use it for storage.

The new building will probably consist of two stories, the first to be used for various offices, the second for the operating department. It has been the desire of Manager C. W. Runyon to place his operating department on a second floor, thereby allowing the entire first floor for the offices.

With the erection of the new building will come many changes in the telephone system here. What is known as the common battery will be installed, the same as is used in all large offices. This will necessitate the removal of the batteries from individual telephones, as well as the present style of bell. The common battery will be located in the new building and the power for operating the 'phones will be at that place. There will also be a new style of lamp used on the switchboard, instead of the "drop" now employed to indicate when a party is calling.

When completed the building will be the finest equipped in the State, with all the latest appliances to handle the large business of the company in this city. At present Plainfield has 1,550 subscribers, about 200 less than Montclair, which leads the State in number of subscribers for towns of that class. An idea of the business done here can be gained from the fact that over 8,000 calls are handled eer day at the local exchange.

The operating force comprises twenty-four people, men and women, and the day operators work on various shifts, from 7 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night. After that three operators work all night. The present equipment is considered the equal of most offices, but the increase in business has been so rapid that changes are necessitated.

The company has been extending its lines throughout the country districts and it is predicted that within a year or two every farmer in Union, Somerset and Middlesex counties will be provided with one. The low party line rate of $30 makes it possible for almost any person having need of a 'phone to get one.

Too much credit cannot be given Manager Charles W. Runyon for the rapid strides of the company in this district. He has personally devoted his time and attention to giving the patrons the best service possible. Not a single detail about the business escapes his watchful eye and anything wrong is quickly remedied by him. Mr. Runyon has one of the best records of any manager in the service and he is very proud of the showing made in this part of the State by the company. He feels sure that within a few months he will be able to equal Montclair's record for number of subscribers, and is trying hard to attain that result.

Visiting Her Native City.

Mrs. S. E. Walling and daughter Echo, of Bellingham, Washington State, are visiting the Misses Searing, of Watchung avenue, North Plainfield. This is the first visit Mrs. Walling has visited her birthplace in over twelve years. She will spend about six weeks among relatives and friends in this city and vicinity.

Hospital's Harvest Home.

The members of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital have decided to hold the annual harvest home at the Nurses' Home. There will be the usual features and all friends of the hospital are asked to donate something for the use of the institution.

Flomerfelt's Trial Postponed.

The trial of Jacob Flomerfelt on a charge of manslaughter, has been postponed until the December term because of the illness of Miss Bessie Cramer, one of the chief witnesses for the defense.

REMEDY FOR CORRUPTION

Godliness Needed in Business and Politics, Says Dr. Lewis.

A LOCAL REFERENCE

Revelations Apparently Being Made Here Are Not Surprising to Observers of Events—Politics a Sacred Realm.

Political and life insurance corruption and the remedy for wrongdoing by public officials and captains of industry was the subject of a sermon preached by Rev. Dr. Lewis, editor of the Sabbath Recorder, at the Seventh-day Baptist church this morning. Dr. Lewis made a passing reference to the charges of bossism and malfeasance in office that are part of the campaign on both sides of the brook, and said there was nothing surprising in the apparent revelations to those who had studied events for the past three years in Plainfield.

Dr. Lewis did not touch the political and insurance scandals specifically. Treating the presence of great corruption in both fields as an accepted and notorious fact, he pointed out the great essential of reform.

Godliness was the one thing to keep politics and business clean, said Dr. Lewis. Honesty, purity and sobriety were the three correlated essentials of Godliness, and business men and officeholders must possess them if commerce and politics were to be cleaned of corruption. Honesty was the basis of all business success; business demanded more faith in man, if possible, than did Christianity. Sobriety had a great commercial value, and business men were beginning to realize it; the unsober man was not to be trusted with any important matter. By purity, the third essential of the trinity of Godliness, was meant more than simple virtue. Purity meant character; it meant the difference between the man who did his duty all the time for conscience's sake, and the man who could be trusted only to do it when watched and in the limelight.

"So much for business," said Dr. Lewis. "And now, politics: a sacred realm. Lawmaking is divine because it connects man with God, the Great Lawmaker; enforcement of the law is divine because it allies man with God, the Great Eternal Executor of Justice. All courts should be regarded as sacred ground; from the highest to the lowest. If this table at which I speak is sacred, the poor pine table before which the miserable drunkards come in front of Judge Runyon is sacred. Do you not see, then, the demand for Godliness in lawmaking and the enforcement of laws?

"I make these points in general. You are familiar with the revelations in insurance managements and politics. Make your own applications to the conditions. But this I wish to impress upon you: There is very great iniquity in making laws and robbing the people, and if two wrongs could ever make one right, the insurance companies might be justified in their robbery of the people, because it is a fact that in every State capital there are lawmakers who put legislation on the books that directly or indirectly is designed to compel the insurance companies to pay blackmail.

"These questions of public and political morality are general, but they have come to have a local application. On both sides of the brook charges of malfeasance in office have been brought forward. I counsel you to withhold your judgment on the men accused until they have had their chance to disprove the charges, but this much I may say, that no man who has watched things in Plainfield for the past three years is hardly surprised at the revelations that seem to have come out."

Dr. Lewis emphasized the need for Godliness. The churches, he said, were commercial assets. They did more for business than any other institution. Their training of the young people had a commercial value that could not be estimated.

All great evil was self-destructive. No great reform had come excepting through a great revelation of corruption, and the most hopeful sign of the present state of public affairs was the widespread uncovering of evil.

Entertained Card Club.

Mrs. Theodore Mantz, of Richmond street, entertained a card club at her home yesterday afternoon, it being the first gathering of the members for the fall and winter. The club plays euchre and whist at alternate meetings, and yesterday euchre was chosen. The first prize was won by Mrs. Gesswein, wife of Dr. C. A. Gesswein, who substituted for an absent member. After the play refreshments were served. The club will meet every two weeks.

FOUND IN GREENBROOK

Death Ended Wandering of Seventy-Year-Old Hiram Mears.

ACCIDENT PROBABLY

Disappeared from Home Thursday Night, Discovered, Dead, by Small Boy at Play, Yesterday Afternoon.

The search for seventy-year-old Hiram Mears, of 200 West Second street, who was reported missing to the police on Thursday night, ended yesterday in Greenbrook. His body was found there by a small boy at play in the yard of his home, which overlooks the brook. The drowning is believed to have been accidental.

Mears was one of the oldest employes at the Scott Press Works. He joined the Scott force when the shops first opened here, and had been with them steadily from then until his death. He worked without a break in his time until very recently, when ill-health weakened him.

Some time in the neighborhood of 10 o'clock Thursday night he put on his street clothes and slipped from the house. This was contrary to his habit, and Mrs. Mears became alarmed when he failed to return after a few minutes. The police were notified and a general alarm for the old man was sent out at midnight. One of the officers saw him on East Front street at 11 o'clock, but no trace of him after that could be discovered.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Franklin Dorthy, twelve years old, playing ball in his yard, at 78 Sandford avenue, saw the missing man's body lying face downward in the brook. He notified the police, and the body was taken to headquarters. It was recognized at once and sent to the house.

Both of the old man's hands were in his coat pocket. This is indicative of accidental death, because it explains how Mears could have drowned in the shallow brook without electing to die. It is presumed that he started to wade across, stumbled and fell, and with his hands held by his pockets, found it impossible to rise. Woolen mittens were on the hands, making it hard for them to slip out.

Mears came to this city fifteen years ago from Cincinnati. He is survived by a widow and a grown daughter, Miss Clara Mears.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning. No services will be held at the house, but there will be a short service at the grave at Evergreen cemetery at 11:30 o'clock.

CONGREGATIONALISTS HAVE A HALLOWE'EN PARTY

SPOOKS AND JACK-O'LANTERNS GIVE PROPER TONE TO THE AFFAIR.

A Hallowe'en party with a specially constructed name was held at the Congregational church last night under the joint auspices of the Christian Endeavorers and the women of the church. The name was "The Fall Festival and Husking Bee," and the affair lived up to it.

The parlors were decorated with Hallowe'en lanterns and autumn foliage. During the programme of entertainment the only light was that shed by jack-o'-lanterns and candles.

The programme included cornet solos by Percy Mygrant; recitations by Miss Elsie Case; piano solos by Miss Louise Mygrant; recitation by Rev. C. L. Goodrich; a spook parade by four children; and a husking bee. A score of young people had a great time in the bee. A big pile of real corn was turned over to them in the center of the floor and they made the husks fly.

Refreshments were served. The committee in charge comprised Mrs. Philip Suffern, Mrs. G. T. Rhoads, Mrs. C. A. Rice, Miss Ethel Millar, Miss Barlow, and R. P. Rice.

A Quiet Wedding.

Miss Lillian Rathbone Hayward, of New York, and Eugene Leroy Lockwood, a New York lawyer, were quietly married Tuesday afternoon at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Julius E. Erickson, on Hillside avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. F. Hull, of Newark. Miss Carolyne Hayward, a niece of the bride, was flower girl, and Rev. Mr. Bennett, of Morristown, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood will reside in New York upon their return from Washington. Mr. Lockwood is the son of the late Rev. V. Leroy Lockwood, formerly pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, of Rahway.

—L. B. Woolston's condition is reported to be somewhat improved today.

NEGRO SLASHED TO DEATH IN A BLOODY AFFRAY

REPLY TO CHIEF KIELY

Bullock and Tyler Tell Him Object of Their Report Was to Hasten Investigation.

COMMISSION IN WAY

Councilman Police Committee Says Its Efforts Have Been Obstructed by Appointment of Mayor's McAdoos.

Councilmen Bullock and Tyler, who presented the Councilmanic police committee's report Tuesday night, have applied to Chief Kiely's communication asking for an investigation of the charges against him. They say that he has evidently missed the main point of the report, which is that the appointment of the police commission obstructed their work in that direction.

Their letter follows:

"Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 27, 1905.

"Mr. Patrick S. Kiely,
"Chief of Police,
"Plainfield, N. J.

"Dear Sir:

"We have each received a copy of your letter of the 26th inst., addressed to us jointly, which seems to forget the very purpose of the report of the police committee to the Common Council, a more careful reading of which will furnish the best possible answer to your letter. The very object of the report and of the special Council meeting was to facilitate the earliest possible removal of the obstacle created by the Mayor's appointment of a police commission, under a doubtful act of the Legislature, thereby making it impossible for us to do what you now say you are eager to have done. The report has been referred to the corporation counsel, who will, of course, do what he can to facilitate an early determination of the matter.

"Very truly yours,
"WILLIAM S. TYLER,
"WILLIAM STARR BULLOCK."

"THE BEST EVER."

That's Verdict of the Audience that Saw "The Mayor of Tokio."

To the local theatregoer who has been accustomed to running into New York to see the best that there is in the line of musical comedy, it seemed as if Broadway had been suddenly moved to Plainfield last night, when Richard Carle and his company presented "The Mayor of Tokio" at the New Plainfield theatre. The verdict of the capacity audience was that it is "the best ever," and that Mr. Carle has a show that will create more of a success than "The Tenderfoot" when it reaches the metropolis.

The supporting company was splendid, with Miss Hortense Mazurette as "Oloto San" easily winning the highest favor. She is a handsome young woman, but aside from this she knows how to sing, and her hearers were so enthused they refused to let her go without three or four encores. Carle is just as funny as ever and kept the audience laughing whenever he was on the stage.

Death of Henry Hand.

Henry Hand, a brother of Captain William Hand, Justice Hezekiah Hand and David and Thomas Hand, died on Tuesday at his home in Sanford, Florida, following an illness of one week. He was born in this city sixty-four years ago and spent his early life here. He was a veteran of the Civil War, being a member of the 11th N. J. Vols. For several years he lived in retirement at Sanford. His son conducts a sale and exchange stables there. Mr. Hand is survived by a wife, three sons and four daughters. The funeral and interment will be at Sanford.

Robbed Grocery.

Petty thieves broke into Mrs. Ida Rosenson's little grocery at 205 Spooner avenue last night, and stole some boxes of cigars and cigarettes. The theft was reported to the police.

Newarker to Preach.

J. B. Gotshall, of Newark, will preach in the Gospel Mission, corner Front street and Bank place, tomorrow evening.

J. E. Christopher Dies in Muhlenberg Hospital From Injuries Inflicted by Itinerant Preacher.

ASSAILANT JAILED.

Wife of Dead Man Started the Quarrel in House on Short Warren Street—Police Stop Fight.

J. E. Christopher, colored, was cut to death by a razor in the hands of James Allen Watson, forty-four years old, another colored man, in a three-cornered fight in a house on Short Warren street, North Plainfield, a few minutes after 12 o'clock today. Christopher died in Muhlenberg Hospital from loss of blood.

Watson rents the house where the fight took place, and sublet apartments to Christopher and his wife. According to the story told by Watson, Mrs. Christopher came down into his apartments at noon and asked permission to cook some fish on his stove. Permission was refused and a dispute followed. Christopher came downstairs and joined his wife in an attack on Watson. There were two razors on a side table, and Mrs. Christopher, Watson alleges, snatched one and started to slash him. He opened the other one and turned it on Christopher.

Neighbors heard the noise of the fight and summoned the police. Marshals Flack and Emmons ran to the house and pulled the combatants apart. They placed Watson and Mrs. Christopher under arrest and hurried Christopher to the hospital.

He died five minutes after he arrived there, under the doctors' hands. His arms were cut to ribbons. Watson declares that he sought only to cut Christopher's arms to disable him.

Watson and the woman are held at the borough jail. Watson is cut about the hands. The woman was not injured.

The assailant is an itinerant preacher. He came to the borough from Richmond, Va., two years ago, and has supported himself since by occasional services in churches about this section. The dead man had lived in the borough only two months. He came from New York. Little is known about him here.

REHEARSED COURT SCENE.

Will be One of the Best in the Production of "Oliver Cromwell."

The first rehearsal of those who are to take part in the court scene of "Oliver Cromwell" at Hope chapel, November 6, 7 and 8, was held last night. It passed off satisfactorily and promises to be one of the best of the many in the production.

Well known Plainfield people will be seen in the cast. Miss Mary Hubbell, of Central avenue, will be the contralto soloist and there is also to be a quartette consisting of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Tallamy, Miss Hubbell and Charles L. Lewis. Mrs. G. Stuart Simons will be "Lady Cromwell" and others who will have important parts are Mrs. Duncan Taylor and Mrs. Everitt Kimball. In the background are to be three companies of soldiers.

Hearts Party for Miss Serrell.

Invitations have been sent out by Miss Marguerite Serrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Serrell, of Myrtle avenue, for a hearts party to be given Thursday afternoon, November 2, in honor of her sister, Miss Florence Serrell, who will be married to John Peake Reynolds, Jr., on Thursday evening, November 9.

Appointed Administrators.

In the Somerset County Orphans' Court at Somerville yesterday, August Voorhees and A. G. Anderson, the deputy surrogate, were appointed administrators pendente lite in the estate of William Lanehart, of North Plainfield township.

UNION COUNTY POLITICIAN IS SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS

Expert accountants filed a report with the Rahway Common Council last night showing that Charles E. Reed, secretary of the Union County Republican Committee and a member of the present Grand Jury, is short in his accounts as tax collector and treasurer of that city.

Secretary Reed resigned as tax collector and treasurer January 1 and since April 1 the American Auditing Company has been doing over his books.

The accounts report that for 1903 and 1904 there is a shortage in his books amounting to $5,115.40. They add that receipts were found for the tax bills, but the corresponding amounts were never credited. The city attorney was directed to recover the shortage. Reed was about Rahway this morning. He had not been arrested.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

New houses on the Dunellen Heights Land Company are possibilities in the near future. A representative of the company said last week that the corporation was considering the erection of several houses, and was prepared to put them up as soon as it was convinced there was a demand for them.

Alpheus Mundy and some of his fellow Republican workers came to the borough from New Brunswick Thursday afternoon to look over the party fences. They called on Dr. Brakeley and H. S. Garretson, and heard encouraging news. They drove from here to Lawrence Kerwin's place.

Complaints are being made by citizens that the Washington avenue and Prospect avenue crossings are blocked too long during the day by passing strings of freight cars. The blockades last for ten or fifteen minutes, and demands for sunken tracks and bridges are being heard.

The big old-time pot stove around which the patrons of Taylor's Hotel gather in winter weather, has been put up in the tap room. It has a fine new high fender all about it, with a big box of fresh earth beneath, and gives the room a most inviting and comfortable appearance.

A Hallowe'en masquerade and ghost party has been arranged for Monday night by a committee of village young women. The affair will be held in Friendship Hall. There will be a ghost parade at midnight by the light of the pumpkin lanterns.

A full measure of success attended the Hallowe'en dime sociable of the Methodist Episcopal church Aid Society last night. The affair was well attended and passed off delightfully.

Merwin Fagley's eleven has arranged to meet a Somerville team this afternoon. The juniors have a full schedule, Saturdays and Sundays both, for a month.

John Simmons, colored, one of the brickyard employes, was operated on Thursday by Dr. Brakeley for a gathering on his leg. The operation was successful.

The union evangelistic campaign will open tomorrow night in the Methodist church. Rev. Frank Fletcher will be the preacher.

A number of St. John's church parishioners attended the bazaar held by St. Joseph's church, Bound Brook, last night.

George Kuldoshes' horse slipped on Grant avenue Wednesday night and broke its leg. The horse was shot.

Rev. Frank Fletcher attended the State Baptist Association convention in Elizabeth this week.

Rev. Frank Fletcher and Rev. W. W. Casselberry will exchange pulpits tomorrow morning.

Willard Apgar has moved from Front street to his new house on Lincoln avenue.

Mrs. William Rinker is spending the week end with friends in Newark.

Fred Vail's house looks attractive with a new coat of paint.

John Kinney has repainted Fowler Vail's house.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Township Committee met last night in the town rooms. Considerable business of a routine character was transacted besides the usual monthly batch of bills paid.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be: Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching, 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 7:15; evening preaching, 7:45.

The members of the Suburban Club are arranging to hold the second of the club's series of winter dances during the second week in November.

The Brookside Gun Club has not resumed the club's weekly shoots yet this fall. Seems to be a falling off in interest in trap shooting.

Politics are very quiet in town. Considering election day is near at hand, but little is being done by either party as yet.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shepard and family, of The Gables, will close up their home and reside in New York this winter.

Rev. Mr. Hoffman will lead the prayer and praise service at the Methodist church tonight.

Miss Sadie Reger is spending Saturday and Sunday with relatives in Morristown.

Mrs. George L. Dunn and daughter, Miss Ruth, are visiting friends in Newark.

Miss Josephine Ingram is visiting her parents in Trenton over Sunday.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Honeyman, of West Second street, were recent visitors at Frankfort, Somerset county.

Mr. and Mrs. Groendyke, of West Front street, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Hegeman, of New Germantown.

Mrs. Mary Dunham and Mrs. Elizabeth Kenney, of this city, have returned from a visit with Mrs. A. W. Suydam, of Somerville.

Miss Ella Conover, of Elmwood place, who has been visiting her parents at High Bridge during the past two weeks, has returned home.

TIME IS THE TEST.

The Testimony of Plainfield People Stands the Test.

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon find out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time.

Plainfield people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Mrs. John Driscoll, of 217 Grant avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I made a statement for publication regarding the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, and said statement still holds good in every particular. If I were to make a single change in it, it would only be to make it stronger, for during the past few years I have known many people to use Doan's Kidney Pills, and have yet to hear of a case in which the remedy failed to do the work it is claimed to do. My own case was a dull aching pain in the small of the back and in the sides. It clung to me incessantly and hard work seemed to increase it. I was subject also to hard backaches, and spells of dizziness when stooping. I was generally weak and depressed. I tried plasters and used many different remedies without finding relief, and being finally led to get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's pharmacy, began using the remedy, finding, at length, the relief I have described in the testimonial I gave for publication in 1898."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

OLD WOMEN'S BONNETS.

"Seems to me," observed the man, looking around him with a lively air of interest, "seemes to me old ladies are getting dreadfully frivolous nowadays. Please look at the bonnets most of these elderly persons have on."

The man's companion did as she was bid, and beheld numbers of sweet-faced, white-haired old ladies whose silvery locks were crowned by flirtatious little bits of white lace and silver, with pink and blue flowers and aigrettes—that stood up most audaciously.

"What do you think of them?" asked the man, helplessly.

"I think," said the woman promptly, "that they are mighty chic; that is, being interpreted, that they bear the haughty earmarks of swelldom; otherwise speaking, they're uncommonly smart, and they cost a pretty penny, I do assure you. I saw a dozen or so of those airy little nothings in a case the other day, straight from Paris; and the aggregated price thereof would have sent you and me to Europe for a year."

"Oh, I dare say, I wasn't thinking they were worn for reasons of economy. Only they don't seem to me—er— quite the proper thing for old ladies to wear. They're not the sort of bonnets my mother and grandmother wore."

"What kind of bonnets did they wear?" asked the woman, hiding a smile behind her hand. "Little black things?" she suggested, seeing that the man hesitated.

"Yes," he said, brightening. "That's just it. They wore little black bonnets, about so big—" making a space the size of his two hands —"very dignified-looking, you know, with long black strings and veils and things."

"Maybe your grandmother was in mourning," suggested the woman.

"I guess she was, most of the time I remember her," acknowledged the man, after some thought. "But my mother wasn't, and she always wore a neat, self-respecting black bonnet, from the time I first remember her, and that," finished the man triumphantly, "was from the time she was thirty-one years old until the day of her death. And look at all these old women, rigged up in giddy little white bonnets that would look suitable on a girl of sixteen. Why, I'll bet there isn't a one of them under fifty."

"My dear," said the woman, "there are no old women in these days. In your dear mother's time o woman was old as soon as she married and settled down with a houseful of children. She instantly put on the garb of a sober and discreet humility. But in these exuberant days, when other people attend to our households and families, in order that we may have time to attend to our clubs and lectures and more improving things, a grandmother is a blooming young woman at sixty, while at thirty-one a matron is just a gay young thing, entitled to wear baby hats and go about with her little boy friends."

And the woman tucked a gray hair up under her own youthful and festive chapeau and beamed upon the mystified man.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

DON'TS FOR BUSINESS WOMEN.

Don't bring your home troubles to the office and air them there.

Don't criticise those who work with you or those for whom you work.

Don't be late to your work and then expect consideration because you are a woman.

Don't sprinkle yourself with heavy perfume. Your particular kind of perfume may be exceedingly obnoxious to those about you.

Dont' try to be mannish either in dress or manner. The mannish business woman is out of fashion, fortunately.

Don't expect to be treated as if your were in society. You are probably doing the work that was done formerly by a man, and if in small ways you are not considered as much as you are at home, remember that you are in business.

Don't wear overtrimmed and fussy clothes. Wear plain clothes with appropriate blouses.

Don't forget that all of the evil passions are traceable to two roots—anger and worry. These are the thieves that steal precious time and energy from life.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

HIS REASON.

A young man from the South who had secured a place in a mercantile house in Philadelphia had, at the recommendation of a fellow employe, engaged board and lodging in a private family. The family were extremely devout. Before each meal a long grace was said. To their dismay and horror the new boarder sat bolt upright while the others at the table reverently bowed their heads. When the second day passed and the man from the South evinced no disposition to unbend, the good lady of the house could endure the situation no longer.

"Aheism?" asked she sharply.

"No, madam," humbly responded the new boarder, "boil."—Harper's Weekly.

Miss Margaret McWilliams, of Raritan, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas Flynn, has returned home.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Patronize Stafford, the Plainfield printer. He does excellent work.

John Winzenreid, of Lee place, is a reliable trucker, and his work gives entire satisfaction.

E. F. Dorman, of Park avenue, sells first-class insurance and he would like to consult with you about it.

Who buys meat of J. W. Van-Sickle, North avenue, buys the best meat obtainable at the lowest market rates.

The cuts sold by the Grandview Meat Market, Somerset street, are always just as you want them. Perfect service.

A. H. Enander, of Watchung avenue, is a first-class sanitary plumber and all work left in his charge will be attended to promptly.

Good barbering is rare. That is why Plainfielders appreciate the work of William B. Randolph, of Watchung avenue, so highly.

Patrons of Rugg & Cline, of West Third street, always get the best anthracite coal and hard wood, because the firm deals only in the best.

Persons who want to be sure of using pure cream, milk as well as fresh butter and eggs, should patronize Brokaw's creamery on East Front street.

The milk and cream of the Lindsay Dairy are pure and rich. There is no question of the healthfulness of the Lindsay Dairy products. You may trust them to the limit.

Boice, Runyon & Co., coal dealers, have a large supply of the best anthracite coal which they are selling at lowest market prices. Now is the time to have your bins filled.

For delicious Flemington sausage and home-made potato salad visit R. W. Barnes' grocery on Park avenue. Both are received fresh each day and are just the thing to add zest to a meal.

H. K. Lister, the North avenue dealer in phonographs, has received a barrel of new Edison records. Come in any time and hear them played. He has machines at all prices.

S. Hirsch, the Watchung avenue women's tailor, guarantees perfect satisfaction. He has had many years' experience in making women's garments and employs none but skilled help.

Scribner & Taylor, the Watchung avenue newsdealers and stationers, would be pleased to supply you with books, papers or magazines. They will be delivered at your home upon request.

A. M. Harper's store on Park avenue, just south of Fourth street, is the place to get really distinctive stationery. It is also the place to leave orders for all the leading periodicals and magazines.

When you get ready to place that fire insurance, drop a line to E. M. French & Co., of North avenue. They represent the best and most reliable companies. They also have a list of desirable Plainfield properties for sale or rent.

Don't lose the excellent opportunities offered by Hill & Shupp to secure bargains in dry goods, housefurnishings and white goods. The firm is making a big drive in fine carpets and rugs, best make, at very low prices. If you need anything in this line now is your chance to get it cheap. Watch the firm's advertisement, it will be to your advantage.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Dr. Emil G. Hirsch, the Chicago Jewish divine, on Sunday celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his installation as rabbi of the Sinai Tabernacle.

Dr. William M. Zaring, an Indianapolis clergyman, has completed fifty-two years of active service, in which period he has been out of his pulpit on account of illness but six times.

Eben S. Draper, the Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts, is a member of the famous Draper Company firm, of Hopedale, Mass., a firm which has built a little manufacturing city which is a model town, and world-renowned as such.

Announcement is made that Henry W. Furniss, now consul at Bahia, Brazel, would be appointed Minister Plenipotentiary at Hayti, to succeed William F. Powell, of New Jersey, who will resign. Both men are colored and have excellent records in the Government service.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE.

The Original Remedy that "kills the Dandruff Germ."

THE HUNTERS CAME TO LATE!

Their Faithful Dog has pointed out the True Remedy to Prevent Baldness, but the Hunters came too late—Chronic Baldness is incurable.

HERPICIDE A "HAIR-SAVER."

Newbro's Herpicide saves the hair by destroying the germ or microbe that is now known to be the cause of dandruff, falling hair and baldness. In chronic baldness the hair follicles are completely atrophied, causing the scalp to shrink and shine; little can be done in such cases except to save the remaining "fringe," and this is well worth saving, for it offers some protection against the cold.

The "Hair Grower" is a fallacy. It requires but a slight knowledge of Anatomy to know that the hair gets its life and strength from the hair-papilla at the bottom of the hair follicle, and the papilla in turn gets its nourishment direct from the blood; therefore nature is the only true hair grower. There are enemies of hair growth that cause hair loss and baldness. Invisible microbic growths enter the sebaceous glands, situated at the top of the hair follicles (Dr. Sabouraud, of Paris, says the microbe usually enters the scalp in youth), where one colony after another is established, until finally, after months and sometimes years, there is dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. The Sebum also solidifies, causing dry, lustreless and brittle hair. Destroy this microbic growth with Newbro's Herpicide and protect the hair against re-infection, and it will grow as nature intended.

A Healthy Hair.

Newbro's Herpicide is a Twentieth Century Remedy. Its mission is to teach new rules for scalp cleanliness, new rules for hair preservation and to supply a germ-destroying solution that will enable careful persons to have beautiful and luxuriant hair. Almost marvelous results follow the use of Herpicide, and if it does not do more than we claim for it, your dealer will refund your purchase price. As a hair dressing it is truly exquisite, on account of its dainty and refreshing odor, which is characteristic. It contains no oil, grease or sedimentary substance, neither does it stain nor dye the hair.

Stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

SATISFACTORY IN EVERY WAY.

I take pleasure in writing you in regard to your Hair preparation—Newbro's Herpicide—as I find it satisfactory in every way.
Trenton, N. J. W. H. NEUBECK.

SURE CURE.

I am using Herpicide, and having been made acquainted with the formula, I am convinced that you have a preparation, if used as it should be, will undoubtedly prove a sure cure for nearly all the diseases of the scalp to which it may be applied.

REMARK IN BARROOM STARTES BIG BANK RUN

INSTITUTION KEPT PAYING DEPOSITORS 2 HOURS AFTER CLOSING TIME.

An idle remark by a drunken man in a barroom yesterday at Trenton caused a run of $100,000 and more on the Trenton Trust and Safe Deposit Company, one of the strongest banks in that city.

The man who is thought to have caused the run stated that the bank was not in good condition. At the same time, the bank had closed business for the day with $25,000 more on deposit than at any time before.

This remark circulated through certain sections of the city where the bank had caused iron deposit banks to be circulated for savings. This class of small depositors, who put their small savings in these iron banks and then turned them in to the trust company, went down to the bank in large numbers.

They were mostly women, without hats or cloaks. They stood in line, and would not be persuaded that the concern was sound.

The bank kept its doors open two hours after the regular closing time, and, while it could under its contracts exact two weeks' notice of the withdrawal of these moneys, all who called at the paying teller's window received their money in full.

At 5 o'clock the bank closed for the night, but not until Colonel Washington A. Roebling, the multi-millionaire builder of the first Brooklyn bridge, had personally stated to the crowd of depositors that he would deposit $100,000 in the morning, and if this amount was not enough to meet all demands for cash withdrawals he would put in more money.

The bank has made arrangements for the receipt tomorrow morning of a large quantity of money, and will probably commence to keep open day and night from tomorrow morning until depositors are tired of the run.

The large business men of the city who have deposits in the institution have not withdrawn money today, nor will they tomorrow.

At the directors' meeting of the other banks in Trenton yesterday it was, in every instance, unanimously voted to afford the Trenton Trust Company every financial aid and to let the bank have all the cash needed to stop this run.

IN NEW YORK CITY—

Every forty seconds an immigrant arrives.

Every three minutes some one is arrested.

Every six minutes a child is born.

Every seven minutes there is a funeral.

Every thirteen minutes a couple get married.

Every forty-two minutes a new business firm starts up.

Every forty-eight minutes a building catches fire.

Every forty-eight minutes a ship leaves the harbor.

Every fifty-one minutes a new building is erected.

Every one and three-quarter hours some one is killed by accident.

Every seven hours some one fails in business.

Every eight hours an attempt to kill some one is made.

Every eight and a half hours some couple is divorced.

Every ten hours some one commits suicide.

Every two days some one is murdered.—New York Tribune.

VANITY MADE RIDICULOUS.

In the early days of Augusta, Me., when the people rode about the country on horseback, a certain aristocratic judge, riding into town one day on his smart horse, was overtaken by a neighbor, a poorly dressed Irishman, riding a rather rough looking animal.

In the outskirts of the city the two jogged along side by side, discussing the topics of the day; but as they neared the town the proud judge, thinking it beneath his dignity to be seen in company with Patrick, requested the Irishman to fall back a little.

The quick-witted son of Erin, grasping the situation, fell back a few paces and awaited his opportunity for revenge.

As they were entering the principal street the Irishman called out from behind: "Jedge——, am I far enough behind yer Honor?"

The discomfitted judge, sitting very erect, paid no heed to the Irishman.

A little further on Patrick again called out, to the intense amusement of the bystanders: "Jedge——, am I far enough behind yer Honor, now, sir?"

So, all along the way, Patrick punished the proud judge.—Boston Herald.

Plainfield, N. J., October 28, 1905.

Newark is aroused to a realization that municipal ownership of the electric light plant will be beneficial to the taxpayers. The gospel is spreading.

Councilmen Tyler and Bullock have lost no time in reassuring Chief Kiely that they desire to investigate the rumors reflecting on him. At the same time they make it plain that the object of their report was to hurry the removal of the obstacle that prevents them from going ahead with the probe they say they had planned. This obstacle is the new police commission, appointed by Mayor Buckle, which has wrested the control of the department from the Common Council and placed it in the hands of four men of his own choice. It should be remembered, however, that the decision of the Supreme Court on November 13 will not be final, for no matter which way the case goes, an appeal will surely be taken. In this way the matter will drag along for months. If the public has to wait until the constitutionality of the law, under which the police commission was appointed, is decided in the court of last resort before any action is taken, it will wait a long time. Let the investigation proceed at once, and let it be above board, open, impartial and thorough. This would be simple justice to Chief Kiely and all concerned.

PLUG HATS ON OUTING.

Elizabethport Association Off to Bethlehem, Pa.

Elizabeth, Oct. 28.—The Plug Hat Association, the oldest social organization at Elizabethport, where it has been in existence more than twenty-five years, started yesterday on its annual target excursion, its destination being Bethlehem, Pa. The association is composed chiefly of business men of this city. They paraded 150 strong, and had with it twenty-five well-known Newarkers as invited guests. The paraders made a fine appearance. The officers, the pioneer members and the members of the committee of arrangements all wore silk hats, kid gloves and light overcoats. The others wore dark overcoats, gloves and silk hats, and nearly all had buttonieres.

The association was headed by Vonah's band. The trip to Bethlehem was made in a special train of all vestibuled coaches, with a buffet car and combination baggage car attached. The pleasure seekers took along their own refreshments. The Plug Hats are very popular at Bethlehem, where a big reception was given to them on their arrival. They were met at the railroad station by the Mayor, chief of police and city officials, together with the Bethlehem Maennerchor, headed by a band. The freedom of the city was tendered the visitors by the Mayor.

Breakfast was partaken of at the Bethlehem Hotel, and afterward the association marched to the fair grounds, where target shooting was indulged for prizes. Dinner was served at the hotel when the shooting ended. Then the Jerseymen were shown the principal places of interest in the city and inspected all the fire engine-houses.

A Complete Kitchen.

You cannot have your kitchen completely furnished unless you have a first-class Range, therefore insuring the most convenient cook. You should have one of our Ranges by all means, because of their construction which insures a perfect fire, even heat in the stove rather than in the kitchen. These are made for cooking, and are good enough for heating.

We also have a fine line of Oak and Cylinder Stoves, Pot Stoves, Stove Boards, Coal Hods, Ash Cans, Pipe, etc.

Our OIL HEATER, "The Waterman" is ideal.

POLITICIANS TALK ON AUTOMOBILE QUESTION

COLONEL FRELINGHUYSEN SAYS HE FAVORS HIGHER LICENSE FEE.

Whitehouse, Oct. 28.—Another step was taken Thursday night in the movement inaugurated by the Anti-Automobile Association at North Branch, for the purpose of curbing the recklessness of some automobile drivers. The organization is not a political one, but the idea of the members is to influence legislation. When Colonel Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Raritan, who owns an automobile, was nominated by the Republicans for State Senator, and Senator Samuel S. Childs, of Bernardsville, was renominated by the Democrats, he also being an automobilist, the members determined to hear just where each candidate stood on the automobile question, and invited them to address the association.

Senator Childs will be given his opportunity at a later meeting, but Thursday night Rupell's hall was well filled to hear what Colonel Frelinghuysen had to say. Dr. James D. Van Derveer, the president, presided, and transacted the routine business. Colonel Frelinghuysen was well received.

He declared he owned an automobile, but favored any reasonable means to prevent carless automobilists from reckless speeding. He said he believed it would be a good plan to have automobilists when they take out a license to pay a much higher fee than at present; that the number should be on the back, higher up and in larger figures, as well as on the front of the machine.

Irving Hoagland, of Franklin Park, the Republican candidate for member of Assembly, also spoke. Te said he thought that before a new automobile law was made the present one should be enforced. He believed it would be a good plan to place officers at certain limits, let them have signals and take out their watches and time the automobilists. If the drivers exceeded the rate of speed permitted by law, let the signal officers have the power to arrest them without a warrant.

A general discussion was indulged in by the audience and speakers, and it was a late hour when the meeting adjourned.

VETERANS TALK OVER OLD TIMES AT TRENTON

PLAINFIELDERS ATTEND REUNION OF ELEVENTH REGT., N. J. VOLVNTEERS.

The annual reunion of the Eleventh Regiment, New Jersey Veteran Volunteer Association, was held at Trenton yesterday in the rooms of Aaron Wilkes Post, No. 22, G. A. R. It was a social reunion in which the families of members and friends of the regiment participated. Plainfield was represented by the following veterans: Captain William Hand, T. O. Doane, John Goodwin, Henry Molleson, T. B. Titsworth, Isaac Randolph and William Payne.

October 27 is the anniversary of the Battle of Boydtown Plank road, sometimes called "Bull Pen," which took place in 1864. The Eleventh Regiment played a conspicuous part in this battle. General McAllister, the old regimental commander, who commanded the brigade during this engagement, received honorable mention by General Grant in his memoirs for the masterful and strategic manner in which he maneuvered the brigade, and successfully resisted an attack made by the enemy upon the flank, thereby saving the day for the Union arms.

This command was mustered into the United States service on August 18, 1862, and started for the seat of war on August 25 with thirty-nine officers and 940 enlisted men. During its long term of service it received 861 recruits, making its total enrollment 1,840. The members participated in thirty engagements., besides numerous skirmishes, and returned home at the close of the war in 1865 with less than 100 of the men who first went out.

Its first colonel was Robert McAllister, who was wounded twice at the Battle of Gettysburg, and had two horses shot under him at the Battle of the Wilderness, and returned home at the close of the war a brevet major-general. His brother, Thompson McAllister, commanded a brigade in the Confederate army. At the Battle of Chancellorsville the regiment lost 192 men, and at Gettysburg lost 157 out of 275 engaged.

In the State House at Trenton, enclosed in a glass case, are five battle-scarred flags carried by this command, which, by their appearance, speak in language more descriptive than words of the deeds performed by the members of the Eleventh New Jersey Volunteers.

Improvements at Plainfield Theatre.

The New Plainfield theatre has recently been fitted throughout with handsome new crimson draperies by Shirley & Johnson. Those about the boxes are especially striking and add greatly to the appearance of the auditorium. Manager Counihan has also arranged to have brass railings erected all about the balcony and gallery rails and for the installation of automatic fire extinguishers in every part of the building. The system was selected by him at New York this week in company with former Mayor Charles J. Fisk after suggestions from Chief Doane.

Mrs. Eden Boice Seventy-eight.

Mrs. Headly, of Union; Mrs. Tucker, of Loraine, and Mrs. Miller, of Roselle, were the guests of Mrs. Eden Boice, of West Third street, yesterday, when she celebrated the seventy-eighth anniversary of her birthday.

Plainfielder Honored.

Dr. Stephen Rushmore has been elected by the trustees of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, to the post of resident gynecologist.

Speaker at Rescue Mission.

Seely Edsall will speak in the Grove Street Rescue Mission tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

—The horses to be sold at auction at the Plainfield Driving Park on Tuesday, October 31, as advertised in this issue, are expected to arrive at the Park today, where they may be seen on the track, in harness or otherwise, up to time of sale.

James D. Nerrie and family, of Ridgewood, have taken up their residence at 153 Duer street.

NOTICE.

Members of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., and Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., are requested to meet at Odd Fellows' Hall, West Front street, Sunday morning at 10:45, to attend the funeral of Brother Hiram A. Mears.

AMUSEMENTS.

A pastoral drama of unusual merit is booked as the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight. The play is "One Night in June." It tells a beautiful story of the life of the quaint old folks of Barre, Vermont. It is somewhat on the order of "Shore Acres" and "Way Down East," but contains more dramatic action however. The story of the play as it unfolks itself, is one which contains much heart interest and genuine humor. The love of the young country parson for the village belle, and the wandering from the path of right, tempted by the handsome polished villain from the city form the thread of the story and gives many opportunities for fine dramatic situations and thrilling climaxes, all of which the author has taken advantage of. The scenic and electrical effects are said to be magnificent. The cast is headed by Susette Willey, an artist of unquestioned ability and the supporting cast is a select one, containing the names of well-known metropolitan players. Lovers of good plays will do themselves an injustice if they fail to take advantage of seeing this celebrated attraction.

There are few stars upon the stage today that have any larger following than young Joseph Santley, America's greatest boy actor. This season he is to be seen in a new play which was written expressly for him by Hal Reid, entitled "A Runaway Boy." The play is an exciting melodrama in four acts and five scenes and the part which young Santley plays, "Harry Reynolds," suits him to a nicety. Manager Max M. Meyers has made an elaborate production for "A Runaway Boy," and a competent cast of players have been engaged for young Santley's support. "A Runaway Boy" is to appear at the New Plainfield theatre on Monday night, October 30.

"The Way of the Transgressor," which will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre on Thursday, November 2, is a novelty in every way. It has many comedy features, a host of entertaining vaudeville specialties, and the scenic surroundings are of such rare beauty that it can be better described as a pictorial representation of a story of life. The plot is charmingly unique but at the same time so full of heart interest that it will appeal to all classes of theatre goers. The action of the play is rapid and admits of a number of effective climaxes and stirring situations. One of the features of the production, and one that cannot be duplicated by any other company, it the introduction of a group of highly developed canines, who perform parts in the play in a manner that will convince anyone that they are almost human. These magnificent specimens of the Landseer breed were educated by William T. Stephens and for twelve weeks played an engagements in London, England, where they were praised by the press, applauded by the public and endorsed by royalty. They show their intelligence in a number of ways, and as all their work is done in a quick manner, they are far different from the listless animals that are billed as trained dogs. Important parts have been assigned to them in the play and the way they obey cues and assist in the development of the plot is astounding. With all of these many features that cannot be duplicated by any other company on the road, the engagement of "The Way of the Transgressor" should be the most successful one of the season.

A mammoth scenic production of the famous "Shadows of a Great City" will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Friday, November 3, and will be given in a manner said to surpass all former efforts in stage realism. "Shadows of a Great City" is a melodrama of the better class. It tells a story of New York city life in a manner that is truly interesting and within the bounds of possibility, and is enlivened from beginning to end with good wholesome comedy. The company is headed by that clever old favorite, Sadie Connolly, who will be seen as "Biddy Ronan."

"The Romance of a Hindoo Princess," which has taken the place of "The Raiders" at the New York Hippodrome as a finale to "A Yankee Circus on Mars," has, as was foretold, proven to be the most marvelous dramatic spectacle of the ages and is so pronounced by the thousands who have witnessed the production since its premier. Never has been seen so novel or thrilling a climax to a theme filled with action, as when, the elephants and their riders, hard pressed by the enemy at the close of realistic battle scene in the mountains, plunge down the steep slopes into the great water tank. From a scenic standpoint, the production has never been equalled, either in beauty, magnificence or truthful detail. That is the universal opinion. The other half of the programme, "A Yankee Circus on Mars," the great extravaganza, includes the best in the circus world, showing Claire Heliot and her troupe of lions; Marceline, the droll; the Cottrell-Powells; Mlle. Renz, and a host of other features never before witnessed on this continent.

James K. Hackett and Mary Mannering are now in the fourth week of their great success, "The Walls of Jericho," at the Savoy theatre. This great drama, a latter day society play, is by an Englishman, Alfred Sutro, and was one of the greatest of English successes, as it ran for a two years' season, at the Garrick theatre, London, with Arthur Bourchier and Irene VanBrough in the leading roles. This London success was easily duplicated by James K. Hackett and Mary Mannering upon its American production at the Savoy theatre a few weeks ago, and from its present success it bids fair to run as long in this country as it did in England. Mr. Hackett, always noted for managerial sagacity, has not only made the production of this play the most notable one of his artistic career but for his supporting company he has gathered the best of ability and in its strength, it easily compares with the best of companies in New York.

"Wonderland," the new Julian Mitchell-Victor Herbert-Glen MacDonough venture, which opened at the Majestic theatre, New York, Tuesday night, to the largest and most fashionable audience of the present season, is a sure enough "go.' Everybody in private life who pretends to be in the "lime light," socially, was there. Harry Lehr had a front seat and came late. John Jacob Astor, Jr., had the famous "Sammy" box and on the opposite side of the house were the George Goulds and the Reginald Vanderbilts. Scattered about the body of the house were "Diamond" Jim Brady, Tom Clarke, Stanford White, Abe Hummell and other first nighters. "Wonderland" is described on the programme as a fantastic musical play. That is a new one. Formerly it would have been known as a spectacular musical extravaganza. It is a pot pourri of dazzling stage pictures, wonderful transformation scenes, ravishing costumes, enchanting music and the most beautiful collection of chorus girls ever gotten together. Bessie Wynn, Lotta Faust, Eva Davenport, Sam. Chip and the rest of the cast more than duplicated their Western success. It is expected that "Wonderland" will remain at the Majestic until the hot weather sends it to the storehouse.

The opening performance of Klaw & Erlanger's coming big Drury Lane spectacular production, "The White Cat," at the New Amsterdam theatre, has been postponed from next Monday evening till Thursday, November 21. This is the largest and most magnificent Drury Lane effort that Klaw & Erlanger have ever undertaken. The early part of next week the New Amsterdam theatre stage will be given over to full dress rehearsals. Seats may be ordered by mail, accompanied by remittance.

With the endorsement of over 500 performances at the Apollo theatre in London, one of the greatest records of success ever made in that city, George Edwardes' English company in "Veronique" will open a run at the Broadway theatre next Monday evening. This organization, headed by John Le Hay, Lawrence Rea, Aubrey Fitzgerald, Ralph Nairy, John Malcolm, James Grant, Ruth Vincent, Kitty Gordon, Lena Maitland, Valli Valli, Deborah Volar and Agnes Vincent, arrived in New York last Monday on the steamship Umbria. "Veronique" was first presented in London in the French and made such a hit that Mr. Edwardes had it translated into English and produced it at the Apollo theatre. Its success was tremendous and from the first performance till the company sailed for America ten days ago, it played to capacity. It is one of the brightest and most artistically beautiful productions ever staged in London and it is expected that it will score a similar success here. Seats may be ordered by mail or telegraph.

One of the biggest successes scored at the Herald-Square theatre in many years has been made by Joseph Cawthorn, the German dialect comedian, in Klaw & Erlanger's production of John J. McNally's new musical comedy, "Fritz in Tammany Hall." From its title it might be inferred that this is a political comedy, but such is not the fact. The only smattering of politics in it comes from the incident of plot that Friz von Swobenfritz, an East side German baker, played by Mr. Cawthorn, is nominated by the Tammany machine for alderman as a district exigency is unexpectedly elected. On this episode is built up a very comic musical play, teeming with novelties. The piece is presented in three acts with scenes showing Cooper Union, Donnelly's Grove at College Point, L. I., and the ball room in Tammany Hall. Mr. Cawthorn is upported by a company of 125 people. The principals include Mark Hart, Sue Stuart, Julius M. Tannen, Frank Shea, Ada Lewis, Neva Aymar, George Austin Moore, Susanne Halpren, Melville Ellis and Stella Mayhew, the comedienne.

Catarrh and Hay Fever.

Liquid Cream Balm is becoming quite as popular in many localities as Ely's Cream Balm solid. It is prepared for use in atomizers, and is highly prized by those who have been accustomed to call upon physicians for such treatment. Many physicians are using and prescribing it. All the medicinal properties of the celebrated Cream Balm are contained in the Liquid form, which is 75 cts., including a spraying tube. All druggists, or by mail. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

Rev. Lewis Bond will speak and Miss Winifred C. Carroll will sing at the Y. M. C. A. meeting tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Union Bible Class taught by Rev. D. M. Stearns will meet at the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Tuesday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. All are invited.

NOTICE!
"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abcess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as a bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply Mr. and Mrs. James, Embury Ave., care Hiller, Ocean Grove, N. J. The Iron Brigade

A Story of the Army of the Potomac

By GEN. CHARLES KING

Copyright, 1902, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

"Ask me no questions, my friend, and I'll tell you no lies," was the wary answer. "Gen. McDowell's pass compels me to let you ride along with the column, but doesn't require me to post you as to our movements. You know too much now to be traveling toward Jackson's people, and—have you shown that pass to the division commander?"

"Why, it was he who got it for me," answered the Virginian, placidly. "It was I that took him Lieut. Benton's pistol and told him of his capture. What's more, I'm 'specting to get further news of the lieutenant. Why, hyuh comes the general now, and if you don't mind, colonel, I reckon I'll ride with him a piece."

Graybeard glanced half angrily over his shoulder. A few yards north of the road there was a barren little eminence, on the crest of which there had suddenly appeared the division commander with two of his staff. Unslinging their fieldglasses, they seemed for a moment studying the westward lowlands, then came trotting swiftly toward the column.

"Colonel, there are scattered parties of cavalry out there coming swift this way, too—out north of Bristoe—between that and Gainesville. They don't seem to be watching the column, either. Send one regiment out along the Gainesville road as far as Bethlehem church and let them throw out skirmishers. Halt the rest of the brigade here. Good afternoon, Mr. Jennings," he continued, in civil acknowledgment of the Virginian's salutation. "I thought you were home by this time."

"General," said he, coming alongside, "I want to say one thing, suh, and it's this—that young gentleman of your staff was so kind to Dr. Chilton that it completely staggered the doctor to have him knocked down and captured. He's bound to take the best of cayuh of him till he's well enough to take cayuh of himself—an' then——"

"Well, and then, Mr. Jennings?" asked the general, impatiently, for he was eager to get on ahead.

"You look out for his turning up any day! If he ain't exchanged, I'm bettin' somethin' else will happen."

"My understanding is that Dr. Chilton has made himself personally responsible for Mr. Benton's safekeeping so long as he's allowed to remain with him——"

"That's true, I reckon," answered Jennings. "But," and here his lantern jaws relaxed in whimsical grin, "the doctor ain't the only brainy one in that family, general. The girl that planned young Ladue's escape from your fellows at Henry house may play it on Ewell's folks at Gawd'nsville just as easy."

"So you know Ewell's at Gordonville!" said the general, whirling suddenly on the speaker. "And you know the lady who got Mr. Ferguson into his scrape, do you?"

"Gettin' another fella out o' one—yes—suh," answered Jennings, unflinchingly. "And she made a big play that night to get still another out of a bad fix—'less I'm mistaken. Why, general, you jus' ought to heuh Judge Armistead talk about that girl. He says half the men in Albemarle, university and all, were in love with her when the war broke out, and the judge has a mighty pretty daughter of his own, too. I rather hoped some of our cavalry might be pushin' out toward Hopewell to-night. Ain't Col. Bayard somewhere out that way? Hullo! There's a shot!"

Not one shot, but two, three, in quick succession. Somewhere ahead among the patches and thickets of scrub oak and pine the scattering advance guard had suddenly met swift galloping lads in gray. Then came the distant sound of half a dozen shots—carbines—and the answering sputter of a ragged volley. Well out to the front a bugle sounded some lively call, and, spurring full gallop from the rear, the tall adjutant went bending and twisting away among the trees until out of sight ahead, and then his powerful voice came ringing back: "This way, captain—lively! Double quick!"

Evidently Haskell had sighted some of the quarry and closer at hand than those ahead along the roadway, for there came a crackle of shots—the bark of the cavalry weapon, the saucy pop of a revolver somewhere among the thickets to the left of the column; then a shrill burst of cheers from the deploying blue coats on the westward flank. All of a sudden through the bushes tumbled a little squad of troopers in gray, making heroic effort to carry off a helpless comrade. The general and his aides had spurred in with the skirmishers, and were just in time to see two riderless horses tearing away among the trees across an open glade, while half a dozen daring, devoted fellows in saddle were stoutly interposing between the forward rush of the excited Badgers and three of their number surrounding and supporting a tall officer who had been lifted sideways to the back of a plunging steed. "Halt!" "Halt!" "Dismount!" "Surrender!" rang the hoarse shouts of the dozen bluecoats, dashing in pursuit. Bang! Bang! came the defiant response of the few defenders. Bang! Bang! bellowed a brace of Springfields in reply. "Don't shoot!" "Hold your fire!" yelled the general. "Don't shoot!" "Don't shoot!" echoed the staff, for the luckless cavalier, reeling in his seat, went sliding into the arms of his loyal followers, while the devil of a horse whirled round, tugging, straining at the reins and striving to break away. "Dismount!" "Down with you!" "Off with you!" cried the pursuers, officer and man, as another terrified horse tore, wildly neighing, in chase of the foremost. It was a desperate effort on part of the grays. Their comrade troopers were too far off to help them, even could they drive through the stout skirmish line already far flung across the field beyond. With a last wave of his white hand, the officer seemed ordering his defenders to save themselves, and those in saddle, with parting shots and defiant yells—one of them even hurling in rage his emptied revolver at the tall adjutant, the foremost man in the rush—darted away, bending low over the streaming manes, with the bullets of half a score of Springfields whizzing past their ears.

The adjutant was off his big, rawboned bay in an instant and, bending over the fainting man, unscrewed the cap of his flask and held it to the pale lips beneath the sweeping mustache. "A major, hey?" he said, as he noted the brilliant braids of gold lace on the handsome uniform frock. "What is a major doing out here with only a squad of you boys?"

"Is he wounded?" asked the chief as he glanced at the two silent striplings in gray. One of them faced the commander.

"Horse fell, suh—rolled on him—broke his leg," said he, with a salute that told unerringly of soldier teaching; so, too, did the speaker's pose. Instinctively he was standing at attention. He knew the rank betrayed by that yellow sash.

"Give this young gentleman a sip from your flask, Haskell; I fear he's—— Why, my lad, you're wounded! Look to him, some of you!" cried the general, for the boy had grown ashen pale and was reeling when strong arms caught and lowered him.

"Sure, general. He's shot through the breast," said a bearded soldier, tearing aside the trooper's jacket and displaying a blood-wet shirt beneath.

UNCLEAN MONEY.

Part of Gang Corruption Fund Diverted to a Noble Charity.

"The Record" accepts advertisements as a common carrier accepts freights, at current rates of service, making no discrimination among its customers.

Because of this fact certain space in our advertising columns has been sold to "the gang" who very shrewdly conceived that the columns of this journal afforded an open gateway into reputable and influential quarters not otherwise readily approached.

In pursuance of "The Record's" policy of not discriminating against anyone it printed "the gang" advertisements. Yet "The Record" has qualms. The object of these paid for publications is so opposed to the public welfare, so obnoxious to the teachings of the press, the pulpit, the law, and the well settled beliefs of honest men of all parties that the money stinks in contact with the honest dollars in "The Record" treasury.

Unclean money can, however, serve a useful purpose, and in an effort to employ it in that direction "The Record" will turn over all of the money that may be received in payment of "the gang" advertisements to the Philadelphia Home for Incurables. It will probably be the best use to which the money of political pirates was ever devoted.

The Philadelphia Home for Incurables is an institution for the care of men, women and children afflicted with incurable diseases, and is supported by private funds, endowments and donations. It receives no State appropriation. It is non-sectarian and open to all incurables except those suffering from mental derangement, contagious disease, consumption or epilepsy. The home, which is located at Forty-eighth street and Woodland avenue, has been in existence twenty-eight years.

Its president is Mrs. Edward H. Ogden, of Riverton, N. J.; the vice-presidents are Mrs. Edward R. Fell, Mrs. J. Lewis Crozer, of Upland, Pa.; Mrs. Solomon Smucker and Mrs. Walter T. Baird, and the treasurer is Mrs. Charles Hermon Thomas. The managers are all well known women in charitable work, and the Advisory Board includes such prominent men as John H. Converse, Isaac H. Clothier, Robert H. Crozer, William H. Staake and Caleb J. Milne. Among the physicians on the consulting staff are Dr. W. W. Keen, Dr. Charles S. Turnbull and Dr. Edward L. Duer.

The institution includes a main building, a separate building for children and a new cancer ward for men. This new building has been recently almost completed, at a cost of over $50,000, and at present the officers are making strong efforts to raise $25,000 to wipe out a debt on the structure.

There are 151 patients in the home according to the 1905 report—47 men, 78 women and 26 children. There were 39 deaths last year, 17 alone being from cancer. A payment of $100 is required from each patient admitted to the general ward, but after that the expense of their care and maintenance is borne by the institution. In extreme cases, where the applicant for admission is unable to pay the required entrance charge, a special arrangement is made. Recently a ward was opened for patients who can afford to pay a weekly charge of $7; and no entrance fee is required of them.

The institution has been gradually enlarging and increasing its facilities, but cannot accommodate one-half the applicants for admission. Over 250 patients applied for admission last year and are on the waiting list, as only the death of inmates makes room for their accommodation.—Philadelphia Record.

AMUSEMENTS

Miss Marie Cahill, America's most typical comedienne, will open her annual New York season at the Liberty theatre, West 42d street, near Broadway, under the management of Daniel V. Arthur, in the "smart" musical play, "Moonshine," which was written by Edwin Milton Royle and George V. Hobart, with music by Silvio Hein. The play has received a most flattering verdict at Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland, and New York's opinion is awaited with interest, for the other cities have hailed "Moonshine" as the cleverest thing of its kind and the best musical play America has ever had. James O'Donnell Bennett, one of the leading critics of the country, who writes for the Chicago Record-Herald, says of "Moonshine:" It is a play written by clever people, and acted by clever people for clever people." No less enthusiastic have been the opinions of the critics on the work of Marie Cahill. They are unanimous in their statement that she is the most original comedienne who has ever faced an American audience. Miss Cahill has not only continued her many successes as a singer of songs, but by force of personality and talent has made for herself a place in American dramatic affairs which many older women may well envy. "Moonshine," as a whole, is very much of a novelty. The name is odd, the book is intensely bright, and the music is about the best that has been heard in a musical play for some time.

Mrs. John Stafford, of Essex street, has been detained at home by illness.

Miss Frances Neidig, of New York, has returned home after a visit with her brother, Frank Neidig, of Manning avenue.

MUMFORD CUP FINALS TAKE PLACE TODAY

MISS VAN BOSKERCK AND MISS TRACY RIVALS FOR PRILE.

In the stated play for the Mumford handicap cup at the Plainfield Country Club on Thursday afternoon, the result was as follows: Mrs. H. Pendleton Rogers beat Miss Margaret Goddard, by 1 up in 19 holes; Miss Maude VanBoskerck beat Miss Adelaide G. Ball, by 5 up and 3 to play; Mrs. Walter Gaston beat Miss M. Holly, by 4 up and 3 to play, and Miss Edith H. Tracy beat Miss Martha Robert, by 3 up and 2 to play. The finals will be played today.

The final play for the Golf Committee cup will be the event at the Plainfield Country Club today. This competition has been continued throughout the season and there has been unusual interest. With the conclusion of today's play will be known the winner of the cup. It is almost sure to be E. B. Shoemaker. In addition to this play, there will be a competition among those players who have three points for the cup and it will take some little time to decide the winner of this contest.

There will be the weekly competition for the President's and Park Golf Club trophies at the Park Golf Club today.

In the semi-final play for the Mumford cup yesterday afternoon, Miss Maude Van Boskerck beat Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers by 3 up and 2 to play, and Miss Edith H. Tracy beat Mrs. Walter Gaston by 2 up. The finals between Miss Van Boskerck and Miss Tracy will be played this afternoon.

Although Mrs. Rogers was defeated yesterday in the semi-final play, it should be stated that she had a handicap of plus three, while the other players were given a liberal number of strokes. In her match with Miss Maude Van Boskerck Mrs. Rogers was 6 up without her handicap. She went out in 45 and returned in 38, while her opponent went out in 46. In the finals today Miss Van Boskerck allows Miss Tracy two strokes.

Kiszonak in Court.

In the Somerset County Court at Somerville yesterday, Charles Kiszonak, a saloon keeper at Raritan, retracted and pleaded guilty to a charge of keeping a disorderly house and Judge Schenck fined him $100. Kiszonak was also indicted by the recent Grand Jury on a charge of shooting former-Policeman John Stevenson, of Raritan, who has never fully recovered from the effects of the wound. The defendant has pleaded not guilty to this charge and he will come up for trial Wednesday, November 9.

PARK CLUB EVENT A SOCIAL SUCCESS

FALL RECEPTION LAST NIGHT ATTENDED BY THREE HUNDRED.

The annual fall reception at the Park Club last night was a brilliant affair and a great success, marking the resumption of social activities at the club. There were nearly 300 present.

The clubhouse presented an attractive picture, being lavishly decorated with clubhouse clematis, southern smilax, palms and chrysanthemums in profesion. The numerous incandescent lamps were covered with pink crepe paper. Especially on and about the stage were the decorations and behind this foliage von Heide's orchestra were seated.

The reception began at 8 o'clock and up to 11 o'clock the orchestra rendered a delightful programme of popular selections. The guests were received by the wives of the Board of Governors, Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. E. C. Murray, Mrs. J. B. Betts, while the entertainment committee, of which Mrs. Charles A. Reed is the chairman, was in charge.

At 10:30 supper was served by the club steward, Henry Johnson, after which dancing began and was continued until long after midnight. Those remaining for the dance were chiefly of the younger set, and included a number of guests from out of town.

From now on the regular programme for the fall and winter season will be enjoyed by the members. This will include informal dances, entertainments and various other forms of amusement.

PLANNING FOR LECTURES.

Baptist Young Women Decide on Entertainments.

The members of the Young Women's Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, at a social-business meeting held at the home of the president, Miss Ada Fountain, yesterday afternoon, decided to give three illustrated lectures during the winter for the benefit of missions. The young women hope to secure Charles W. McCutchen to give one of these lectures, telling of his long trip abroad. The other two lectures have not been definitely decided.

Following the devotional exercises, which were conducted by Miss Fountain, two papers were presented, one by Miss Bourgois on "Africa," and the other on home missions by Miss Velma Oakley. They were followed by an informal discussion of the subjects, a social time and the serving of refreshments. The next meeting of the society will be on Friday, November 24.

PLANS FOR HARVEST HOME.

Women's Auxiliary Appoint Committees for the Annual Affair.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital met yesterday and formulated plans for the annual harvest home to be held at the Nurses' Home on Wednesday, November 15, and the chairmen of the various committees were appointed as follows:

Refreshments, Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman; receiving goods, Mrs. Paul Taylor Brown; posters and printing, Mrs. Harry V. Borden; church notices, Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna; garments from the Needlework Guild, Mrs. J. E. Corlies; school notices, Mrs. T. W. T. Maxwell; decorations, Mrs. F. D. Warren.

The visitors appointed for the month of November are Mrs. J. P. Stevens, Mrs. J. O. Slevin, Mrs. A. T. Slausson. Mrs. Stevens will be the purchaser.

Farewell Sermon.

Rev. F. Ehrenholm will preach his last sermon in Plainfield at the German Lutheran church tomorrow.

READY FOR DEDICATION

Opening of Salvation Army's New Hall Occasion For Formal Exercises.

STAFF BAND HERE

Charles W. McCutchen to Preside—Building is An Ornament to City—Officers' Conference.

Ensign McGee and the local corps of the Salvation Army have definitely decided upon Sunday afternoon, November 5, as the date for the dedication of the new hall on East Second street, which has practically been completed. It will mark a new era in the career of the army in this city and the event will be well attended by many of the best known workers in the service.

The exercises are to commence at 3 o'clock and admission will be by ticket only. Charles W. McCutchen, of the borough, who has been always interested in the work of the corps and who has made generous contributions to the building fund, has consented to preside. The dedicatory address is to be delivered by Colonel Salvation Army's New Hall.

Peart, second officer in command in the United States, and staff captains from the New York headquarters and nearby cities will have places on the programme. Music for the occasion will be furnished by the full staff band from New York. On the Monday following, the hall will be the scene of an officers' conference, at which cities from all parts of the State will be represented. This will be in the afternoon and at night there is to be a public meeting.

The new building is a handsome structure and will provide for the needs of the local corps for many years. It is one of the best homes in the metropolitan district and will enable the officers to carry on their work to better advantage.

Y. M. C. A. TEAM WON.

Rahway Five Defeated by Score of 31 to 6.

The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. first team defeated Rahway ex-High School basketball team last night by the score of 31 to 6 in the local gymnasium. Plainfield played a hard, fast game, but can be improved by pactice, especially in the matter of team work.

Several new players are out this year trying for the team, and last night's game brought out some very pronounced defects, but at the same time showed good promise for a successful season.

The line-up of teams:

Plainfield.		Rahway.
Hand	right forward.	Millar
Thompson	left forward.	Boland
Scull	centre.	Thimbley
Letson	right guard.	F. Gibbons
Utzinger	left guard.	H. Gibbons

Goals from field—Hand, 6; Scull, 4; Thompson, 3; Letson, Utzinger, Millar, F. Gibbons. From fouls—F. Gibbons, 2; Hand. Referee—C. B. Morse. Scorer—J. M. Doane. Timer—Sanderson.

A second game was played between a Y. M. C. A. picked team and the Rahway Triangles. Line-up:

Plainfield.		Rahway.
Gilmore, Douglas	right forward.	Hays
Collingsworth	left forward.	Orr
Utzinger	centre.	Collins
Phillips	right guard.	Russo

Goals from field—Orr, 3; Gilmore, Collingsworth, Hoagland, Russo, 2. From foul—Utzinger. Referee—Morse. Scorer—Doane. Timer—Sanderson.

Plainfield Y. M. C. A. will play the Plainfield High School next Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Clacy Was Drunk.

Thomas Clacy, an employe of a hardware dealer, was arrested last night for drunkenness. He was released under suspended sentence by Judge Runyon this morning.

Salvationists to Speak.

Major and Mrs. J. Sheppard, of the Salvation Army, will address the meeting tomorrow night in the Grace M. E. church.

PINGRY DEFEATS LEALS

In an Exciting Contest the Local Eleven Drops to Last Place.

SCORE WAS 6 TO 5.

Good Work by Dallas, Glenney and Howard for Leal's, and Whitlock and Ross for Pingry.

By losing the game this morning to Pingry School, Elizabeth, the Leal's School football team dropped to last place in the Interscholastic Football League. The game was played on the Cricket Field in North Plainfield, and Pingry won by a score of 6 to 5. Both teams were very evenly matched and the contest was exciting from the start.

Pingry won the toss and Leal's kicked to them. The ball remained in the middle of the field for the five minutes of play. Then Leal's braced and Glenney ran thirty yards on a fumble of Pingry. Dallas, by steady rushes through the line, was pushed over for a touchdown after eight minutes of play. Glenney failed at an easy goal. Then Leal's kicked to Pingry and the ball changed hands often until the end of the half, when it was held by Pingry on their own thirty-yard line.

Pingry entered the second half with a determination to win, while Leal's was determined to hold their own. Pingry kicked to Leal's, Dallas receiving the ball on his own ten-yard line and running back fifteen yards. Pingry held their opponents for downs and Leal's kicked, Ross catching the ball and running for about twenty yards. On the next play Keat, Pingry's guard, broke free of the whole Leal team and ran for thirty yards for a touchdown. Ross then kicked a difficult goal. On the next play Pingry kicked to Leal's. Then on numerous plays, Leal's brought the ball to within twenty yards of their opponent's goal. Glenney then fell back for a try at a drop kick, but the kick was dropped, and this was Leal's last and nearest chance to score. For the rest of the half the ball was in Pingry's hand, and when time was called they held the pigskin on Leal's fifteen-yard line. Score, 6 to 5 in Pingry's favor.

The best playing for Leal's was done by Dallas and Glenney, while Howard held his end down well and proved a hard man to tackle on the run. For the visitors Captain Whitlock and Ross made a number of long gains. Leal's next game is with North Plainfield on Wednesday. The line-up and summary:

Leal's School.		Pingry.
Bergen	right end.	Banker
Guerrietez	right tackle.	Keat
Endicott	right guard.	Prince
Haughey	centre.	Thames
Eoff	left guard.	Simons
Brokaw	left tackle.	Hobbs
Glenney	quarterback.	Myers
Brown	right halfback.	Ross
Dallas	fullback.	Whitlock

Referee—Garrison, of Montclair Military Academy. Umpire—Todd, of Newark. Linesmen—Russell Lawrence, of Leal's, and Miller, of Pingry. Timers—Leggett, of Plainfield High School, and Smith, of Pingry. Time of halves—20 minutes. Touchdowns—Dallas and Keat. Goals from touchdown—Ross. Score—First half, Leal's, 5; Pingry, 0; second half, Leal's, 0; Pingry, 6. Final score—Pingry, 6; Leal's, 5. Attendance—400.

WRECK DELAYED THE TRAFFIC.

Central Freight Train Buckles and Cars Are Strewn.

All tracks on the Central Railroad were blocked from 10:30 o'clock Wednesday night until 6 o'clock the next morning by a freight wreck that occurred about one mile east of here. The wreck was caused by the bursting of an air hose in the train of extra engine 472, pulling a mixed train of coal and freight cars that was being assisted over the grade by a pusher engine that was put against it at Dunellen. The air hose bursted on a car near the middle of the train, bringing the head portion to a sudden stop. The pusher engine continued to shove the rear end, causing the cars to buckle up just as the top of the grade was reached.

Ten cars left the track and piled up on the three other tracks, blocking them completely. The tracks were torn up for a distance of about 200 feet, and all traffic was blocked until an opening could be made, when trains were run on a single track around the wreck. Two wrecking crews worked all night clearing up the wreck. No one was injured.

Boy Preacher Coming.

FOR A LIBERAL SABBATH

Members of Unitarian Men's Club Express Interesting Opinions.

PAPER BY J. O. OSGOOD

Conscience Should Be Guild to Sunday Observance, He Holds, But Individual Ought to Regard General Opinion.

Sunday observance was interestingly discussed by the Men's Club of the Unitarian church last night at the first meeting of the new season. Twelve speakers took part, and the concensus of their opinion was all in favor of a liberal Sabbath, governed by ethical as well as moral rules. It was agreed that the individual conscience should be largely the standard of observance, but that the citizens of any given community owed it to their fellows to respect the prevailing conception of the general attitude toward the day.

The meeting was well attended and presented an earnest of a highly successful and interesting sermon. Forty church members were present.

J. O. Osgood, chief engineer of the Central Railroad, led the discussion with a brief paper. In part he said:

"It seems to me that no one can prescribe very exactly for another in such matters. Our duty on Sundays, as on other days, is to improve our time, and it would seem that the opportunity our weekly holiday affords for expressing and developing the religion which is in us all should not be entirely lost. Those of us who believe that attending church is a help to us and others should do what we can in this direction. Though our religion permeates every day of our lives and finds expression in all our acts, it is all the better for a little special expression of it on a Sunday.

"Physical rest is good, and so is mental rest, after a hard week's strain; walks are good, and there are many innocent forms of amusement. No one will pretend that it is sinful in itself to play golf or chess or any other sane and wholesome game on Sunday.

"It seems to me that, after all, there is but one rule to apply as to Sunday observance, and that is the old one set forth in the teachings of Jesus and his apostles, that it is not the thing done itself that is to be regarded so much as the spirit in which it is done. If we act unselfishly and with full consideration for the rights and the feelings of others we are likely to use our Sundays so as to give no offense to our neighbors and to make them profitable in the best way to ourselves.

"If we plan the use of the day with a view only to our own enjoyment and without thought of others, the day will prove of no value and we shall perhaps feel that it has been the worst day of the week.

"If, however, while endeavoring to get from it such physical rest as we need, we take our pleasure in such things as tend to elevate ourselves and help others we are likely to find Sunday observance a pleasure and a privilege and the day one to be looked forward to.

"This seems, as the newspaper editorials says, "a counsel of perfection," but I am satisfied that if we could apply it strictly our use of the day would be good, whether the conditions prompted to church going, to Sunday school or swimming. I believe, as we are situated, we might well give the preference to church and Sunday school, but if we apply the right tsets there need be little question as to the proper course for us to pursue in our observance of Sunday.

"If the general sentiment of the community favors a quiet observance of the day, I cannot believe that it would be right for me to unnecessarily shock my neighbors by sawing wood or playing golf under their windows on a Sunday, however harmless either would be under other conditions. If, on the contrary, my lot were cast where the day was one of festivity, I could hardly reconcile myself to dampening the general ardor by a gloomy and sanctimonious demeanor which would cast a wet blanket upon the general good feeling, however harmless my whimsies neighbors. These are extreme illustrations but perhaps they will make my meaning clear. Let us make the day one of helpfulness and good cheer to all, expressing and cultivating the best there is in us. This involves a careful and considerate regard for the welfare and feelings of others. We must respect their views and avoid as much as possible what will pain and annoy them."

Among those who joined in the symposium that followed the paper was the pastor, Rev. A. C. Nickerson. He agreed in general with Mr. Osgood, but held to the ministerial view, that the day should be spent essentially in quiet ways, with unswerving regard to the attainment of the higher life.

With Mr. Osgood, the other speakers held that morally harmless amusements might be indulged in if the individual's conscience permitted, without peril to the life of the soul or the refinement of character. The comfort or peace of mind of the neighbors should not be ignored, and that which annoys or scandalizes any considerable portion of the community on Sunday should not be practiced on that day.

After the meeting refreshments were served. The November meeting of the club will be as interesting as the one of last night. The subject for discussion is: "Resolved, That Parents Should Bias Their Children in the Direction of Their Own Religious Belief."

CITY JOTTINGS.

—DeWitt Miller appeared this year for the fourteenth consecutive season on the well known Cincinnati Unity course. It is said that all his time for the past twelve years has been filled from the middle of October to the first of June, and that he has also done much Chautauqua work in the summer. He will appear with the Van Eps brothers and W. E. MacClymont in the Y. M. C. A. star course on Monday evening.

A BARN SOCIAL.

Epworth League Young People Conduct a Hallowe'en Affair.

Under the auspices of the Epworth League, of Grace M. E. church, a Hallowe'en social was conducted in McLaughlin's barn on Somerset street, last night. The interior was appropriately decorated with autumn foliage, Jack-o'-lanterns and harvest products. "Spook" games were enjoyed and refreshments were served at the close.

The committee which had charge of the affair consisted of Miss Grace Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Herman, Benjamin Schuck, Russel Harding and Ray Miller.

No Service Tomorrow.

Owing to the funeral of Hiram A. Mears there will be no service in the Christian church tomorrow morning.

PLAINFIELD BOYS AT STATE CONFERENCE

GROWTH OF Y. M. C. A. LAD'S WORK SHOWN IN NEW JERSEY.

Kenneth Robbie, boys' secretary at the Y. M. C. A., acompanied by Roy Woodhull, Harold Robins, Russell Morris, Stanley Karner, F. B. Smith, Charles Line, Walter Caldwell and Donald Mortimer, members of the boys' department of the association, are attending the annual conference on boys' work which opened at Camden yesterday afternoon and which will continue until tomorrow night.

Nearly 100,000 boys from twelve to seventeen years of age are in the membership of the associations of North America, and there are upward of 5,000 in private and preparatory schools under the supervision of the student department, approximately 45,000 in the senior membership and 50,000 in the city, town, county, colored, railroad and industrial boys' departments. New Jersey stands first in the work for boys, under the able leadership of Charles R. Scott, who has been secretary of the boys' department for eight years, and who in 1901 was called to the State secretaryship.

The Plainfield association received during the past two years $7,500 toward a boys' building, and those in charge of this work hope to have such a building erected in the near future.

CORONER'S INQUEST HELD

Jury Finds J.E. Christopher's Death Resulted From Wounds Inflicted By Watson.

WITNESSES' STORIES

Contradict Preacher's Original Version of the Slashing Affray—

Victim's Widow to Be Released.

A jury empanelled by Coroner William Long, of Somerville, held an inquest in the North Plainfield police headquarters this morning and formally reached a verdict that "J. E. Christopher came to his death from loss of blood from wounds inflicted upon him by James Allen Watson." Their inquiry was merely the legal following of the slashing affray of Saturday noon, when Mr. and Mrs. Christopher and Watson, the itinerant Baptist preacher, all colored, fought over the use of a stove in apartments on Warren street occupied by them jointly. Christopher died soon after being taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, and his wife and Watson were locked up. They are now in the Somerville jail, but the woman is to be released on her own recognizance tonight.

The jury was composed of William L. Smalley, Jr., foreman; William McLaughlin, Clark Mundy, Walter Kettenring and Hayes Reynolds. All are butchers with the exception of McLaughlin. The inquest was conducted by Coroner Long and Prosecutor John F. Reger, of Somerville, for Somerset county. Others in attendance were County Physician Taylor, County Detective George Totten and Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the borough.

The witnesses called were Mrs. Mary Watson, wife of the prisoner; Miss Mattie Walker, who resides in the house with her; Mr. and Mrs. Max Michaelson, who live across the street; Catherine Bergen, a next-door neighbor, who was in the Watson house when the quarrel started; George Feller, another Warren street resident; Marshals Fred Emmons and Joseph Flack, Aleck Kane and Dr. Fred Hughes. The failure to have Mrs. Christopher present prevented the securing of an important link in the chain of testimony. From those who went on the stand it was gleaned that the Watsons and Christophers had quarrelled more or less for a week over the use of a stove in the Watson kitchen. Mrs. Watson leased the house and subletted one room upstairs and the privilege of doing washing and ironing in her kitchen to Mrs. Christopher. The latter asserted she had a right to cook on the Watson stove, and this was what started Saturday's quarrel.

She started to fry some fish, when Watson told her to clear out, but the woman instead called for her husband. The two then attacked Watson, and all three struggled about the rooms until they fell through the front door and plunged down the porch steps to the yard, then rolled to the sidewalk. The Christophers had Watson down and were pummelling him unmercifully when Max Michaelson pulled them apart. He pushed the Christophers away, he said, and clung to Watson, but the latter drew a razor from his pocket and wielded it about his head. Michaelson sprang away from him and Watson rushed at Christopher, drawing the razor with all his strength down his arms. The flesh was stripped clear from the bone from the shoulder to the wrist and all important arteries were severed.

Watson wielded the weapon with such strength that the handle broke from the blade and Christopher's wife called to him to run straight to a doctor's office. He started for Dr. Zeglio's, but fell at Warren and Pearl streets from exhaustion, remaning there until the ambulance arrived. George Feller and others attempted to stop the flow of blood, but without success.

In his statement Saturday Watson said Mrs. Christopher had picked up a razor lying on a table and had attempted to cut him. In self-defense, he said, he caught up another and swung it about his head, Christopher getting in the way. Michaelson's testimony that Watson pulled a razor from his pocket after the combatants reached the street is a direct contradiction.

DRUGGIST NAGLE BUYS FRONT STREET BUILDING

PAYS $36,000 FOR WELL-KNOWN PIECE OF PROPERTY.

Another large and important deal in city real estate has been closed, whereby Emanuel Schloss has sold to Clayton M. Nagle the building at West Front and Grove streets, a portion of which is occupied by him as a pharmacy. The structure has three stores and is four stories high. Mr. Nagle occupies the corner store. The building has a frontage of sixty feet and a depth of eighty-five feet. The consideration was $26,000, and the deal was made by Albert Lederer, real estate broker. H. C. Runyon attended to the legal part of the sale.

This is one of the best known properties in the city, being occupied for many years by Schepflin, Baldwin, Tweedy & Co., for the manufacture of clothing, and later by the late Tunis J. Carey. Mr. Schloss, the former owner, had just completed transforming the upper floors into flats, and it is Mr. Nagle's intention to make great improvements in his new property, which include the changing of the entire front for a new and more modern one.

Included in this deal Mr. Nagle sold to Mr. Schloss his residence property at 457 West Front street, the consideration being $5,000. Mr. Nagle started in the drug business here five years ago and by steady, persistent effort has been very successful. His recent purchase will enable him to make many desired improvements.

The deal was closed on Friday, the same day that Mr. Lederer sold John Ross' building at North and Watchung avenues to Cadmus Brothers, druggists. The two sales, with that of a residential property on East Second street, aggregates deals amounting to $50,000 which Mr. Lederer effected that day.

DR. PARSONS PAYS TRIBUTE IN MEMORY OF JOHN KNOX

THE FOUR HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY OF HIS BIRTH OBSERVED YESTERDAY.

The four hundredth anniversary of the birth of John Knox was celebrated in Grace M. E. church in the service of yesterday morning. Dr. C. W. Parsons, the pastor, paid a glowing tribute to the worth and might of Scotland's great reformer.

The text was St. John 1-6: "There was a man sent from God whose name was John." Dr. Parsons said in part:

"John Calvin, John Knox and John Wesley were like three towering peaks in the great reform movement. They resembled each other in many particulars, and yet had points of difference as marked, as the dissimilarity of the tasks assigned to each.

"Calvin was the law-giver of Protestantism—its Moses, Knox its Joshua, and Wesley the flying-herald of the Gospel of Free Grace and Peace.

"John Knox was strong, great and good. Rugged, towering, like one of the crays of his native land, he was a majestic and overwhelming personality, and yet in tenderness he was like a lakelet quivering in the sunlight. Stern and unbending, he was yet gentle and calm.

"What Luther was to Germany, and Calvin to Geneoa, Knox was to Scotland. Bitterly assailed, a captive to France, chained to the oar, a galley slave, and then free again, at home in his native land, the fearless leader for the rights of men, he led the forward line, until Scotland was free.

"And it is safe to say, that, as much as England, Scotland and Wales are Protestant today, is more due to the sterling worth and magnificent leadership of John Knox, than to any, and all other human influences combined.

"He was the great non-conformist, and so paved the way for John Wesley, and the Methodist revival."

OVER 2,000 TOOK PART

Knights of Columbus, A. O. H., and Holy Name Society March In a Body to the Burying Ground.

Continuing an annual parish custom inaugurated three years ago, St. Mary's R. C. church held a memorial service at the parochial cemetery yesterday afternoon. Over 2,000 church members attended it. The exercises were impressive. Solemn in themselves, the environment in which they were held gave them a character that moved the deepest feelings of those who heard them.

The graveyard service is preliminary to the feast of All Souls. It is consistent with the doctrine of the Catholic church that prayers for the dead are effective in freeing them from the purgatory to which their sins condemn them. Public prayers for the dead are always held in Catholic churches on All Souls' day, and in parishes where the graveyard is conveniently situated intercessory prayers are said there on the Sunday before the day. The cemetery service is not obligatory in church practice, and is not held where the graveyard is situated too far from the majority of parishioners to make it easy for them to meet there. Father Egan began the custom here, and it will be kept up.

The service yesterday began at 3 o'clock. Mild, sunny weather called almost the full strength of the parish members out. All those who had relatives buried in the cemetery were invited to take part, and numbers from St. Joseph's and other neighboring parishes attended. It was estimated that 2,500 people were in the gathering.

Members of the Knights of Columbus, Ancient Order of Hibernians, and the Holly Name Society marched to the cemetery in a body. There were 210 Knights in line, 154 A. O. H. members, and 100 members of the Holy Name Society. Forty of the latter were from St. Joseph's church.

When the organizations reached the cemetery they formed in extended order. As the ranks drew up Father Bogan, the rector, and the assistant priests came from the cemetery building in their robes of office, and marched through lines of men and women, reciting the rosary. The march of prayer covered all the cemetery. The crucifier and choir preceded the priests. The congregation said the responses at the appointed place in the exercises.

After the prayers the congregation gathered about the priests' grave in the center of the burying ground, from where Father Bogan preached a sermon of an appropriate nature. His text was from the forty-sixth verse of the second book of the Maccabees: "It is a holy and a wholesome thought to pray for the dead, that they may be loosed from their sins." Father Bogan dwelt on the ever-constant presence of death, and the necessity of preparing for it, that the soul might not face its Master unrepentant and bearing a record of wasted and sinful years.

The whole service lasted fifty-five minutes. It was marked by one musical feature, the singing of the Benedictus by a quartette choir composed of the male members of the general choir and the boys of the chancel choir.

ALMOST READY FOR CARNIVAL.

Making Final Arrangements for Hallowe'en Festivities.

Final arrangements for the big Hallowe'en carnival in Newark, so far as can be made by the general committee, will be completed at a meeting tonight in the City Hall. Chief of Police Adams, too, is making arrangements to handle the big crowds tomorrow night, to avert accidents and to prevent street and house robberies.

Preparations are being made by the steam and street railroads running into and through Newark for handling more people than they have ever before. The king of the carnival will unmask at the New Auditorium.

Feast Day Services.

Special services will be held in St. Mary's church the greater part of the week. Tonight, tomorrow night and Wednesday night three days' devotion will be held. Wednesday morning three masses will be held in celebration of All Saints' Day, at 5:30, 7 and 9 o'clock. On Thursday All Souls' Day will be celebrated with masses at 6:30, 7 and 9 o'clock in the morning.

Register Tomorrow.

Tomorrow will be your last chance to register. The following Tuesday will be election day.

BASIS FOR THE CHARGES

Rev. Dr. Schenck Says Much Smoke Means Some Fire.

DISHONEST FINANCE

More Uprightness and Integrity Needed in the Officers of the Insurance and Banking Companies.

In the course of a sermon on "Integrity and Uprightness," Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck touched on the recent charges of bossism and irregularity in local politics and municipal affairs, at Trinity church yesterday morning.

He intimated his belief in at least the partial truth of the accusations.

"It has been well said," he said, "that where there is so much smoke there must be some fire."

The sermon was not denunciatory. He echoed Rev. Dr. Lewis' counsel for a suspension of judgment on the account of office-holders and politicians.

Dr. Schenck also made reference to the disclosures of corruption in insurance and banking circles. More honesty and unrightness of character were needed by the officers of insurance companies and banks. He held up Job and David as examples of strong moral men on whom modern financiers should model their lives.

"If the insurance companies had such men as Job and David in office today, the people would not be reading about the use of premium money for election purposes," he said.

Dr. Schenck said he wished there were more men like President Roosevelt, to stand up for "a square deal for every man."

FIREMEN MET TODAY.

Paid Departments Members Hold Annual Session.

The members of the Trenton fire department made elaborate preparations for the reception of the firemen who went to that city to attend the ninth annual convention of the New Jersey Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association which met at Turner Hall, Trenton, today.

The members of this organization are members of the paid departments in the cities of the State.

Nothing came before the convention outside of routine business except the matter of adopting a per capita tax assessment. A discussion arose as to how much the tax shall be, and some of the members may oppose assessment.

Reports of standing and special committees were read. The convention was called to order at 11 o'clock and there were morning and afternoon sessions.

Tonight there will be a banquet at Turner Hall to the visitors and city officials.

The officers of the association are: President, Michael J. Ryan, of Paterson; vice-president, Thomas McGinty, of Trenton; secretary, Robert D. Bender, of Newark, and treasurer, James Elberson, of Camden.

President Ryan and Secretary Bender will likely be re-elected, but there will be a change in the offices of vice-president and treasurer.

The city fire departments represented are Plainfield, Newark, Jersey City, Paterson, Hoboken, Camden, Trenton, Atlantic City, Elizabeth, the Oranges and Montclair.

Each department has three representatives to the convention.

The local delegates are George Feiring and James Daley.

Good Pianos Cheap.

A Wanamaker piano store will be opened tomorrow morning at 176 East Front street, when exceptional opportunities will be offered to secure the very best pianos on the market today. Nine different makes of pianos, including four kinds of self-playing instruments and the Angelus piano-player, making ninety-four different instruments in all. A glance through the advertisement in today's issue will acquaint you with the makes. Expert demonstrators will be in attendance, giving concerts every evening, and the public is invited.

Captured Deserter from the Navy.

William Heath, a well known Somerville young man, was captured in that place, Saturday, by Detective Totten, as a deserter from the United States navy. He was taken at once to the Brooklyn navy yard. Heath is the son of John Heath, a Raritan jeweler and has a wife and two children who reside at the father's home.

Evangelistic Services.

The evangelistic meetings in Dunellen began most auspiciously last evening in the M. E. church, whose capacity was taxed by the audience present. Rev. Frank Fletcher delivered a forceful sermon. This evening Rev. Dr. Daniel Halleran, of Newark, will be the speaker.

E. B. SHOEMAKER WINS

Impossible For Other Contestants In Golf Competition to Overcome His Lead.

FINAL PLAY SATURDAY

Miss Edith Tracy Captures the Mumford Handicap Trophy by Defeating Miss Van Boskerck.

E. B. Shoemaker is the winner of the golf committee cup which has been competed for throughout the past season at the Plainfield Country Club. The final play for this cup was on Saturday, but Mr. Shoemaker, with a total of fifteen points, held the lead, and it was impossible for the other contestant to beat him out. This competition has been very exciting and interesting this season, and the scores have been close. A comparison of the standings for the trophy show that the contestants have all been playing an even game.

On Saturday E. E. Iremonger won first honors with a net score of 76, while T. E. Stockton and Edward J. Pitterson finished second and third. While this is the final play for the golf committee cup, commencing next Saturday there will be play for the Thomas R. Van Boskerck cup for those who finished with three points. There will be play for this cup on Saturday, Election Day and the following Saturday.

These scores were returned for the golf committee cup on Saturday:

E. E. Iremonger, 87, 11—76; T. E. Stockton, 88, 11—77; Edward J. Patterson, 101, 23—78; W. D. Riggs, 96, 17—79; Stuart H. Patterson, 97, 17—80; Charles A. Stover, 95, 10—85.

In the final play for the Mumford handicap cup between Miss Maud Van Boskerck and Miss Edith Tracy the former was the winner by 3 up and 2 to play.

In the continuation of play at the Park Golf Club on Saturday for the president's cup Charles A. Reed and S. St. John McCutchen divided second and third honors. For the scratch cup Mr. Reed won first honors and Mr. McCutchen and Mr. McKelvey divided the remaining points, each returning a gross score of 96. These scores were returned for the cups:

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, 98, 16—82; Charles A. Reed, 96, 8—88; S. St. John McCutchen, 98, 10—88; Alex Gilbert, 108, 12—96; Reuben Knox, 110, 13—97; Samuel Townsend, 127, 18—109. The play for these cups will be concluded on Tuesday, November 7, Election Day.

THE CROMWELL PRODUCTION.

Mrs. H. E. Monroe, of Washington, Will Have Full Charge.

The forthcoming production of "Oliver Cromwell" at Hope chapel, November 6, 7 and 8, is to be in charge of Mrs. H. E. Monroe, of Washington. Her "John Knox versus Mary Queen of Scots," given last year, was much enjoyed by the general public and without a doubt this "Story of the Puritans and Cavaliers" will be received with the same great enthusiasm.

All the best talent from the various churches, social, literary and musical circles are assisting in the presentation. The costuming will be on the same elaborate scale as last year, the participants wearing the garb of the seventeenth century.

Rev. O. U. Whitford Dead.

Friends received word here this morning of the sudden death of Rev. O. U. Whitford, of Westerly, R. I., which occurred on Saturday at the semi-annual meeting of the Westerly Association, being held at Andover, N. Y. Mr. Whitford was field secretary for the Seventh-Day Baptist Missionary Society, and was well-known here, where he visited many times. Details have not yet been received concerning his death, but it was due to heart trouble. The body has been taken to Westerly for interment, and Mrs. Whitford, who was in the West, is on her way home to attend the service.

Forman Martin Dead.

Forman Martin, one of the best known residents of Piscataway, passed away at his home there late Thursday night, after an illness of one month. On Saturday, September 2, Mr. Martin was stricken with paralysis. It was more than fifty years ago that Mr. Martin began the business which has kept up till the present time by his son, Oscar. Mr. Martin is survived by three children, two sons and a daughter. They are Oscar, Frederick and Miss Nettie Martin. He was a member of the Episcopal church at Piscataway.

One Fined, Other Suspended.

Alfred Sanderson and Eldridge Kline, both colored, were arrested last night for engaging in a jamboree on the streets. Sanderson has a court record and was fined $10 or 20 days. Kline escaped with a suspended sentence.

EXCITING FINISH TO CHRISTENING PARTY

REVOLVER SHOOTING, FREE FIGHT AND A RIOT IN STREET.

Giovanni Runci had a christening party at his home on Cottage place yesterday. It lasted from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 8 o'clock at night. It broke up because the merrymakers, in search of an outlet for their gayety, tried to pull down the house next door.

It was a mixed gathering that Giovanna entertained. Besides his own countrymen he had some of his colored neighbors at the affair. There was much beer, and joy was unconfined. When the beer gave out the celebrators sought for other innocent forms of amusement.

Somebody suggested a real good time by firing a revolver. The suggestion was militant and the whole crowd plunged into a free-for-all. They tired of hammering one another and went outside, when the house next door made a large and inviting mark. They fired stones at the house and tore the picket fence up. The street was beginning to take on a Five Points' air when a patrol wagonload of cops put a sudden end to the festivities.

Runci, Luigi Uliane, Dominick Carmello, Luigi Fusco, Nicola Arbinia, Nicola Eberi and Francisco Pappe were mauled into submission and carted to the station house, and a deep-pervading peace settled on the street.

The hearing of the septet furnished amusement for the usual Monday morning crowd at the police court. They were scolded by Judge Runyon and fined according to their sins. A revolver was found on Uliane and a knife on Runci, and they were fined $5 or twenty days. The others were ordered to pay $2.50 between them, to cover the cost of repairing the damaged fence and windows.

PLAINTIFF'S SUDDEN ILLNESS CHECKS CASE

POSTPONEMENT OF VAN ORDEN ACTION AFTER JURY WAS DRAWN.

Illness brought about an unexpected adjournment of the case of Daniel V. Van Orden against Aleck Kane, which was to have been tried before a jury in Justice Nash's court this morning. Everything was in readiness for the trial when word that the plaintiff had been stricken with heart trouble was received.

This is the third adjournment of the case, which is interesting by reason of the fact that it is one of a series of litigations that has grown out of the purchase of the Fillmore Avenue Baptist church and the subsequent dispossessing of the congregation. No business deal in which Kane, who is a house wrecker, has figured ever gave him more lawing to do or to fight than the purchase of the little colored church. It has been in the courts off and on for over two years. Van Orden is suing for money alleged to be due him for work done in remodelling the church into a tenement house. He claims to have had a contract, and Kane contends he was on the payroll as a day laborer.

The case was set for 10 o'clock this morning. The jury was called, and both lawyers were waiting for the trial to begin when a messenger informed V. W. Nash, Jr., lawyer for the plaintiff, that Van Orden had been seized with neuralgia of the heart. Upon his application the case was adjourned for two weeks. F. J. Blatz is Kane's lawyer.

E. W. MILLS RESIGNS.

Quits as Local Manager of Express Company.

E. W. Mills, who for the past twelve and a half years has been local manager for the United States Express Company, has tendered his resignation. It was given the officials on October 25 and will take effect November 1.

Mr. Mills has been with the company fifteen years. During his term as manager Mr. Mills introduced many improvements in the service, and although he has made some enemies by his loyalty to his company, still he has a large circle of friends who will regret to see him leave.

Boy Preacher Here.

Walter Wallace Edwards, the eleven-year-old colored boy preacher, occupied the pulpit at Mt. Zion A. M. E. church yesterday morning and night. The church was crowded to the doors and all were greatly impressed with the earnest words of the lad. In the morning he preached on the subject "And His Name Shall Be Called Wonderful," and in the evening he preached on Jonah's trip in the whale. His childlike simplicity impressed every one and the easy manner in which he explained the Scriptures was wonderful.

REV. DR. IBUKA ON JAPAN

College President and Foremost Japanese Christian does not Fear "Yellow Peril."

THEY WANT GOSPEL

Declares His People Welcome Western Civilization—Talked Here Twice Yesterday.

Rev. Dr. K. Ibuka, president of the Meigi Gakuin at Tokio and the leading Christian man in Japan, occupied the pulpit at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, yesterday morning, giving some exceedingly interesting facts about Japan and the progress of the natives during the past few years under the influence of Christianity. He spoke of general conditions from the time the first missionary went to Japan until she left six months ago for a visit to America.

Dr. Ibuka declared that Christian influence on the Japanese is the making of the Empire in its onward march in civilization. He said that there is no danger of the so-called "yellow peril," for Christianity had solved that question effectually. He referred to the incident when the Mikado, for the first time in the history of Japan, decorated three American missionaries with the Sign of the Rising Sun, tending to show how anxious the Emperor as well as his subjects are to hear the Gospel.

The speaker also referred to the thousands of Chinese students now being educated in the American colleges in Japan for missionary work among there own people at home. As a distinctive mark of civilization, Dr. Ibuka said that as soon as these Chinese students enter the colleges they have their cues cut off, which disputes the fact that this is seldom done among the Chinese.

Referring to the Japanese, the speaker said that his people were hard workers, zealous and earnest in their desire to become educated and take their position among the civilized nations of the earth. He predicted a great future for Christianity in Japan, adding that its doors are wide open today for everything that will be of benefit to the Empire.

Last night Dr. Ibuka spoke at the First Presbyterian church before a large congregation, repeating in substance his remarks of the morning. He is a fluent speaker and being one of the foremost educators in Japan, is well fitted to tell of the conditions in his country exactly as they are at present.

Needs of Relief Association.

At the present time the Relief Association is in much need of a single bed, two mattresses, chairs, tables, china, etc. There is doubtless plenty of unused furniture in town which the owners would be glad to give to keep a woman who has lost all her household goods. There is always a call for second hand clothes, and the demand this fall is very urgent. On receipt of a postal or telephone message a wagon will call for parcels, or they can be sent to the rooms, 544 West Front street.

An Approaching Wedding.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Bertha Needham, daughter of former Mayor H. E. Needham, of the borough, and Howard A. Case, of Plainfield avenue. The event will be celebrated on Thursday, November 16. Miss Needham is a member of the First Baptist church choir, and Mr. Case has been the organist there for several years.

Paraders Must Be Prompt.

The Hallowe'en parade to be conducted by the borough Exempt Firemen's Association, tomorrow night, will be formed promptly at 8 o'clock. All who are to participate are asked to be ready on time. The committee has 200 torches and a large quantity of fireworks to help enliven the procession.

Borough Pupils Enjoying Holiday.

Owing to the fact that the Somerset county school teachers are holding their regular institute at Somerville today, the pupils of the North Plainfield school are enjoying a holiday today. The institute will continue over tomorrow and the schools will not resume sessions until Wednesday.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Captain Samuel Martin, of Piscataway, attended an auction sale in South River last week. He tied his horse in a convenient place, so as to be on hand when needed. When he went to get it to go home it had disappeared. A thorough search failed to reveal a trace of it. Capt. Martin walked to New Brunswick and informed the police. Sergeant Kelly telephoned to different parts of the city, but no one had seen anything of the missing rig. Later on, while Capt. Martin was talking to Policeman Reed on Hassart street, a man came along with the lost rig. The men hailed him and he turned the horse and rig over to the officer, saying he had found it at the foot of Sonoman's hill, Burnet street. The mystery of who took it and how it got down on Burnet street, was not solved, but Capt. Martin thankfully took his property and went home.

Stages will be run from the postoffice in the borough to Friendship Hall on the evening of November 9, when the Rutgers College Glee Club will appear there under the auspices of the Sunchine Society, of Holy Innocents' church.

Complaint over the dimness of the village lights is general. The Township Committee will probably ask the lighting commissioners to get busy if conditions are not bettered by the next meeting.

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average baldheaded man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness. Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, innocculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Herpicide.

PRESS ON MAYOR BUCKLE

Scored by Newark News and Elizabeth Times, But Supported by Elizabeth Journal

SOME ARE SEVERE

"An Outrageous Procedure," Says Times—Newark News More Caustic—Journal Says He Is Consistent.

Throughout the State, the newspapers are commenting on the action of Mayor Buckle in declining to issue a permit to the Democrats for permission to hold a street meeting.

The Newark Evening News says: "Senatorial Candidate Nugent, of Union county, could ask for no better boom than the action of Mayor Buckle, of Plainfield, in prohibiting a Democratic noon-day meeting in front of the Pond Tool Works, where the two Republican bosses work. A fool enemy is frequently of more service to a candidate than his best friends."

The Elizabeth Journal says: "The attempt to make political capital out of the refusal of Plainfield's Mayor to grant Edward Nugent, Democratic candidate for State Senator, permission to hold a noonday meeting in the streets of that city is not likely to succeed when a sober thought is given to the matter. Mayor Buckle was impolitic in the manner of his refusal, but it is admitted that the city ordinance in Plainfield is intended to prohibit meetings on the public streets, and there has been no discrimination against any particular person nor cause. The Socialistic Labor party was refused a similar permit a few days ago. Everyone who believes in freedom of speech would condemn any such motive as was attributed to Mayor Buckle by some of Mr. Nugent's friends. Narraw partisanship that would try to suppress free speech would be repudiated by the Republicans of Plainfield as elsewhere, and there is existing there no such sentiment as would dney to Mr. Nugent privileges that would be afforded to any other person. Many regret that the ordinance stood as a barrier to Mr. Nugent and some think that Mayor Buckle is not entitled to any credit for his refusal, but if the ordinance has been enforced in all other instances, he must be credited with being consistent."

The Elizabeth Evening Times says:: "The citizens of the entire county, irrespective of party, heard, with varying degrees of amazement, the report from Plainfield yesterday that Mayor James F. Buckle, of that city, had deliberately refused to grant to Edward Nugent, candidate for Senator, and to Noah Woodruff, candidate for sheriff, a permit to address the employes of the Pond Tool Machine shops, in Plainfield. In that city, where the police committee's sensational disclosures had been the sole topic of discussion, this matter was absolutely ignored to give way to expressions of indignation on the score that the city's chief executive had, in his official capacity, committed such an astounding act of discourtesy and rank partisanship. Here in Elizabeth, when the news arrived at noon, there was at first, and naturally, an inclination to discredit it. But a verification followed soon afterwards and, today, the residents of Elizabeth, whether they be Republicans or Democrats, are wholly at a loss to understand how bossism could have manifested itself in a manner so discreditable and so positive in its proofs of a determination to rule or ruin. And the people of Plainfield resent it as much as do the friends of Mr. Nugent and Mr. Woodruff in other parts of the county. It is unprecedented in the county's history. Again has the machine in Plainfield asserted itself, and again has it blundered woefully. Mr. Buckle had the affrontery, even, before making his final statement, to suggest to Clarence Teel, who applied to the Mayor for a permit for Messrs. Nugent and Woodruff, that he go to Mr. MacMurray, one of the Plainfield G. O. P. bosses, and ask his permission to deliver addresses, not in the factory or in the factory yard, but in a public street near the factory!"

TO JUDGE A MAN

by his clothes is the way of the world. Maybe it's fair—maybe it's not. Anyway, you can be sure of this;—a man clad in a Watson-made suit is bound to be judged favorably.

That's because of the Watson care that every detail is right,—the fit of the collar, the shoulders, the set of the lapels, the hang—all go together to give the suit and its wearer distinction. Same sort of care has been taken to secure best weaves in distinctive patterns. Worsteds, cassimeres, cheviots, Thibets, are among 'em—in blacks and blues, fancy mixtures and especially grays.

$10 to $25.

A pair of separate trousers,—you can't get away from the need; you won't want to get away from the style and fit of Watson's. The Watsonian price is very reasonable, you'll think—we think it unreasonably low.

Is Your Bedding In Healthy Condition?

Have your bedding renovated by a sanitary method. Many think it all right to have their mattresses cleaned at home because they feel sure they'll get back their own mattress, and because the work can be done so quickly. If you stop a moment to consider you will realize that a mattress cannot be made healthy by simply picking the hair apart and allowing the dirt and dust to remain. It must come in contact with heavy blowers that will force out every particle of dirt and dust.

NOTE—The old method of placing a picking machine in your back yard and putting the hair through it in less than half an hour and using the old ticking is not a good sanitary measure.

FOR PUBLIC LIGHT PLANT

Newark's Board of Works is Planning For Municipal Electricity Station.

MORE ECONOMICAL

Installation of Plant Would Mean a Saving of $32 Per Lamp in a Year—Idea Popular There.

Confident that the installation of a municipal electric lighting plant would mean an enormous saving in a year, the Republican Board of Works Commissioners in Newark yesterday submitted to Joseph Cault, city counsel, a request for his advice as to what right the board possessed in establishing a plant. A report of two electrical engineers, Runyon and Carey, engaged to study the possibilities of establishing an experimental station one the site of the old pumping station in Belleville, which would have a capacity of about five hundred arc lights, prompted the commissioners to reach their conclusion.

The installation of such a plant, it was shown, would mean a saving of at least $32 a lamp each year, and would make it possible for the city to care for all the lighting north of the Lackawanna Railroad.

Special emphasis was laid on the great saving which the engineers said the project would mean to the city, but the question had long been under advisement by the board, and the commissioners were practically agreed on the proposition. As far back as March of this year President Eggers of the board brought to the attention of the finance committee of the Common Council that the city was the owner of a pumping plant which, he said at the time, would serve admirably as a lighting plant. It was in June that Chief Engineer Morris Sherred was instructed to engage the electrical engineers, and they have made an exhaustive study of the electric lighting situation, with the result that they have found conditions ripe for the first step of Newark in the municipal ownership movement.

The question of an experimental station was the nucleus of the board's consideration, but the question of lighting the entire city was gone into, and the seaving, as figured out roughly, seemed to impress the commissioners.

It was explained in a discussion on this particular phase of the question that three separate propositions had already been presented for consideration by persons who were willing to assume the task of installing the plant for a stipulated term of years, say ten years, at the expiration of which time the plant would revert to the city without further cost. The engineers, in summing up the entire electric lighting situation, recommend that a plant with a capacity of five hundred lamps be erected immediately, as outlined in the report they submitted, and that if necessary legislation be obtained authorizing a bond issue to cover the expense. In failing to get the proper legislation, it was suggested that provision be made in the tax levy next year to realize the necessary amount. The engineers further recommended that specifications be at once prepared and proposals asked for not later than May 1 of next year for the lighting of the city after September 1, 1908, at which time the present contract with the Public eSrvice Corporation expires.

There is ample room to permit of enlarging any plant erected on the site in Belleville to provide for a capacity of ten thousand lights.

The realization of this project will naturally mean a great blow to the Public Service Corporation. At present, under the contract which has been in effect since the United Electric Company was merged in the Public Service, the city has been paying more than an average of $200,000 a year, or $95 a lamp. The bill for the present year will foot up to about $205,200.

Plainfield, N. J., October 30, 1905.

Union county politician is short in his accounts according to an auditor's report. Bad days these for politicians.

If you are not registered, remember that tomorrow will be your last chance to do so. In order to be able to vote, your name must be on the registry list.

"Ham" Kean is deeply interested in the welfare of Plainfield. So much so that he used his good offices in attempting to influence the license committee to have Goff's application granted when he knew that the Common Council and the people here were opposed to it. But then "Ham" is a practical politician and he was aware that the bosses wanted to return the favor of a campaign contribution.

While both of them in so many words say that all is not well in the city of Plainfield as a result of alleged boss rule, both Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis and Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck have warned their congregations not to pass judgment until the men accused have had a chance to disprove the charges. "This much I may say," declared Dr. Lewis, "that no man who has watched events in Plainfield for the past three years is hardly surprised at the revelations that seem to have come out." Dr. Schenck says that where there is so much smoke there must be some fire. The only way to let the truth be known is to hold an investigation at the earliest possible moment. This, as we have said before, is but justice to the men accused in the councilmanic police committee's story which is of grave concern to the community.

ALIS III PLAYS A TIE GAME IN WESTFIELD

CLOSE BATTLE IN WHICH PLAINFIELD YOUNGSTERS MADE BETTER SHOWING

The Alis III. football team played a tie game at Westfield Saturday with the Westfield A. A. The game was called on account of darkness when the score stood 5 to 5.

In the first half Alis III. outplayed their opponents. After kicking off to Westfield they secured the ball, advanced it by steady gains and finally sent Ralph Taylor through tackle for a touchdown. Harvey Douglass failed to kick the goal. On the second kickoff Alis III. received the ball, and advanced it steadily down the field. When time was called Westfield's goal line was only a few yards away.

In the second half play was more even. During this part of the game Westfield shot one of her backs around right end for a touchdown. Altogether, the Plainfield boys played an excellent game on both offensive and defensive work, and though they did not win, they played much better football than their opponents.

Alis III. greatly missed Captain Phillips at quarterback. His place was taken by Harvey Douglass. Arrangements will be made for a second game with Westfield.

Alis III. lined up as follows: Jerry Manning, right end; Eckert, right tackle Aalholm, right guard; Bogart, center; E. Taylor and Barlow, left guard; Bentley, left tackle; J. Miller and Lee Manning, left end; Muridy and E. Taylor, left halfback; R. Taylor, fullback; Marsh, right halfback; Douglass, quarterback.

Register Tomorrow.

Tomorrow will be your last chance to register. The following Tuesday will be election day.

P.H.S. AND P.A.H.S. PLAY FAST GAME

NEITHER TEAM ABLE TO SCORE ON THE GRIDIRON.

Plainfield High School football eleven lined up against Perth Amboy High School on Hope Common Saturday afternoon, and although the visiting team outweighed the locals, the Plainfield boys put up a fast game and neither side was able to score. Last year when these teams met the home team was defeated by a score of 12 to 0. The speed of the local eleven counted this year and was responsible for their good showing.

Perth Amboy won the toss and Douglass, of P. H. S., kicked to the visitors' ten yard line. The ball sallied back and forth for the entire half, mostly in the visitors' territory, but neither side was able to score. The feature of the half was Mahaffey's long run around right end.

In the second half Perth Amboy kicked to Flanders, who ran the ball back for ten yeards. Although both teams showed determination to score the result of this half was the same as that of the previous one, neither side being able to push the leather over one another's goal line. During this half the ball was kept close to the middle of the field the entire time. The final score was 0 to 0.

For the local team especially good work was done by Douglass, Mahaffey and Loizeaux, the last named tackling well at end. Flanders ran his team with the usual fast speed. For the visitors Hornsby and Booz showed up well in all points of the game. Line bucking characterized the game for the most part. It is probable that another game will be arranged by these teams to decide supremacy. The lineup:

P. H. S.	Perth Amboy.

The Universal 3-minute Bread Maker now at $2.

Twenty to thirty minutes of the work of hand-kneading is done in three minutes. The dough is not touched by the hands at all. The kneading is done scientifically and the bread is much better than when kneaded by hand.

The New Dept.

for the renovating and making over of Hair Mattresses has proven a great success. Orders continue to crowd in on us. People appreciate the advantage of having their work done by a reliable concern, where they are sure of getting their own hair back. All work entrusted to us is done by competent workmen and in an absolutely sanitary workshop.

Many New York business men keep their reserve funds with this company.

Full particulars regarding the facilities we have to offer in this connection will be furnished upon request.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Forty-six indictments were handed in by the Grand Jury of the County Court last week. All the cases were put over for the term.

Twenty-one men, mostly Hungarians, were made American citizens a few days ago by Judge Strong, of New Brunswick.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Randolph, of Dunellen, visited Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Laing Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Thorne entertained their cousins, the Misses Freeman, of Newark, yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis D. Randolph entertained Mrs. Randolph's sister and her husband yesterday.

Additional suburban news on page two.

PERSONAL.

John Duckworth, of Newark, visited relatives here yesterday.

Louis Eaten, formerly of this city, but now of New York, spent Sunday in town with friends.

Mrs. M. D. Sweeney, of Brooklyn, is the guest of Mrs. Margaret Sweeney, of Liberty street.

Frank Gunning, formerly of this city, but now of Brooklyn, visited relatives and friends in the borough yesterday.

Miss Phoebe Savage, of Garden City, Mass., is visiting her sister, Mrs. James Armstrong, of West Fifth street.

Mrs. Mary Disborough has moved from East Fifth street to West Fifth street, near the Plainfield High School building.

Miss Stella Doyle, of New Brunswick, has returned home after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Lister, of Grove street.

Miss Elsie Suffern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Suffern, of Sycamore avenue, has gone to Chicago, Ill., to visit friends.

Mr. and Mrs. James McWilliam, of Sherman avenue, have removed to Virginia, where Mr. McWilliam will conduct a truck farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brush, of West Third street, have been entertaining their cousin, Miss Alice Blynn, of West Farms, N. Y.

William Beiter, of Long Island, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Beiter, of East Front street, over Saturday and yesterday.

Word has been received from John Hiscox, who is at St. Louis, Michigan, that his health is improved and that the change is proving beneficial.

The condition of Miss Margaret Harding, of John street, who has been ill, has become very grave. Her case is now in charge of a specialist.

Thomas DeMeza, of West Second street, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, has been discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital.

Mrs. Weir Lewis and her daughters, Misses Frances and Helen Weir, of Rockview avenue, are planning a trip to Europe and will sail Saturday.

G. E. Firstbrook, of Grant avenue, who recently joined the staff of the Hoboken Inquirer, and has been living temporarily in Hoboken, will become a commuter this week.

Sidney E. Titsworth, formerly of this city, but now of New York, where he is preparing himself for the practice of medicine, spent Saturday and Sunday in town with his mother.

George Wiltse, of the New York Giants, who is visiting his brother, Louis Wiltse, of the New Madison, will soon leave for Syracuse, where he will spend the winter at his former home.

Former Councilman Frost, of Watchung avenue, with his wife and niece, Miss Weston, sailed for Europe on Saturday for an extended trip abroad, planning to meet his son, Frank Frost, in Egypt, during the winter.

Register Tomorrow.

Tomorrow will be your last chance to register. The following Tuesday will be election day.

Emulsion of Pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil is the most valuable preparation of the kind known.

It is pleasant to the taste—very nutritious—an excellent remedy for Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Pulmonary Affections.

Taken with yolk of eggs, Phosphoric acid and sherry wine, it strengthens and soon builds up a run down system.

OLDEST DUNELLENITE CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

PRAYER MEETING MARKS MRS. RAMSEY'S 92ND ANNIVERSARY.

A praise and prayer meeting was the unique but beautiful manner in which Mrs. Euphemia Ramsey, of Dunellen, celebrated her ninety-second birth anniversary on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Gaston, the latter a daughter of Mrs. Ramsey. The hymns used, selected by her pastor, Rev. W. W. Casselberry, were "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," "My Times Are in Thy Hands," "How Firm a Foundation," "He Leadeth Me," "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me," "God Be with You Till We Meet again." Psalm 71 was read by Mr. Casselberry, who offered the congratulations of all friends and offered prayer. Rev. A. F. Todd, a neighbor, who is nearly eighty years of age, spoke of the comforts of old age through faith in God. A. A. Lake spoke of the unchanging youthfulness of the spirit of the Christian and repeated poetical quotations.

Ira Voorhees, a nephew of Mrs. Ramsey, of Somerville, sent his contribution in the shape of a poem specially written for the occasion.

Mrs. Ramsey has the distinction of being the oldest resident of Dunellen. She is well, takes a keen interest in all that transpires, and last summer went to Lebanon and spent several weeks with another daughter, Mrs. John Young, who was present on Saturday evening. Others to join in the celebration were Mrs. Rebecca E. Swackhamer, Mrs. Josephine Dunham, Mrs. A. A. Lake, Mrs. Charles Boice, Mrs. Charles A. Coriell, Miss Ella H. Boice and Mrs. W. W. Casselberry.

—Daily Press want ads. pay.

—W. W. Warnock, the West Front street baker and confectioner, has opened a branch store in the Sebring building on Watchung avenue at the trolley terminus. It has been thoroughly equipped to meet the demands in that section for his bread, cake and confections.

AMUSEMENTS.

There are five big settings in Hal Reid's latest melodrama, "A Runaway Boy," in which Max H. Meyers is starring America's greatest boy actor, Joseph Santley, this season. The first act shows an elaborate drawing room set at the home of Ezekiel Reynolds, the uncle of the hero; in the second act the scene changes to the country and the interior of a big barn with its hay lofts and box stalls. In thethird act a big circus tent with all the attendant paraphernalia of the side shows and wagons is presented, and the last act brings the auditor to a fairy-like winter scene in front of a country chapel. It is one of the heaviest productions of its kind that is on the road this season, carrying some fifty odd people, which includes a big band and a number of acrobats, who appear in the circus scene. Joseph Santley, the star, is generally conceded to be the best boy actor in this country, both by the critical gentlemen of the press and their not so critical lay brothers. Manager Meyers has surrounded young Santley with what is said to be a company of the greatest excellence. "A Runaway Boy" is at the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

"The Hustler," which is one of those up to date and effervescent musical comedy oddities, is booked to hold the boards at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow evening. Frank Turner, who is directing the tour of "The Hustler" this season, is introducing John Cantwell as the central figure and has surrounded him with an exceptionally clever and attractive company. Of course, like all musical comedies, "The Hustler" boasts of a bevy of pretty and stately show girls, who are afforded ample scope to appear in stunning gowns and costumes, in addition to introducing all the latest and most up to date New York hits.

The first production in this city of "The Way of the Transgressor," announced for Thursday night at the New Plainfield theatre, will be a revelation to theatregoers who may be used to novelties and sensations. An intensely dramatic story is relieved by a judicious intermingling of comedy. There are a number of exciting situations and the whole is enlivened by a number of masterly scenic effects, and as all of the parts are in the hands of clever actors the production will be a complete one in every respect. A special feature will be the first appearance in America of the wonderful acting Landseer dogs, magnificent specimens of the highest class of canine development. For seven years these dogs were the talk of Great Britain, and have the record of appearing twelve consecutive weeks in London.

The mammoth production of that admirable play, "Shadows of a Great City," will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night. The play is one of the very best melodramas ever given to the stage and has always been a strong drawing card, but from all accounts the production is more elaborate now than ever before. The scene showing Hell Gate, East River, New York, will be given with real water, of which 40,000 gallons will be used. This is a new introduction to the play and is creating a sensation everywhere.

Lottie Blair Parker's dramatization of "The Redemption of David Corson" will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre Monday night, November 6. The production was staged by J. C. Huffman by permission of Klaw & Erlanger. The cast si a large one, headed by Walter Edwards, who has been starring the past four seasons; Miss Julia Marie Taylor, Richard Mansfield's leading lady last year, will be seen in the role of "Pepeeta;" other prominent members of the cast—Wilton Taylor, J. P. Sullivan, James A. Nunn, Jay Mansfield, Lynn B. Hammond, William Lambert, William Payne, A. Maxfield Moree, Master Schwager, Mrs. Samuel Charles, Georgia Earle, Pearl Ford, May L. Bell, Elsa Hofmann, Juliet Lear and others. Theatre patrons should avail themselves of this opportunity to enjoy a delightful artistic performance. The name of Lottie Blair Parker, the author of "Way Down East" and "Under Southern Skies," should be sufficient guarantee that the best points in the successful novel, "David Corson," have been faithfully brought out.

Miss Sophie Brandt in the comic opera, "A Madcap Princess," is coming to the New Plainfield theatre Tuesday, November 7. Miss Brandt is described as one of the most gifted personally and vocally of the young prima donnas. Her voice is a dramatic soprano of great range and sweetness. Her powers as a comedienne are said to be in themselves equal to furnishing a full evening's entertainment, a rare gift in a singer.

ELECTION NOTICE.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE CITY OF PLAINFIELD.

Public notice is hereby given that in accordance with a resolution presented to the Common Counell of the City of Plainfield, and adopted on the second day of October, A. D. 1905, and approved by the Mayor of said City on the third day of October, A. D. 1905, and of which the following is a copy:

RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR THE SUBMISSION TO THE LEGAL ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PLAINFIELD OF THE QUESTION OF THE ADOPTION OF THE PROVISIONS OF AN ACT ENTITLED "AN ACT TO ENABLE CITIES TO SUPPLY THE INHABITANTS THEREOF WITH PURE AND WHOLESOME WATER," APPROVED APRIL 21st, 1876.

RESOLVED, That the question of the adoption of the provisions of an act entitled "An Act to enable cities to supply the inhabitants thereof with pure and wholesome water," approved April 21st, 1876, be submitted to the legal electors of the City of Plainfield at an election to be held in said city on Tuesday, the seventh day of November, A. D. Nineteen Hundred and Five, that is to say, at the general election required by law to be held at that time and place; that the City Clerk of said City be and he hereby is directed to cause public notice of the time and place of holding such election to be given at the time and in the manner provided by the act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey entitled, "An Act to regulate elections, Revision of 1898," Approved April 4th, 1898, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and that, in addition thereto, said City Clerk cause public notice of the time and place of holding such election to be given by advertisements signed by himself and set up in at least twenty (20) public places in said city, and published in one or more newspapers printed therein, for at least six days previous to the day of such election; that said Clerk be and he hereby is directed to provide for each elector voting at such election, ballots to be printed, or written or partly printed and partly written, upon which ballots the following proposition shall be printed beneath the list of candidates thereon, with the word "for" and the word "against" printed above and immediately preceding such proposition, viz: "The adoption for this City of the provisions of an act entitled 'An Act to enable cities to supply inhabitants thereof with pure and wholesome water;'" it is further resolved that the polls for such election shall be held at the usual places of holding the annual charter election in said city, that is to say:

First District, First Ward, 152 North Avenue.

Second District, First Ward, 545 East Third Street.

First District, Second Ward, 319 Watchung Avenue.

Second District, Second Ward, 699 South Avenue.

First District, Third Ward, "Casino," West Seventh street.

Second District, Third Ward, Clifton's Barn, Corner West Seventh Street and Spooner Avenue.

First District, Fourth Ward, 204 West Second Street.

Second District, Fourth Ward, 672 South Second Street.

Third District, Fourth Ward, 921 West Third Street, and shall be opened at 6 o'clock in the forenoon and closed at 7 o'clock in the afternoon, and such election shall be conducted by the proper election officers of said city for the time then being, and in the manner as may then be prescribed by the ordinances (if any) of said city regulating elections therein, and such officers shall return to the Common Council of said City a true and correct statement, in writing, under their hand, of the result of said election, the same to be entered at large upon the minutes of said Common Council.

an election will be held in said City of Plainfield, N. J., on Tuesday, the seventh day of November, A. D. 1905, that is to say, at the general election required by law to be held at that time, in the places hereinbefore designated in said resolution (the polls to be opened at 6 o'clock in the forenoon, and closed at 7 o'clock in the afternoon, as in said resolution provided) for the object and purpose of voting "for" or "against" the adoption for this city of the provisions of an act entitled, "An Act to enable cities to supply the inhabitants thereof with pure and wholesome water," Approved April 21st, 1876.

The Board of Registry and Election will meet in their several districts at the places above named, on Tuesday, October 31st, 1905, from 1 to 9 p. m., for the purpose of revising and correcting the original Registers.

By order of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield.

JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

Dated, Plainfield, N. J., October 16, 1905.

NOTICE!
"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abscess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as a bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA, at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply Mr. and Mrs. James, Embury Ave., care Hiller, Ocean Grove, N. J. Signed, July 12, 1905: Mrs. C. W. James, Mr. C. W. James." Leading Druggists, 25c-50c

SHERIFF'S SALE. NEW JERSEY SUPREME COURT. Aaron Ward & Sons, a corporation vs. John T. Flournoy. On Contract. Fi. Fa. de bo et ter. On Dockt. Judgt.

By virtue of the above stated writ, to me directed, I shall expose for sale, by public vendue, at the Sheriff's Office, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all those two tracts of land situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, County of Union and State of New Jersey.

WEDNESDAY, THE FIFTEENTH DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1905,

First Tract: Known as Lot No. Eight (8) on a certain map made by F. A. Dunham, Civil Engineer, for William Cortwright, November, 1887, as filed in the office of the County Clerk for Union County, New Jersey, having a frontage of thirty (30) feet on Fourth Street and one hundred and fifty-seven (157) feet on each side line and thirty (30) feet in the rear, with all the rights and privileges of said Fourth Street as a public highway.

Second Tract: Beginning at a point in the southeasterly side of West Fourth Street distant one hundred (100) feet northeasterly from the northeasterly side of Plainfield Avenue being a corner of L. E. Hart's land, now or formerly, thence running in a southeasterly course parallel with Plainfield Avenue and along the rear line of lots fronting on Plainfield Avenue and now or formerly owned by Hart, Coddington and Kitchen, and land of William Cortwright, one hundred and fifty-seven (157) feet more or less to a stake in direct range with the rear line of other lands of said Conway; thence northeasterly and parallel with West Fourth Street eighteen (18) feet more or less to the southerly corner of said Conway's other lands, thence northwesterly and along the line of said Conway one hundred and fifty-seven (157) feet more or less to the southeasterly side of West Fourth street; thence southwesterly along the southerly side of West Fourth Street nineteen and two one-hundredths (19.02) feet to the place of beginning, with all the rights and privileges of said West Fourth street as a public highway. Being a portion of lots 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13 on Map of Desirable Building Lots on Plainfield Avenue, Fourth and Fifth Streets, Property of William Cortwright, Plainfield, N. J., November, 1887, on file in the Clerk's Office of Union County.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

There are many grades of meat, but John A. Koch, of Watchung avenue, sells but the one—the best.

When you want to purchase or lease desirable property call on George F. Brown, of Somerset street.

There is no question about the quality of coal sold by V. W. Nash, Sr., of Park avenue. tI gives entire satisfaction.

Carriage jobs are done right by W. J .Conroy, of Somerset street. His work is always satisfactory. Full line of harness.

Is it possible you have neglected to order your winter's coal yet? Don't wait any longer. Order from John Johnston, South avenue, at once.

If you need the services of a carpenter, Louis Beck, of South avenue, is the man you should hire. No fault can be found with his work or rates.

Cothes that are sent to H. W. Marshall's laundry, on East Front street, are always washed, cleaned and laundered to your entire satisfaction.

Patrons of E. B. Maynard's tonsorial parlors on North avenue always get the best hair cut, shave and shampoo. Children's hair cutting a specialty.

Use Royal Java sachet powder, madame, on your toilet table. It is a preparation made especially for you. P. B. Hodge's pharmacy, East Front street.

D. Demolli & Company, confectioners, bakers and caterers, have steadily won favor with the best people of the two Plainfields. They are without peers here. West Front street.

M. C. Dobbins, the Park avenue tobacconist, makes the interesting announcement that he has a full line of the old-time favorite smoking tobacco, "Fruits and Flowers," in two sizes of package. Try his Ultra Pura cigar. New line of moderate-priced pipes.

Service in a butcher shop means more than the mere selling of good meats. There are ways and ways of waiting on a customer. The shop of Fred Endress, West Front street, not only offers fine meats, but uniform courtesy and regard for the comfort and welfare of patrons.

Star Course Begins Tonight.

De Witt, who will open the Y. M. C. A. star course this evening, has had a great Chautauqua record. He has been at thirty-one different assemblies from seven to fifteen times, and at many others he has appeared from two to four times. The Van Eps brothers will furnish banjo and mandolin selections with W. E. MacClymont as accompanist. Course tickets are now on sale at Hodge's pharmacy; also tickets of admission for the entertainment this evening.

Neither Side Able to Score in Either Half.

The Orange Field Club eleven met the Iroquois A. C. on the gridiron at Westfield Saturday afternoon. After two fast fifteen-minute halves neither side was able to score. The home team outweighed the Plainfield boys on an average of ten pounds. The play was mostly in the territory of the home team, the Orange Field Club being able to reach the five-yard line three times. The home team was forced to kick three times, while the visitors did not wick once. The rather loose playing of the O. F. C. was responsible for its inability to score. This is the lineup of the Orange Field Club:

F. Sheppard, right end; French, right tackle; J. McCullough, right guard; Hillier, center; Banks, left guard; W. McCullough, left tackle; Emmons, left end; McVoy, quarterback; Joseph, fullback; Tobin, right halfback; Morning, left halfback.

The Orange Field Club will play the Franklin Football Association on Crescent Oval Saturday at 3:30 o'clock.

Suburban Revival Begins.

The union gospel campaign opened in Dunellen last night. The four churches of Dunellen and New Market united in a service at the Methodist church. The sermon was preached by Rev. Frank Fletcher, of the Baptist church. The attendance was very large, and the interest manifested promised a most successful revival campaign. The services will continue in the Methodist church tonight and tomorrow night. The rest of the week they will be held at the Presbyterian church. Next week the services will be held in the Baptist church, New Market, where Evangelist Chester Birch will have charge.

Hiram Mears Buried.

The funeral services of Hiram Mears were held at the grave in Evergreen cemetery, Plainfield avenue, yesterday morning. Rev. Phil. A. Parsons, pastor of the First Church of Christ, made a few remarks. The services were in charge of Odd Fellows from this city. Mr. Mears was a member of a lodge of Odd Fellows in Cincinnati. These Odd Fellows were pall bearers: Lucius Sheppard, Peter Doeringer, J. B. Higgins and David Weaver.

Hurt While at Work.

While attempting to jump on an ice wagon on Watchung avenue this morning, Peter Perreto, aged seventeen, of Watchung, missed the step and fell alongside the wagon. The wheels grazed his legs, inflicting contused wounds. The young man was removed to Stevens' blacksmith shop and Dr. Fred Hughes summoned. After treatment the lad was taken to his home. He is employed by the Natural Ice Company.

Christopher's Funeral Tomorrow.

The funeral of J. E. Christopher, the victim of the slashing affray in the borough, Saturday, will be held from Cole's undertaking parlors tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Mr. Miller, of the local colored Episcopal mission, will have charge and the interment will be at Hillside.

Register Tomorrow.

Tomorrow will be your last chance to register. The following Tuesday will be election day.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Mr. Ackerman's Good Record.

In view of the peaceful condition of politics in Union county, which is Republican by about 2,000 majority when the factions in that party bury the hatchet, the man most likely to succeed Judge Cross as Senator is Ernest R. Ackerman, of Plainfield. Ther is therefore much interest in him, even outside of Union, not only because he follows in the footsteps of a statesman of high order, and of eminent success, but because the issues coming before the next Legislature will require the most careful and intelligent treatment at the hands of capable and conscientious legislators.

Happily there is no room for questions as to Mr. Ackerman's integrity, ability or political experience. In these respects he stands unchallenged, even by his political opponents, one of his open supporters in his own home city being George S. Clay, formerly president of the Parker Independent Club, who declares that Mr. Ackerman's acceptance of the office is "a distinct gain for the side of good morals and honesty in politics," and that if every legislator selected this fall were of the same high character "a new era would begin and 'graft' and self-seeking be unknown."

But the inquiry that is uppermost in the popular mind is, How does Mr. Ackerman stand on the question of limited franchises? Will he be as independent as was Judge Cross? Does he appreciate this issue as one of great importance? Fortunately, Mr. Ackerman has made a record on this question. When he was a member of the Plainfield City Council in 1891 the company which is now a constituent element of the Public Service Corporation applied to the Council for a franchise to operate an electric street railway in that city. What the company demanded was, of course, a perpetual franchise. This was fourteen years ago, before the corporations had gotten all cities by the throat as they now have, and before the people understood and appreciated, as they now do, the value of the privileges they were giving away for nothing and for all time.

Fourteen years ago, when everybody seemed to think that perpetual franchises were to be granted as a matter of course, Ernest R. Ackerman stood up in the Plainfield Council and opposed, with all the argument he could command, the giving away of franchises for nothing and in perpetuity. "We are considering the advisability," he said, "of doing something that is to last, not for a day, a month or a year, but, by granting a franchise, we set in motion forces the consequence of which we may be compelled to submit to for many years to come." Even at that time he favored the granting of franchises only after they had been submitted to the people by referendum.

The ordinance was passed notwithstanding his opposition, but in the fourteen years that have intervened Mr. Ackerman has seen a marvelous awakening of the people on this question of perpetual franchises, and nothing he has seen has weakened the convictions he ably maintained in the Plainfield Council fourteen years ago. If his own city had taken his advice it would now be in condition to dictate to the trolley corporation instead of being dictated to. His record is his platform.—Newark Evening News.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Communion services were held at Marconnier chapel yesterday afternoon, when one member was received on confession from the Sunday-school.

The Union Bible Class taught by Rev. D. M. Stearns will meet at Y. M. C. A. Hall tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. All, especially Sunday school teachers, are invited.

DYING FOR LOST DAUGHTER.

Disappearance of Young Woman Causes Her Father's Illness.

Trenton, Oct. 30.—John Barcalow, of this city, is rapidly failing in health because of the continued absence of his only daughter, Miss Marthat N. Barcalow, who left her home last May, ostensibly to take a position as stenographer in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Barcalow have endeavored in vain to trace their daughter, believing that she has met with foul play. Worry has affected Mr. Barcalow to such an extent it is feared that he has not long to live.

Leal School Dinner.

John Leal gave a dinner at Truell Inn on Friday night to the teachers and the boys in his school. Covers were laid for thirty-four. Mrs. Truell prepared a fine menu and the tables were attractively decorated with flowers and the school colors. After the dinner there were speeches by Mr. Leal, his teachers and some of the boys.

Mrs. Caroline C. Stace.

Mrs. Caroline C. Stace, wife of Arthur H. Stace, died at her home in Newark yesterday. The funeral service will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at her late home, 24 Nelson place, Newark. The interment will be at Westfield. Mrs. Stace was the daughter of the late Louise Wyckoff.

Talk on Russia.

Principal Ira Travell gave an interesting talk on Russia at the Plainfield High School, this morning.

A WANAMAKER PIANO STORE
To Be Opened Tomorrow In PLAINFIELD

Perhaps there are a great many people in Plainfield who do not know that the Wanamaker Piano Business is the largest retail business done in these instruments in the world.

Perhaps it is quite unknown here that---

Nine Different Makes of Pianos

Four Different Kinds of Self-Playing Pianos

And the Angelus Piano Player

Ninety-four Different Instruments In All

Are shown in the Piano Warerooms of the Wanamaker Store in New York City.

We find, through our representative, that there are hundreds of people in Plainfield who are thinking of buying a piano or an Angelus in the near future, but who either cannot come to the city or would not have the time to spend there in comparing and selecting among the various pianos which we have to show.

For this reason we have rented a temporary store-room in Plainfield, at 176 East Front Street, where we will exhibit for a few weeks a representative collection of Pianos and Angelus Pianos.

The store will be open every evening, and there will be ANGELUS CONCERTS every evening, beginning tomorrow---FREE to everybody interested. Pianos on view will include:

CHICKERING	KNABE	FREDERICK DOLL
VOSE	EMERSON	EMERSON ANGELUS
KURTZMANN	J. C. CAMPBELL	THE ANGELUS
	THE AUTOPIANO

THE WANAMAKER EASY PAYMENT PLAN is applied, when desired, to any instrument we sell. You buy at the lowest possible cash price; but if you do not wish to pay cash, we simply charge you the small banking interest of four per cent a year on the amount unpaid. When the customer has an old piano, we allow its value as part payment on the new instrument.

STORE OPENS TOMORROW MORNING.

Expert Demonstrators of the ANGELUS and the ANGELUS PIANOS will give informal CONCERTS every evening beginning tomorrow. ALL FREE, and EVERYBODY is INVITED.

WANTS MORE WORK TO DO

School Trustee Complains That He is Not Consulted by Committee Chairman.

A YEAR'S CALENDAR

Superintendent Reports Schedule for Rest of School Season—Another Teacher Engaged.

An unusual state of affairs in connection with official work was made known at the North Plainfield Board of Education meeting, last night, when Allen B. Laing, one of the members, complained that he was not given enough to do as one of the building and grounds committee and that Chairman Dr. J. H. Cooley monopolized the duties. In addressing President Joy and the other trustees he declared that he was fully competent to be allowed a voice in planning changes and supervising details but that his superior took everything upon his own shoulders and he knew nothing at all of what was being done. He resented this, saying that at times it placed him in an embarassing position, especially when contractors would speak to him about work and material and he found that it related to something Dr. Cooley had been doing.

Mr. Laing's complaint was being discussed when Mr. Needham, who is a member of the committee on supplies, added that he had been receiving the same sort of treatment and that the head of his committee had been in the habit of doing things and then informing the others afterward. President Joy stated to the board that it would be to decidedly better advantage for all concerned to have more committee meetings and to consult each other more in discharging the duties of the office. Not long afterward, Dr. Cooley, who was charged with doing too much, announced for the benefit of the other members of the building and supplies committee that a meeting would be held today at 9 o'clock and "he would be pleased to have his colleagues on hand."

In the regular order of business it was reported by Mr. Cooley that the heating apparatus in the new school is somewhat defective and it was motioned to have the contractor proceed at once to bring it to the proper state of efficiency. On his motion, also, it was ordered that improvements be made at the Watchung School, where much trouble has been caused by water backing into the basement. In addition, the building and grounds committee was instructed to have the grounds about the Somerset School rough-graded at a cost not to exceed $100.

Mr. Townsend reported that truancy has been practically overcome and that the teachers are no longer bothered by recreant pupils. The engagement of Miss Constance Bowen to succeed Miss Pearl Williams as a teacher in one of the lower grades, was confirmed and the finance committee was empowered to borrow $1,500 to meet obligations.

Superintendent Krebs reported the following calendar for the remainder of the school year: Tuesday, November 7, election day holiday; Thursday, November 30 to Friday, December 1, Thanksgiving holidays; Monday, December 25, to Tuesday, January 2, Christmas holidays; Monday, February 12, Lincoln's birthday; Thursday, February 22, Washington's birthday; May 30, Memorial day; Friday, June 15, Commencement and start of summer vacation.

DELIGHTFUL LECTURE.

Y. M. C. A. Star Course Opens With a Charming Entertainment.

The programme of the first Star Course entertainment at the Y. M. C. A. was a most delightful one. DeWitt Miller's lecture, "Reveries of a Bachelor," was a charming work of light sentiment and delicate humor that no audience could hear without a deep and peculiar pleasure. William E. MacClymont, pianist, and the VanEps brothers, banjoist and mandolin player, were delightful in trio selections. The audience was large.

Mr. Miller's lecture was on love and marriage. He avoided the deeps of sentiment, but skimmed tender shallows where the light of humor played most engagingly. He held his audience fast, and a manifest absence of relief when he closed was its strong tribue to his powers as an entertainer.

Street Improvement.

Paul Taylor Brown and other property-owners on Charlotte road, which is an extension of Putnam avenue, are having the front of their properties curbed and the city is taking out the old gutters and paving the same to a width of five feet with stone. During heavy rains the water washes out the gutters owing to the steep grade at that point.

WHO WILL BEAR EXPENSE OF CLOCK ILLUMINATION?

BOROUGH SCHOOL BOARD SIDESTEPS THE QUESTION.

The recently erected clock dial in the tower on the Somerset School was brilliantly illuminated, last night, but whether it will continue to give the time after dark is a question that the borough Board of Education is trying to answer.

At present it will be lighted for a week or more in order to get a clear idea as to what the cost will be, but there is little doubt but what it will be out of the question so far as the school trustees are concerned. Twelve globes were used last night and to keep those going would cost $500 a year, at the rate charged private consumers. The Board believes it could get a reduction but to further lessen the expense will turn off one or more lights each night until it is learned what least possible number will furnish sufficient illumination.

The matter was taken up at last night's Board meeting and it was decided to request the Borough Council to see what it could do. As one of the members expressed it, "the Board had gone to the expense of erecting the tower and placing the clock and it was no more than righ that someone else should pay for the illumination."

Last night was the first time in the history of either the city or the borough that an illuminated clock gave the time.

STILL HOPE FOR THAT NEW BRIDGE

SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS SEEM INCLINED TO HELP NORTH PLAINFIELD.

After repeated attempts to secure a new bridge over Green brook on West End avenue, it now looks as though such a structure will be built. The committees from Union and Somerset counties met yesterday afternoon in the office of Engineer F. J. Hubbard to consider a couple of propositions.

The propositions to be decided upon were to make the bridge an iron beam one with brick or concrete arch, and these will be submitted to those wishing to bid on the work. The competition will be thrown open to anyone desiring to bid, and those submitting figures are instructed to offer plans for the bridge to be built either of brick or concrete.

The cost of the bridge must come within the appropriation, $7,500, and the freeholders do not think that any further trouble along this line will be encountered. By changing the style and material of construction it will be possible to build it for the amount appropriated, and possibly complete the work this year. It is planned to sell the present bridge on West End avenue.

Before the meeting a question arose as to whether the Union county committee still had the power to act in the matter, it having been stated that it could not. W. R. Coddington, county attorney, was summoned, and he informed the members that the committee had not been discharged and would not be until some definite report was made to the Board of Freeholders. A regular meeting of the board will be held on Thursday, when the committee will report progress. It is expected that it will be continued until its labors are completed, and until such time it will not be discharged.

The original plans as to the span and width of the new bridge will be adhered to, that is, the span is to be sixty-six feet. Monday afternoon, November 13, at 2:30 o'clock, was the time fixed for the reception of bids for the work. It is understood that there are one or two concerns ready to go ahead and build the bridge for the amount appropriated with the change of material and plans, and the freeholders feel convinced that the structure can be made just as strong with concrete as other materials.

Ball Player's Nose Broken.

While pitching for the Brighton A. C. against the Uticas on Sunday, "Lou" Wiltse, of this city, was struck on the nose by a batted ball and received a severe injury. An examination after the game showed that the bone was broken. Notwithstanding the injury, Wiltse continued to pitch and won his game by a score of 9 to 2.

Two Special Matinees.

Manager Counihan has arranged for two special matinees ta the New Plainfield theatre, one on Friday of this week, presenting "The Shadows of a Great City," and the other on Tuesday of next week, Election Day. For this occasion he has the musical comedy, "A Madcap Princess," as the offering.

CHARLES LONG, INDICTED PLEADS NOT GUILTY

W. HOLT APGAR ASSIGNED TO DEFEND FAMOUS NEGRO MURDER.

Charles Long, the colored murderer, for whom the police of Trenton and this city hunted for days through Dismal Swamp and the fields and woods about New Market, was arraigned before Judge Reed in the Supreme Court at Trenton yesterday, under indictment for the death of Matthew Cunningham, of Trenton.

Long pleaded not guilty. He was remanded without bail for trial on November 20. His plea is somewhat surprising, as he has confessed to killing Cunningham deliberately.

Long said he had no counsel, and the court appointed W. Holt Apgar, of Trenton, to defend him. Mr. Apgar is one of the leading members of the State Bar. He is known here.

GIRLS' FRIENDLY TO MEET HERE THURSDAY

UNION MEETING OF DIOCESAN SOCIETIES OF THE ORDER.

The annual meeting of the Girls' Friendly Society of the New Jersey Diocese will be held in Grace church Thursday. There will be a service in the church at 10:30, followed by a luncheon and business meeting in the Parish House. Rev. Charles Fisk, rector of St. John's church, Somerville, will make an address.

There are about twenty branches of the society in the New Jersey diocese and it is expected that there will be as many delegates from out of town. Mrs. W. D. Hewitt, of Burlington, is the president of the diocesan organization and will preside at the annual meeting.

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Perkins, of East Seventh street, is the secretary of the local branch and is also chairman of the committee of arrangements for the coming meeting. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson is chaplain of the organization. At the business meeting to be held in the afternoon there will be reports of the work and election of officers.

CEMETERY ASSOCIATION BUYS TRACT OF LAND

GETS FIFTEEN ACRES MORE FOR BURIAL PLOT PURPOSES.

Announcement of the purchase of fifteen acres of ground on Woodland avenue by the Hillside Cemetery Association was made this morning. The land will be used for cemetery purposes, but whether improvement is to be immediate or not could not be learned today.

The tract adjoins the cemetery and is of the same attractive rolling character. The sellers are Rev. Harry M. Lowry, of New York; Robert Lowry and Wheaton S. Lowry, of this city, heirs of the Rev. Dr. Lowry. The consideration was withheld.

Christopher Woman Released.

Mrs. J. E. Christopher, widow of the victim of Saturday's borough slashing affray, was brought to the city today from Somerville in order to attend the funeral. It is probable that she will be allowed to remain out of jail on her own recognizance. Rev. James A. Watson, the murderer, is still in the county jail, and his case will be considered by the next Grand Jury, which meets November 26.

Realty Auction Rooms.

Owners of real estate will be interested in the latest innovation of William Jeffery, the well known real estate man, who will soon open an auction room for real estate sales in his offices, Jeffery building, 136 Park avenue. This is a new enterprise for Plainfield.

Candidate is Sanguine.

Walter Durling, of Somerville, Democratic nominee for the Assembly from Somerset county, was in Plainfield yesterday calling on friends. He expresses confidence in the success of the Democratic ticket.

Frank Baer to Speak.

Frank B. Baer, who is going to central China in a few weeks, will speak at the next regular meeting of the Christian Missionary Alliance Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the W. C. T. U. room.

—Tokay, Malaga, Niagara and Concord grapes; delicious grape fruit and fancy table apples, are among the fruit specialties at Neuman Brothers'. The assortment is large and the prices low.

RED MEN'S FAIR OPENS

First Night's Attendance Taxes Capacity of the Hall.

SOME GOOD MUSIC

Harry Armstrong and Jack Drislane Sing Their Own Compositions —Will Continue All Week.

If the indications of its start-off are realized, the Red Men's week-long fair and harvest-moon dance at Vardon's Dancing Academy, Front street, will be the biggest and most successful affair of its kind the Indians have ever held. It opened last night, with an attendance that taxed the academy to its limits and the enjoyment of the crowd was very manifest. The fair is held under the direction of Wetumpka Tribe. It is scheduled to continue nightly all the rest of the week, but may go over to next Monday, and perhaps longer.

The academy is gaily decorated with streamers and festoons of tinted tissue paper and the booths present a striking line of bright colors and attractive layouts on two sides of the hall.

The attractions and booths, with those in charge of them, are as follows:

Candy, Miss Gertrude Geier and T. P. Kolb; Indian goods, Miss Edna Carson; bric-a-brac, Mrs. William Sharp, Mrs. A. E. Willard, Miss Blanche Walsh; Henry Windham's wines and spirits; Henry Windham; notions, Miss Alma Boyle, Mrs. M. E. Hubbard; food products, Miss Ella Sebring, Mrs. William Claassen; fortune telling machine, J. H. Ackerman; hit-the-baby game, William Neal, Eugene Walsh; crack-a-jack confection, Miss Caroline Martin; music, Miss Sadie E. Hughes; palmist tent, Mrs. G. L. Arbuckle. The tent was a luxurious looking little corner, full of incense and a linger-and-be-lulled-to-sleep atmosphere. Mrs. Arbuckle is a professional palmist, known generally as Mlle. Zazaro. She lives in Plainfield.

There were several features of special nature on last night's programme. Harry Armstrong, author of "Sweet Adeline," sang his latest composition, "Can't You See I'm Lonely," and Jack Drislane, author of "Keep a Cosy Corner in Your Heart for Me" and "Listen to the Band," sang "Keep a Cosy Corner," "The Leader of the German Band" and "Starlight." Both singers were warmly applauded. At 10 o'clock the electric lights were turned out while a two-step was in progress, and a vari-colored spot light was thrown on the circling figures. The effect was unusually striking and quite warranted the name of "Shadow dance," under which the feature was billed. Different programmes of entertainment will be arranged for each night. Dancing is a nightly feature.

The general committee in charge of the affair is made up of A. E. Willard, chairman; Richard Osland, Richard Scott, M. Leichtentritt, and Jacob Fass. Harry Coddington is in the box office and Michael Armstrong is ticket taker. James Hickey and Peter Nolan are in charge of the refreshments. Richard Scott, Clarence M. Berry and W. W. Barnetson are the floor committee. John Vardon, the dancing master, is assisting the committee. Harlod Cook is in charge of the dance music.

NEW PAVEMENTS NEEDED.

Street Commissioner Notifying Property Owners.

Street Commissioner Gavett, under the direction of the councilmanic street committee, is sending out notices to various property-owners in the city asking them to relay the flagging in front of their properties in cases where it is very uneven. This unevenness is caused by roots of trees and sewer connections. In some cases the flagging has not been reset in many years.

While it is the aim of the street commissioner to reach as many property-owners as possible by notices, no doubt some will escape and it is the desire that those who do not receive such a notice will have sufficient information to make this improvement as soon as possible.

Going to the Philippines.

Frederick W. Bowden, formerly an employee of The Daily Press office, and now a member of Company A, Eighth U. S. Infantry, stationed at Fort Slocum, N. Y., will leave for the Philippine Islands on January 1, where the command will remain for an indefinite time. Mr. Bowden is one of a committee of arrangements for a military ball, exhibition drill and bayonet exercise to be held in Turn Hall, 93-95 Elm street, Yonkers, on Wednesday night, November 15. The affair will be given for the benefit of the company. Members of Company K or any friends will be made welcome.

WATCHUNG HUNT CLUB IS NOW INCORPORATED

FILES NECESSARY ARTICLES WITH CLERK AT ELIZABETH.

Elizabeth, Oct. 31.—The Watchung Hunt Club has filed articles of incorporation in the county clerk's office at Elizabeth. The club's objects are to promote, encourage and sustain the development and breeding of hunting horses and dogs, to conduct hunt meets and maintain a clubhouse for the use of its members.

The trustees are George P. Mellick, Charles D. Freeman, Simeon A. Cruikshank, Paul Taylor Brown, Lewis R. Waring, M. O'Malley Knott, Henry A. Bourne, George S. Ring, Clarence E. S. Fellows, all of Plainfield; Chauncey B. Sayre, of South Orange, and George C. White, Jr., of Glen Ridge.

HE LOST FRESH AIR AND WANTS DAMAGES

S. WEINBERGER'S NOVEL SUIT AGAINST F. L. C. MARTIN.

Suit has been brought against F. L. C. Martin, the automobile and bicycle dealer, by S. Weinberger, of Watchung avenue. The plaintiff seeks to recover damages for illness alleged to have been brought about by enforced detention in the house on account of the bicycle man's delay in repairing an invalid's wheel chair. Weinberger is a paralytic.

According to the plaintiff, he turned his chair over to Martin last April. It was not delivered, in spite of frequent requests, it is alleged, until the summer had passed. Weinberger claims that his inability to take his usual airings in the mildest season of the year reacted on his health to a serious extent. It is also charged that Martin did not perform his contract fully, returning the chair with new spokes in a damaged wheel, instead of putting on a new wheel, as agreed.

The action is brought in Justice Hand's court. It will be heard Thursday afternoon. William Newcorn is the plaintiff's lawyer.

HALLOWE'EN PARADE IN BOROUGH TONIGHT

PLENTY OF MUSIC AND RED FIRE FOR THE OCCASION.

The spirit of Hallowe'en will prevail in the borough tonight more than it has before in years, because of the formal observation by the Exempt Firemen's Association and its guests. The arrangements have been fully completed by John Shroop, who has worked unceasingly for the success of the affair and from the heartiness with which residents of both the city and borough have sought to participate, it will afford plenty of amusement.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by the Crescent band, of Raritan, and two local drum corps. The band will march from the North Avenue station direct to Exempt's headquarters on Somerset street at 7:30 and it is requested that all the paraders be on hand at that time. It is hoped to have the procession start at exactly 8 o'clock. The route to be traversed will be exactly as that published several days ago. At the head of the procession will be mounted officers and several automobiles and plenty of Roman candles and red fire will be provided.

Following the parade, supper will be served to the masquers at the Exempt's club rooms and the band will furnish a musical programme. The building has been prettily decorated for the occasion.

Sure to Be Big Affair.

The Timbo Social Club's ball, which will be given in Saengerbund Hall Thursday night, will be attended by delegations from Elizabeth and Newark. The committee having the arrangements in charge have assurance that it will be one of the largest affairs of its kind in years.

Chrysanthemum Show.

The late Stephen A. Ginna's custom of holding a chrysanthemum show at his conservatory will be continued by Mrs. Ginna. The show for 1905 opened yesterday and will continue all week. Flower lovers will be welcomed.

Prudential Reaching Out.

The Prudential Insurance Company continues to lengthen its territory and now lays claim to having a branch office at Honolulu, Hawii Islands. It was opened but a short time ago and is already doing quite a business.

SENATOR JOHN KEAN ASSUMING LEADERSHIP

NOW TOURING STATE TO ASCERTAIN POLITICAL SITUATION.

Senator Kean's friends hope he has decided to take a hand in the State Republican campaign. At any rate, it was claimed yesterday that the Senator has started on a quiet tour of the State to ascertain the real condition of affairs. It is stated that he will not return to business until after election. That statement was repeated at his office in New York.

The Senator was in Trenton yesterday, presumably consulting with the State managers there. It is understood that he will either visit several counties or make very quiet appointments somewhere with well known Republicans of various localities. He will make a study of the situation in Camden, Gloucester, Salem, Ocean and Monmouth counties, according to those who should know. Union county is believed to be in charge of the Senator's brother, Hamilton Kean.

The feeling among the Senator's friends that he should assume the leadership has been increasing ever since the interview with him several months ago. He is sure of his present position for five years, and can exercise his authority without disturbing his future. It is asserted that his influence with the national administration warrants any attempts he may make to harmonize party differences.

FIRE HORSES' MAD RUN THROUGH STREETS

SMASH A RUNABOUT INTO SOME KINDLING WOOD.

The fire engine team attached to one of Capt. William Hand's trucks took fright at an approaching trolley while the wagon was backed up in front of John Wanamaker's piano exhibit store on West Front street this forenoon and tore across the street toward Woodhull & Martin's new building. There is no telling what would have happened if a big pile of brick hadn't been at the Woodhull & Martin curb. The pole of the wagon hit the bricks, snapped off, and the horses slewed around toward Watchung avenue.

Just in front of them was John I. Holly's runabout, with Mr. Holly driving. The team swung into extended order, enveloped the rear of the runabout, and the front of the truck smashed full tilt into the light carriage. The rear of the runabout was crushed in as if it had been made of paper, and the shock flung Mr. Holly out. He escaped injury, and Dr. Pittis, to whose office he was taken, gave him something to overcome the effects of the shock.

The Holly horse is not excitable and refused to run, despite the urgings of the panicky fire team, so the latter perforce quit their tantrums. Cop Higgins said soothing things to them and turned them over to Edward Conger, the driver, who had been busy shoving shiny pianos around the Wanamaker store.

DELEGATES HOME AGAIN.

Y. M. C. A. Boys Return from Camden Conference.

The Plainfield delegates who attended the annual boys' conference of the Y. M. C. A., held at Camden, returned home yesterday and report having had a fine time. Yesterday the whole New Jersey delegation went to Philadelphia and visited the City Hall, U. S. Mint, Independence Hall, Bellevue Stratford, and in the afternoon the party enjoyed an automobile trip about the city, after which they returned home.

Among the honors conferred during the boys' conference was the appointment of Roy Woodhull to the chairmanship of the press committee. The boys thoroughly enjoyed the fine programme, and it is said that the conference was the most successful of any yet held.

All Saints' Day.

All Saints' Day will be celebrated at Grace church tomorrow with special services at 7 and 10 o'clock in the morning. It will also be the occasion of the annual parochial festival and a special choral service will be held in the evening at 8 o'clock. The special preacher will be Rev. Otis Glazebrook, of St. John's church, Elizabeth.

Inventor Moves Away.

R. T. Hone, of 128 North avenue, has arranged to move to Pottstown, Pa., where he has been employed as machinist in a large silk skirt factory. He has been in the employ of Levy & Co., of Watchung avenue. Mr. Hone is the inventor of a patent embroidery cutter, on which the patent office has issued papers.

ENJOY A COLONIAL TEA

Monday Afternoon Club Gives Affair in Connection With Fall Course of Study.

Mrs. F. O. Herring Introduces Mrs. Warren, Who Reads a Paper—Those in Charge of the Entertainment.

A pretty picture of colonial days was shown on the stage of the Casino yesterday afternoon, when the Monday Afternoon Club gave a colonial tea in connection with the fall study of Puritan New England and Colonial Virginia. The occasion was the fifth Monday of the month when, instead of the usual informal meeting this entertainment was given, to which each member had the privilege of bringing a friend.

Members and their friends numbering a couple of hundred were welcomed by the president, Mrs. F. O. Herring, the vice presidents, Mrs. Henry M. Maxson, Mrs. Eugene Hamlin Hatch and Mrs. Frank D. Warren and the recording secretary, Miss Julia S. Scribner.

With a graceful introduction by the president, Mrs. Warren read an interesting account of a tea party in Nautucket in 1745, when the recipients of the then unknown beverage ignorantly used quarts of tea leaves in the brewing, boiling it several hours.

During the reading, the colonial picture on the stage had held the attention of the audience. Antique furniture, rare old portraits, one by Benjamin West, unique old samplers and a picture of worsted embroidery made a fitting setting for spindle-legged tables bearing tea services and silver baskets of crullers and doughnuts, the whole lighted with many candles in rare old candlesticks of silver and brass.

The tables were presided over by Mrs. Edward J. Patterson in the charming simplicity of the quakeress attire, Mrs. William E. Gibbs in puritan dress, Mrs. Duncan W. Taylor and Miss Emily B. Tracy in the costume of Colonial dames and Mrs. George S. Ring gowned as a Puritan maid.

Mrs. Ring sang an old song and ballad to the great pleasure of the audience, both being encored. She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Albert H. Atterbury.

Mrs. Robert Lowry, former president of the club, read with taste and fine expression "Lady Wentworth," a poem by Longfellow, and some selections from "Colonial Days and Dames" by Miss Wharton.

The entertainment committee, Mrs. Augustus V. Healy, Mrs. Charles W. King, Mrs. Albert H. Atterbury, Mrs. Duncan W. Taylor and Mrs. Orton G. Dale, were untiring in their efforts to please and showed much skill in the arrangement of stage effects and the decoration of the main hall, where a tasteful disposition of rugs, palms, sofa pillows and seats gave the beauty of the salon to the capacity of the hall and made an effective setting for a charming entertainment.

WEDDING ANNOUNCEMENT.

Miss Helen Kiely Now Mrs. John Shannon.

Miss Helen Kiely, youngest daughter of John Kiely, of West Third street, and John Shannon, of Newark, were married at St. John's Catholic church, Newark, on Wednesday, October 25, in the presence of a large number of friends.

The bride was gowned in white mull and carried a prayer-book. She was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Kiely, as bridesmaid, and Oscar LaRue, of Newark, was best man.

After the ceremony the couple returned to the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Connolly, in Newark, where supper was served, and later they left for Port Washington, N. J., for a short stay. Upon their return they will live in Newark, where the groom is employed.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Instructions in the use of the voting machine will be given to the voters at the borough hall tonight, by the local election officers. As expected, the Secretary of State has definitely refused to take the machin out of the borough, so it behooves the voters, whatever their opinions may be as to the sense or nonsense involved in their use, to learn the mode of operating them. That is the way the votes must be cast, and voters who neglect to familiarize themselves with the machine simply cut off their nose to spite their face. If all the Republicans banded together to withhold their votes until the machine was taken away the powers that be might do something, but that is a plan that is hardly to be considered.

Jollity reigned at Friendship Hall last night, when the village young people held a Hallowe'en party. The affair was well attended. Jack-o'-lanterns and autumn foliage decorated the hall, and produced a striking effect. At midnight, amid the giggles and "ohs!" of the girls, a ghost parade was held by the light of the lanterns. Refreshments were served.

Within a few days residents along Main and Centre streets will be able to get gas service whenever they elect. The P. S. C. has nearly finished laying mains along these thoroughfares to the south of the tracks.

The board of registry is meeting in the borough hall this afternoon, and will be in session until 9 o'clock at night. It is your last chance to register for this election.

Mrs. Sarah C. Fisher is entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, of Plainfield, over the fall and winter.

The Township Committee meets Friday night in the town rooms.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Lewis D. Walker, during his present term as overseer of the poor in Piscataway township, has come short in no duty. He has faithfully looked after the interests of the poor individually, and by his careful scrutiny of all matters pertaining to the township stewardship he has regarded the taxpayers' interests. He is a worthy candidate for re-election.

George S. Bunting, Republican candidate for county commissioner, stands an excellent chance for election. His political record is much in his favor.

The mill pond will be run out tonight so that workmen may build new water gates for the mill. Charles H. Brantingham is doing the work.

The weekly prayer meeting will be conducted by the pastor tonight at the Baptist church.

William Hamilton spent Sunday with friends in Perth Amboy.

PEOPLE I WANT TO MISS.

The world is peopled with people
Who vary in numerous ways—
The ill you say of a fellow,
If said of another, is praise—
The hand you reach to a Harry
An insult would be to a John,
And so, forever compounding,
The variance ever goes on;
But here, for the sake of the reader of this,
Is a list of the characters I want to miss:

The man with an axe to grind,
The man with a woe to spring,
The man with a fault to find,
The man with a song to sing;
The man with a wife who nags,
The wife with a man who bores,
The man who forever brags,
The man (or the woman) who snores!
The man who is all self-made,
The man who is made by luck,
The man who "calls a spade a spade,"
The man who extols his pluck;
The man who is out for dough
And boasts of his selfish quest—
The man who is always "Go!"
The man who is always rest;
The man who is always broke,
The man who is always flush,
The man with an ancient joke,
The girl with a giddy gush!
The man with the bright young son,
Who tells all the youngster says,
The man who pays to a dun,
The man who says that he pays;
The man—well, but what's the use?
The world to its borders teems
With people who play the deuce
On the ragged edge of extremes,
And they are the people I mean by all this—
That's the list of the hairpins that I want to miss.

DISCRIMINATING LADIES.

Enjoy Using Herpicide on Account of Its Distinctiveness.

The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide speak of it in the highest terms, for its quick effect in cleansing the scalp of dandruff and also for its excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it allays that itching which dandruff will cause. Newbro's Herpicide effectively cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it, Herpicide stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing, for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Buy bread and cake at W. W Warnock's shop, West Front street. You will be pleased with the quality.

Clean picked and clean burning coal is to be had of L. A. Rheaume, East Fourth street, in any quantity for immediate delivery.

Trucking and express commissions are promptly executed by H. J. Wierenga, North avenue. His service is perfect and always reliable.

Expert designing and workmanship give the cerations of H. Schwartz, of West Front street, a distinctive and distinguished air.

W. S. Terhune & Son, of North avenue, can either sell or lease you the most desirable property in the city or country at reasonable prices.

William H. Pope, of North avenue, is an expert electrician and is capable of undertaking large or small contracts. He will cheerfully furnish estimates upon request.

Before you award a contract for the painting or papering of your house consult Charles Conover & Co., of Elmwood place. The firm guarantees all its work.

A full line of electric supplies is always to be seen at Electrician E. A. Craig's place on East Front street. Call him on the 'phone when you want any electric work done.

The season of weddings and other celebrations having arrived, J. Hervey Doane, the jeweler, offers an exceptional stock of goods from which a suitable gift can be selected.

Painting and decorating done by Woolston & Buckle, of North avenue, never fails to please the most captious houseowner or tenant. The work is always of the highest character.

Henry Eggerding has been located on Park avenue for many years and the cigars he manufactures have been recognized "leaders" from the first day they were put out. Try some and be convinced.

There are always pleasant things for the sightseer in J. W. Gavett's china and bric-a-brac store, West Front street. His shelves are lined with most attractive offerings. The visitor is always welcome; the buyer is always glad he or she came.

U. B. Crane, the West Front street haberdasher, can show you just what you want in the hat line. He handles all the best makes of derbies and sof effects and his prices are as low as the lowest. He has a grade of underwear that is proving a rapid seller.

The particular person is always anxious to be well shod, and the best place to get shoes is at Morris Abrams' store on West Front street. Here you will find a very large stock of shoes for men, women and children in all sizes and for all kinds of feet. The prices are very low.

In preparing your wardrobe for winter it is well to bear the shoe question in mind. This is just the time when the best styles in footgear are being shown and the place to get them is at A. E. & A. L. Giddes' West Front street store. They are agents for the far-famed "Sorosis" shoe and other makes.

The H. E. Gayle Hardware Company is offering the best heating stove and range on the market, as well as a full line of builders' supplies, kitchen utensils, cutlery and other articles to be found in a first class hardware store. An inspection of these goods will surely be to your advantage and well worth your while.

To those not already acquainted with the fact, it may be said that a full line of men's furnishings is always maintained at I. H. Boehm's West Front street dry goods store. The department is always kept up to date in order to meet the demands of all the customers. A specialty is made of underwear, negligee shirts and half hose.

Heavy clothes must be cut just right to hang properly and retain lines of dressiness and grace. Harry Werner's stock is composed of clothing that will be good, with ordinary wear, for two winters with shape and dressiness of marked degree the second season. Mr. Werner conducts his business on the Roosevelt plan, and his idea of a square deal is the same as yours.

When you want to get the best quality of meat, choice poultry and game, and fresh fish, go to Roth & Co., of East Front street, and you will always find what you desire and at prices that will please you. The firm is absolutely reliable and can be depended upon to keep its word. Prompt deliveries are made to all parts of the city and vicinity.

M. Weinberger, the clothier, is showing a large and attractive line of men's and boys' clothing of the best quality, correctly made and at prices that will appeal to you. If you need an overcoat, coat and vest or a separate pair of trousers you can get the mhere in all the latest styles. The men's furnishing goods department is complete with a fine line of shirts, collars, cuffs and ties, while the best patent leather shoe made is offered at a low price.

E. B. Shoemaker, of Kensington avenue, has gone West on a business trip. He will be away until December.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tilney, of Boston, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Tilney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Murray, Sr., of Central avenue.

PRUDENTIAL INCLUDED IN INSURANCE INQUIRY

SENATOR DRYDEN TO BE CALLED BY THE NEW YORK AUTHORITIES.

New York, Oct. 31—United States Senator John F. Dryden, of New Jersey, president of the Prudential Insurance company, is to be a witness before the insurance investigating committee, and the affairs of his company, although its head office is in a neighboring State, are to be gone into as thoroughly as those of the New York companies to which the greater part of the committee's time has been devoted so far.

This information came yesterday from counsel for the investigating committee. It was learned at the same time that the Prudential Life and the Metropolitan Life have to a certain extent pooled issues in the investigation by employing Richard V. Lindabury, of Newark, as their counsel.

There has been some question heretofore as to whether the Prudential would come in for such a raking over as the Mutual, New York Life and Equitable companies are receiving for the reason that it is in another State. It appears, however, that the authority of the State insurance department to revoke the license of any company to do business in New York will be made the basis for demanding of the Prudential as complete information as the committee has deemed it necessary to obtain from the other companies.

This may open some interesting politico-insurance history, for the Prudential has long been as intimately associated with certain phases of legislation at Trenton as the Mutual, the Equitable and the New York Life have been at Albany. Financial deals of great importance, including one which the Massachusetts insurance department exposed two years ago, whereby it was proposed to transfer the control of the Prudential to the Fidelity Trust company, of Newark, will be searchingly reviewed.

The Prudential and the Metropolitan Life both, as well as the John Hancock Life, will be pretty thoroughly canvassed on the subject of industrial insurance, which all three companies feature in their business. This is a topic to which the Armstrong committee intends to give a good deal of attention, following somewhat the developments in the investigation held in Massachusetts a few years ago, which resulted in legislation materially limiting industrial insurance. It is the belief of members of the committee that serious abuses have grown up in the system, particularly as the result of the freedom that the companies enjoy in writing policies on children of any age, and upon persons suffering from diseases which render them improper risks.

Plainfield's Disgrace.

The highly moral, ultra religious and extremely respectable class of Republican voters in Union county who have been accustomed to rant about Democratic practices in Hudson county and in New York under Tammany are confronted with a condition of affairs at home that beats anything in the State. In Plainfield an independent committee of the Common Council filed a report showing an alliance between the police officials, the Republican boss of the city and a large brewery that was maintained on the mutual help plan, and that was so well organized that it was possible to get the chairman of the Republican County Committee to make a personal matter of the question of granting a license to a gin mill. Hudson county in its palmiest days never presented anything so rotten and corrupt as Plainfield has been for years. So hidebound in their partisanship are the Republicans of that city and of Union county that nothing has ever been accomplished towards cleaning it out. The Republican Mayor this week felt it safe to display his small partisanship by refusing to grant a permit to Edward Nugent, the Democratic candidate for Senator, to hold public meetings in the factory districts at noonday in order to present his views on the issues of the campaign. It will be interesting to note just how all of this will be treated at the polls by the class of men who have been furnishing the bulk of the Republican majorities in this county.—Summit Herald.

Messrs. Ely Bros.:—I have been a great sufferer from catarrh and hay fever and tried many things, but found no permanent relief until I found it in Ely's Cream Balm about eight years ago, and we have been fast friends ever since. (Rev.) R. M. Bentley.

Messrs. Ely Bros.:—Find enclosed 50 cents, for which please send me your Cream Balm. I find your remedy the quickest and most permanent cure for cold in the head, catarrh, etc. Yours truly, Dell M. Potter, Gen. Mgr. Arizona Gold Mining Co.

Elmer D. Cutting, of the telephone company's office staff, was compelled to give up his work by illness yesterday afternoon.

Robert Randolph, who has been spending the last two years in Alaska, and who has been visiting relatives here for several weeks, will leave tomorrow for Alaska, where he will continue his work of mining.

Girls' Stylish Outer Apparel

We have arranged for Wednesday's selling an unusually attractive array of values in Misses' and Girls' Outergarments. Our's is admittedly the most exclusive showing in the state. Everything is here from the simplest play dress to the most elaborate party frock. The styles are exclusive and the prices noticeably moderate. For instance:

Warm School Coats—Pretty models in long zibeline coats, colorings are brown, blue, red and green, some plain, others neatly trimmed, full back or belted styles, sizes for girls of from 4 to 14 years. Extra special value. 3.98

Children's Coats—These splendid coats are made of kersey in several very pretty models, with or without capes, military collars, some trimmed with braid, others plain, new shades, 4 to 14 years. $7.00 would be a fair price, we say 5.98

School Dresses—A fine lot of pretty frocks for school wear. Several new models in cashmeres, serges and cheviots, all of the latest colors, sizes 4 to 14 years. Many stores would ask $5.00 for these dresses. Our price 3.98

SPORTS—HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

The Orange Field Club eleven will play the Franklin Football Association of Elizabeth on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The local football elevens are showing up strong this season, as the recent games show, and lovers of this game are having a fine opportunity to see good football.

Although Leal's School team dropped into last place after Saturday's game, the eleven should not be discouraged. It has played a good game this season and made a good showing.

The management of the Orange Field Club football team requests the patrons of their games to remain on the side lines and not rush on the field and thus interfere with the play.

Mahaffey, of the Plainfield High School eleven, is doing good work for the team. He is an experienced player and knows the game perfectly. He was formerly a member of Brooklyn "Poly" eleven.

Morning, who is now playing with the Orange Field Club, formerly played with the Cornell Varsity eleven. He is taking a practical course at the Pond Machine Tool Works. His work has been of great benefit to the local team this season.

The Plainfield High School second football eleven defeated the North Plainfield High School second team on Hope Common Friday afternoon in a well played game by a score of 6 to 0. The lineup: Plainfield—Martin, left end; Loizeaux, right end; Vandeventer, right tackle; Brakeley, left tackle; Bogardus, left guard; Palmer, right guard; Doane, left half; Bingaman, fullback; Wilcox, right halfback; Parker, center; Moses Rubenstein, quarterback. North Plainfield—Hamilton, left end; H. Smith, left tackle; Steiner and Smith, left guard; Dunning, center; Becker, right guard; Bailey, right tackle; Kenney, right end; Conroy, quarterback; W. Dunning, right halfback; W. Stine, left halfback; McClintock, fullback. Referee—Peacock. Umpire—Brokaw. Linesman—S. Freeman. Timers—Fisher and H. Freeman.

DIAMOND DUST.

The executive committee of the Lackawanna Baseball League has thrown out six games played during the league season. The throwing out of these games leaves Summit two games in the lead of Dover, but it is quite likely that Dover will protest against the action taken. Dover claims that President Mills, of the Orange Club, should have no voice in the proceedings of the league, since he has withdrawn his team from the league, but the other managers construe the rules differently. The games thrown out for infractions of the rules are as follows: Dover-Summit game of June 14, protested by Dover because Lamar, who played with Summit, had not filed a contract; Dover-Summit game of September 9, because McCormick played without filing a contract; Dover-Phillipsburg game of September 13, protested by Summit because Keyes, of Morristown, played with Phillipsburg; Dover - Morristown double header of September 16, because Foxen played in one game and McCormack in both without filing contracts; Summit-Morristown game of September 23, thrown out because played after the season closed.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Tuesday, November 14, is Harvest Home donation day for the Baptist Home for the Aged at Newark.

Tomorrow being All Saints' Day, there will be Holy Eucharist at St. Stephen's church at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Preparatory services will be held at the First Presbyterian church on Friday night and communion services on Sunday morning.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold a social in the chapel of the church on Thursday night.

Preparatory services will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Friday night and communion services on Sunday morning.

The Sunshine Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will hold a sewing meeting in the small parlors tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Men's Club of the First Presbyterian church will meet tomorrow night after the prayer meeting for the election of officers and transaction of other business.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold a consecration service on Friday night. The topic will be "Am I Keeping My Christian Endeavor Covenant?"

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will be held in the church parlors Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. There will be an address by the Rev. Robert M. Craig, who was recently appointed assistant superintendent of schools in the denomination. Mr. Craig will be remembered by many who heard him speak in behalf of his work in New Mexico.

Plainfield, N. J., October 31, 1905.

It is rather with a touch of pity that we view Brother Frost's undue anxiety to exploit his views on municipal ownership, a subject that seems to him to be paramount to everything else. At last he got his chance to give local color to his views when the Councilmanic committee on public affairs presented a report of three experts on a consideration of municipal control of the water supply here. Since that time, the matter has been an ever-recurring subject of discussion for our esteemed contemporary. At the outset, The Daily Press gave expression to its views on the question but has not been wearying its readers, preferring to await the report of the investigation to be made by the Common Council, provided the people permit one to be made.

Last night, the Courier-News addressed itself to this paper and incidently said "If you think the Plainfield Water Supply Company ought to go on furnishing water to the people of the city at high rates, say so; if, on the other hand, you are convinced, together with most of your fellow citizens, that the city will find it advantageous to at least have the Common Council take up the subject of a municipal plant and decide whether it is practicable for the city, then say that."

Bless its soul, just turn back to The Daily Press of August 9. In discussing the subject at that time, this paper said:

"The merits of the public ownership question depend in a great degree upon the standard of public morality. As can be readily understood, in a boss-ridden and badly governed municipality it would be harmful. On the other hand where there is the right civic pride among the inhabitants and where the government is well conducted, public ownership of utilities is both desirable and satisfactory. It is needless to say that few, if any, cities in the United States are run so well and are so free from corruption as is Plainfield. For that reason we believe that public ownership of the water supply is a duty of the hour."

The municipal ownership election, which will be merged with the general election, next week, will not decide one way or the other whether we shall own the water supply. It is merely to ascertain whether the people desire such an investigation to be made as will bring out the feasibility and practicability of the scheme. We do not know whether it will be entirely feasible. According to the opinion of the three experts such a plan will not insure any considerable reduction in the rates. In this connection, however, we beg to call the attention of our friend, Mr. Frost, to The Daily Press of October 3, wherein we stated, in discussing the coming election: "No one would oppose municipal ownership of so important an utility if it be found feasible and practicable. To permit the necessary appropriation for the investigation, sanction must be given by the taxpayers. That is the sole reason for the vote. We believe that the election will and feel that it should result favorably."

The Common Council has heeded the injunction, "Look before you leap." It would be well for our contemporary to do likewise in this as well as in many other matters of public moment.

The betting odds in favor of George B. McClellan, coming down from five to one to two to one, show that Tammany has a desperate fight on its hands to accomplish the defeat of William R. Hearst for the mayoralty. When the newspaper man was nominated most well informed politicians were willing to concede him 50,000 votes. Then they predicted 70,000, and within a short time the same men admitted that he would not fall short of 135,000 votes. As it is today, they allow him a fighting chance. And a great many who do not keep in touch with political affairs are at a loss to understand why McClellan should not win out with a rousing big majority. It is because he is the victim of a corrupt organization and must suffer for its deeds. For instance, the police will vote solidly against him, because of various alleged arbitrary rulings and innovations of his police commissioner; the laboring men will not vote for him because of many crooked jobs of his department heads for which they have been made to suffer; the teamsters will not vote for him because of the way they have been dealt with; the saloonkeepers will not vote for him because they have been made to pay so much "graft." There are countless other influences working against him, and he is made to pay the penalty for the deeds of the organization with which he is identified. The opposing forces are not for Hearst because of the man, but simply because they want to knock out the Tammany machine. As has been said, "the only way to reform a ring is to smash it." That is the case in New York today. With the exception of The Tribune and The Times the morning papers are not against Hearst. In fact, while not openly supporting his candidacy, they look with favor on it. The why and wherefore is that they want to see the people rebuke a "machine" that looks upon the city as a private business concern of its own.

HALLOWE'EN HAS BECOME POPULAR

FASHIONABLE GATHERINGS ARE HELD AND OLD CUSTOMS PRACTISED.

Hallowe'en as a festal occasion seems to be enjoying a revival. Fashionable gatherings are held and many old customs practiced.

It is a relic of the time when fashion was little thought of; when the world, while less advanced, was more natural than now.

There is perhaps no more popular night in the year than the evening of October 31. The leading idea respecting Hallowe'en is that it is the time of all others when supernatural influences prevail.

It is a night when spirits walk abroad and the witches are especially free to work their witchcraft.

Candles, nuts and apples play an important part on this night. Young men and women delight to bob for apples in a tub of water, or walk down a dark cellar stairs to see the future husband or wife.

A popular game is to hang a stick horizontally by a string from the ceiling and on one end attach an apple and on the other a lighted candle. The stick is set twirling and the apple must be bitten.

The danger is that the stick revolves so rapidly that one may bite into the candle, but the risk only increases the interest in the game and makes the efforts of a person to catch the apple more laughable.

Another game is to throw into a tub of water six or eight apples. The apples then are in reality at sea, and so are the young men and women bobbing for them.

Heads are bumped and clothes are splashed when the game is well under way, but all this only serves to brighten the fun and the laughter of the lookers-on at the jolly and good-natured contestants.

The apple-paring test is also very popular. Each person is given an apple and a knife, the apple to be pared in a continuous strip. The paring is then swung three times about the head while these lines are repeated:

"Apple I pare and swing to know whom I soon shall marry,
From my hand I now thee throw, mystic letter carry."

The paring is then dropped to the floor, and the initial it forms will be that of the future husband or wife.

Popping chestnuts furnishes a great deal of fun. Each guest is given three chestnuts, and they are named and placed on the hot coals. The nut that pops will be the unfaithful sweetheart, the one that burns steadily will be a loyal friend, but the one that burns brightly, giving forth a flame, is the true love.

Very many young women find their faith in three dishes. This originated long ago in Scotland, where implicit faith was placed in the charm.

Three dishes were placed side by side on the hearth, one full of clean water, one of muddy water and the other empty.

One by one the persons testing the charm were blindfolded and advanced to find their fortunes by dipping their fingers into one of the dishes.

If they dipped into the first dish a young man would come a-wooing; into the second, a widow or widower; and into the empty dish it would be one's fate to remain a spinster.

Mrs. Lewis Surprised.

Mrs. H. J. Lewis, of 235 Bond street, Elizabeth, was pleasantly surprised last evening by a number of her daughter's friends. For the occasion the house was decorated with palms, ferns and smilax. Guests were present from Philadelphia, Jersey City and Plainfield. Jos. Ludwig, as an entertainer, scored a hit. James White amused the guests by his funny monologues. Edward Bransfield sang "Pal of Mine."

WE OUGHT TO HAVE THE FACTS

"I've always lived in this here town
And tried to do what's right;
No man can say I've throwed him down
'Er held him any spite.
So when I heard our police chief
Was charged with shady acts,
It seemed but right 'Bill' Tyler might
Had let us have the facts."

"I never tried to take a hand
In politicians' scraps;
The man who does will sure get canned
And lose his drag, perhaps.
But still I own a house and lot
And always pay my tax
And I tell you what, it made me hot
When I didn't hear the facts."

"There are two sides to a story
And keeping this in mind,
We'll all be old and hoary
Before the truth we'll find;
Unless 'Bill' Tyler stops for breath
And drops his battle-axe
To heed our call and tell us all
The plain unvarnished facts."

FIREMEN OF STATE IN SESSION YESTERDAY

TEN CITIES, INCLUDING PLAINFIELD, WERE REPRESENTED.

The ninth annual convention of the New Jersey Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association was held in Turner Hall, Trenton, yesterday. Michael J. Ryan, of Paterson called the convention to order and the roll call showed thirty delegates present, representing ten cities—Plainfield, Paterson, Trenton, Newark, Atlantic City, Montclair, Hoboken, Camden, Orange and Jersey City.

The principal business of the session was the election of officers and the adoption of a resolution placing a ten per cent. per capita tax on the branches for the maintenance of the benevolent fund and for general expenses. The fund was formerly maintained by assessment. These officers were elected: President, Michael J. Ryan, Paterson; vice president, Thomas McGinty, Trenton; secretary, Robert D. Bender, Newark; treasurer, James Elberson, Camden. It was decided to held the next convention at Atlantic City in October, 1906.

The proposition of asking for shorter hours was the subject of considerable discussion during the session, the majority of the delegates believing that the firemen should have one day off duty every week. The firemen believe this is possible without crippling the department.

Last evening the visiting delegates, the members of the local board of fire commissioners and members of Common Council and various city officials were tendered a banquet in Turner Hall.

An elaborate menu was served by a local caterer and addresses were delivered by Prosecutor William J. Crossley, Councilman Guitchel, Chief Allen, the Rev. Charles H. Elder, ex-Assemblyman Ralph Hulse, President of Council Thomas, J. H. Clifford, of Brooklyn, and Thomas Aitkin, of Atlantic City.

The New Jersey Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association has its membership among the rank and file of the paid departments in the State. None of the superior officers are entitled to membership.

COLBY CONFIDENT OF VICTORY.

Democrats Comfort Themselves with Forlon Hope.

With the odds favoring Everett Colby, the Republican Senate nominee, the race in Essex county, gradually drawing to the finish, is waxing warm as far as the candidates are concerned, and while the Colby adherents say "It's an easy run," the Democratic leaders come out with the forlorn statement that "there's a fighting chance." This, of course, is the attitude with regard to the fight for the Senatorship, for there are many Democrats who have locked horns with the Colby supporters just to be "in" on the final jolt to Major Carl Lentz and his political machine.

Colby is losing no sleep over the outcome, but has been kept busy with his noonday and night meetings, and has planned this week as one of his busiest. He will talk four or five times each day until Saturday at the various factories in Newark. Julian A. Gregory will spend his time in the various cities and towns of the county outside of Newark.

EXEMPTS AFTER MURRAY.

Want More Money from a Former Officer.

For the purpose of examining further into the affairs of Peter J. Murray, of Hoboken, as former secretary and treasurer of the New Jersey State Exempt Firemen's Association, a meeting of the entire executive committee of that organization was held in Newark on Saturday. President D. W. Littell, of this city, was at the conference.

When Mr. Murray's term expired he refused to give up his books and reports, and the executive committee brought a suit against him in the District Court of Hudson county. The Exempt Firemen won the suit and Mr. Murray delivered up the books and paid over $14 which it was found was due the association. Not being altogether satisfied with the settlement, the executive committee decided to examine further into the case, and is alleged to have found that at least $50 more is due.

Mr. Murray is a member of the tax assessors board of Hoboken and is very well known throughout Hudson county as well as the State.

Explosion Victim Dies.

New Brunswick, Oct. 31.—C. A. Mervine, the brakeman, who was severely injured by the explosion of the boiler on the Pennsylvania Railroad train yesterday, and was removed to the Wells Memorial Hospital in this place, died in that institution shortly after midnight this morning. It was not expected that he would recover when he was brought to the hospital. Mervine was in the engine cab at the time of the exlosion. Both of his arms were broken, his skull fractured and his face and one of his legs terribly scalded and burned. This morning his body was shipped to his home in Philadelphia. H. E. Sterling, of No. 2,923 Aspent street, Philadelphia, the engineer of the train, is also in the Wells Hospital. He is suffering from a broken leg, terrible burns on the face and body and also suffering from shock. The doctors at the hospital were unable to say positively today whether the man would recover.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the New Plainfield theatre tonight Frank Turner has the pleasure of presenting John Cantwell in that ever popular and up-to-date musical comedy success, "The Hustler." "The Hustler" is one of those amusing skits that seem to improve with age, and although in its original form during its all-season run at the Bijou theatre, New York City, its success this year surpasses all former records, and as Mr. Turner has equipped it in its new dress and up-to-dateness will without a doubt prove one of the big road winners of the season. "The Hustler" at the present time can boast of a bevy of pretty and shapely young women, handsome and attractive costumes, stage settings and accessories, and all the new Broadway song hits of the season.

The first production in this city of "The Way of the Transgressor," announced for Thursday night at the New Plainfield theatre, will be a revelation to theatregoers who may be used to novelties and sensations. An intensely dramatic story is relieved by a judicious intermingling of comedy. There are a number of exciting situations and the whole is enlivened by a number of clever specialties. The play will be illustrated by a number of materly scenic effects, and as all of the parts are in the hands of clever actors the production will be a complete one in every respect. A special feature will be the first appearance in America of the wonderful acting Landseer dogs, Victor, Czar, Leo and Zip, magnificent specimens of the highest class of canine development. For seven years these dogs were the talk of Great Britain and have the record of appearing twelve consecutive weeks in London.

Of all the plays depicting life in New York City, "Shadows of a Great City" can easily be classed among the best, not only from a consistent standpoint as to story, but by the realistic manner in which it is staged. Forty thousand gallons of real water, it is said, will be used in the scene showing East River, New York, showing the famus Blackwell's Island Prison, and the great city lighted up in the background. This splendid production will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, November 3.

Throughout both America and England the leading journals in the large cities have in many instances remarked the similarity between "When We Were Twenty-one" and an oasis of the desert. The New York Herald says: "Henry V. Esmond has given to the American and English stage a very remarkable play. It comes at the right time. It comes as a wholesome check to decadence and degeneracy. This play should be commended by all because of the purity of its motive and for its truthfulness to real life. The really good plays are so far and few between that 'When We Were Twenty-one' can truly be said to be the oasis in a desert of most ordinary productions." It is to appear at the New Plainfiel dtheatre on Saturday, November 4, matinee and night, with one of the strongest casts procurable. In fact, several of the present company were members of the original production.

When "The Redemption of David Corson" comes to the New Plainfield theatre Monday night our people will have the opportunity of the season to witness a clean, sweet performance. The book of Rev. Charles Frederic Goss is too well known and has been so widely read that a synopsis of the story is hardly necessary, but the assurance that every strong point, either pathos or comedy, has been truthfully portrayed by the masterhand of Lottie Blair Parker, in her dramatization, should convince all that a delightful evening's entertainment awaits them. After the phenomenal success of Mrs. Parker's "Way Down East" and "Under Southern Skies" it is easy to realize what she can do with the story of "David Corson." To the selection of the actors in the company Manager Harry Doel Parker has given much time and consideration, and believes that each and every one fit perfectly the character assigned them. The production is said to be perfect in every detail, and reflects much credit upon J. C. Huffman, stage director of Klaw & Erlanger's dramatic productions, whose services were specially loaned for this play. Walter Edwards, who is cast for the role of "David Corson," has a part which is particularly suited to his talents, and although well known throughout the country as a sterling actor, his genuine success in the above named play will only bring him new and lasting honors.

One of the most delightful surprises of the present season is expected to be Miss Sophie Brandt's portrayal of the character of Princess Mary Tudor in the Smith-Englander comic opera, "A Madcap Princess," which will be given at the New Plainfiel dtheatre Tuesday matinee and night, November 7, under the management of Claxton Wilstach. The story of Princess Mary Tudor's historical love affairs has proven admirable to comic opera purposes and it will be presented by an excellent and very talented organization. It is only natural that Miss Brandt should carry on her fair shoulders the burden of the piece, but it is described as a light and frolicsome burden, very exquisitely balanced and overflowing with joyous animal spirits. Few episodes in any sort of theatrical performance of late have equalled the infectious humor of Princess Mary's scenes with Henry VIII., or genuinely sincere touch Miss Brandt puts to her scenes with her lover, Brandon. "A Madcap Princess" is reported to be one of the most worthy presentations of comic opera that Americans have seen in several years, and it will be a welcome addition to the season's amusements in this city.

IT WAS AN ACCIDENT.

Recently in Boston Lottie Blair Parker, author of "Under Southern Skies" and "Way Down East," was asked the question, "How did you fall into dramatic writing?"

"As accidently as I became an actress. After I left school I studied to become a dramatic reader. My family had old fashioned notions about the stage, and I shared them until my instructor, an old actor, persuaded me to adopt the dramatic profession. After mother had cried her eyes dry she gave her consent, and I became an actress. I played for several seasons in road companies. I was successful, but I could see that I was not destined to become another Mary Anderson. My old love of writing took hold of me, and, with my stage experience in hand, I turned to playwriting. My first effort was a curtain raiser, "White Roses." Mr. Daniel Frohman bought it and it was produced by Miss Cayvan, Effie Shannon and Mrs. Whiffen. I have always been interested in quaint characters, whether in books I read, the plays

Lottie Blair Parker.

I see, or the life about me. I don't say, however, that all my characters are drawn from life. For instance, 'Under Southern Skies' was written from what I had imbibed of Southern manners and customs through association with two charming Southern women."

"And you will dramatize your novel?"

'I may do so, but I am not writing with that end in view. I do not approve altogether of the dramatized novel. In some of our best novels the analyiitcal quality is the chief charm, and this is entirely lost in dramatization. The authors who have essayed to dramatize their own works have not always been successful.

"My latest play, "Under Southern Skies," I consider a strong piece."

"Have you ever dramatized anyone's novel?"

"Some time ago I secured the right to dramatize the Rev. Charles Frederick Goss' novel, "The Redemption of David Corson,' and I think I have made a good play out of the theme. I hope the public will be generous toward my adaptation of this story, as they have been to my original plays."

NOTICE!
"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abscess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as a bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply Mr. and Mrs. James, Embury Ave., care Hiller, Ocean Grove, N. J Signed, July 12, 1905: Mrs. C. W. James, Mr. C. W. James." Leading Druggists, 25c-50c

The Iron Brigade

A Story of the Army of the Potomac

By GEN. CHARLES KING

Author of "Norman Holt," "The Colonel's Daughter," "Fort Frayne," Etc.

Copyright, 1902, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

"And wouldn't show it," answered the general. "That's the way with them. Send for a surgeon, captain." And then the general, too, was off his horse and bending over the stricken lad. "Do you know his name—and home?" he asked of the pale-faced young Virginian, standing trembling a bit with excitement beside him. The lad flushed, looked distressed, embarrassed, but seemed to believe it his soldier duty to give no information whatever to the enemy. It was Jennings who spoke, his voice breaking harshly, somehow, on the silence of the surrounding group, as he elbowed a way through the curious circle and caught sight of the swooning boy.

"I know him, general. He's one of our best, suh," and now Jennings, too, had thrown himself upon his knees. "It's Floyd Pelham, suh, of Charlottesville. It'll break his mother's heart, suh, if he's done for."

The wail in the Virginian's voice seemed to catch the ear and rouse the faculties of the reviving officer.

"Who's that—done for?" he faintly asked. "Not Floyd Pelham?" And bracing his hands upon the turf, he struggled to a sitting posture, while Jennings sprang to his feet and stared.

"Maj. Lounsberry! Good God, suh, you wounded, too? Why, I'd no idea——"

"No idea, I suppose," interposed the major, with cutting, sarcastic emphasis, "that your friends, the Chiltons, had turned that Yankee lieutenant loose. Well, you needn't rejoice, gentlemen, we've got him again—and right in the teeth of his own brigade!"

CHAPTER XIII.

RIVANNA TO RAPIDAN.

Long as he lives Fred Benton will never forget that night ride from the Chiltons and the thrilling days that followed. Something heaved up through the dim starlight and lightly tapped against the clapboards below the sill, and something black came "swarming" up the other something—Pomp again, and Pomp chuckled at sound of Benton's whispered hail.

"We've got a ladder dis time, suh. Didn't dass try it befo' wid dem sojus at de bahn," and by ladder, not by lightning rod, was the descent accomplished. Dusky hands helped the crippled soldier into saddle. Dusky hands waved him good-by and good luck.

Then Benton gave himself unquestioning to him whom she, his imperious queen, had appointed as his guide, and together they rode forth into the murmuring night.

When the suburbs were left behind and they had found the open country his escort turned and said: "Kin you stand a little canter, Marstuh?" and Benton recognized the voice of Dusky Dan, and "stood" accordingly. They forded, somewhere toward two o'clock, a little branch, a tributary of the rushing Rivanna, and were still heading westward when Fred's darkey guide left him with both horses at the edge of a grove, while he went forward afoot and reconnoitered. Presently he came back rejoiceful. "Dey ain't a soul a lookin' out fo' de bridge, suh. Dey's all over Gawd'nsville way. We cave nigh onto five miles hyuh," and so led on again, the hoof-beats sounding hollow on the planking of some old-time truss across a swift, exuberant mountain stream, running bank full and, far and near, said Dan, unfordable. Still on through whispering aisles of forest trees, through squashy cross-country bridle paths, far from pike or toll road, until at dawn old Daniel led his soldier charge from the beaten track, and turning square to the left began a tortuous climb that brought them presently to two little cabins. Here, while Benton was made comfortable in his blanket Dan held converse with other unseen occupants, giving explicit directions, faintly audible in the hiss of frying bacon and the bubble of boiling coffee. Benton heard vaguely, drowsily, the words "Swift Run Gap, Sperryville, Ohleans, Hedgman river" and when he roused himself in response to vigorous yet regretful prodding, he knew not how long thereafter, a new voice sounded on his sleepy senses. Another guardian bent over him in the shape of a negro with wrinkled face and gray-white, kinky hair, but a world of sympathy and interest in his somble eyes. Marstuh's breakfast was spoiling and it was time that they were moving. Where was Daniel? "Daniel had to go back to Marse Chilton's. Miss Rosalie done fixed all dat."

His big boy Hector was "groomin' hawses," and from this point would lead him on up the east face of the range until near the Hedgman. He knew that country well, whereas old Dan did not, and the latter had to hurry home so that he might show about the Chilton place as usual. Miss Rosalie had ordered that, too. They would do anything in the world for her—or for the doctor.

And so, once more, but in broad daylight now, and well up along the heights, they came at last in view of the twisting mountain road that pierced the range—Jackson's runway from the Shenandoah down to Gordonsville—and here again Fred lurked in hiding, while Hector scrambled down afoot to try the pass.

Ten o'clock had come before Hector reappeared, big-eyed, panting. There were 200 soldiers to the west of the Gap digging forts, a squad in every farmhouse along the road, and about as much chance of a Yankee officer crossing in daylight as there was "of a needle's eye a-gittin' into heaven." Hector had been piously taught at some time in his life—and now he looked at the blue and the brass buttons in dismay.

PARK CLUB PLANS MANY SOCIAL EVENTS

ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE HAS SEASON'S PROGRAMME COMPLETED.

The entertainment committee of the Park Club has prepared an attractive programme of events for the coming season, following the formal opening which was such a success on Thursday night. These events have been announced:

November 29, Thanksgiving dance; December 28, Christmas dance; January 1, junior dance; April 19, Easter dance; January 1, New Year's reception in the afternoon.

Beginning November 6 and continuing November 20, December 4 and 18, and ending January 8, there will be a bridge tournament, with prizes for the first, second and third highest aggregate scores. These are the dates for the informal dances at the club:

November 4, 18; December 2, 16; January 13, 27; February 10, 24; March 10, 24; April 7, 21; May 5.

After December 1 the committee will be pleased to receive suggestions from the members as to the names to be included in the list of guests, both resident and non-resident, to be invited by the club to the junior dance, which will be given on New Year's eve.

Junior members under sixteen years will not be expected to attend the Thanksgiving, Christmas or Easter dances, and members over twenty-one years will not be expected to attend the junior dance. The Board of Governors of the club has adopted this resolution:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this board that for the Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter dances invitations for guests be limited to non-residents of Plainfield and North Plainfield, while for the informal dances the standing rules of the club relative to the introduction of guests be enforced."

Invitations for non-resident guests may be had upon application to the chairman of the entertainment committee, Mrs. Charles A. Reed, 27 Myrtle avenue.

In addition to the events announced, there will be other attractions for the members and their friends throughout the winter season, all of which promises to make it one of the best in the history of the club.

DR. GREENE UPHOLDS WOMEN'S CLUB WORK

PRINCIPAL OF STATE SCHOOLS DISAGREES WITH CLEVELAND.

Dr. James M. Green, principal of the State schools, Trenton, took up the cudgels Saturday for women's club and women's work, as opposed to the views expressed by former President Cleveland, in an address before the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, at their eleventh annual convention in the First Presbyterian church in Elizabeth. Dr. Green made the leading address of the morning session. His subject was "Some Substantials in Education." He said among other things:

"In the light of the very able and thoughtful articles recently published by ex-President Cleveland on women's clubs and woman's suffrage, I should like your indulgence for a few moments while I explain my reasons for welcoming the woman's club. I had not taken the matter so seriously as did Mr. Cleveland when he assumed women's clubs as the instruments of the propagandists of female suffrage and apt to pave the way to the reception of woman suffrage radicalism.

"The sincere educator will study woman as he studies man. While compared with man she is more loyal to her home, more devoted to her church and more helpful to charities, toward her sister she is more suspicious, more envious, more intolerant, more dogmatic and more clannish. Instead of relying for leadership on intellectual culture and refinement, as did Mrs. Monroe and Mrs. Cleveland, she too often relies on the mere accident of birth or wealth. These latter qualities were characteristic of man in the early stages of his history when he was scattered over the plains, and just as contact with his fellow man in social and deliberative circles has developed man's confidence in man and thus broadened and Christianized him in the true sense, so contact of woman with woman along intellectual lines will increase her confidence in women and thus broaden and Christianize her. Hence, my belief in women's clubs as a present expedient."

Mrs. Arthur McVoy, of West Fourth street, is out after her recent illness.

Miss Clara Long, of Park avenue, has returned from a visit with her cousin at Somerville.

Frederick R. Phillips, of West Front street, has been entertaining his mother from Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vermeule and son, of Washington, are visiting E. M. Odom, of 1038 Arlington avenue.

Frank Neal, of West Front street, who has been in Boston for some time, is visiting his parents in this city for a few weeks.

YOUNG MAN HURT.

O. B. Hill is Injured in a Runaway.

While Mr. and Mrs. Oliver B. Hill, of the New Madison, were out driving at South Plainfield Saturday afternoon, their horse became suddenly frightened at a goat and wagon in the road and making a quick turn threw Mr. Hill out. His leg became fastened between the spokes of the wheel and although he kept hold of the reins in an effort to stop the horse, he was dragged a distance of two blocks. His leg and foot were badly injured before he could release himself from the wheel.

In the meantime Mrs. Hill took desperate chances and jumped from the wagon. Falling on her side, she received slight bruises, but nothing serious. She ran after the horse and reached her husband soon after he succeeded in stopping the animal. Mr. Hill was assisted to the home of Thomas Saverd, nearby, and Dr. Zeglio was summoned and brought the injured man home. The injuries are not thought to be serious, but Mr. Hill will be detained at home a long while.

Going to Newark Carnival.

Numbers of Plainfielders will go to Newark tonight to witness and, in some cases, to take part in the Hallowe'en festival and mummers' parade. The carnival will be the biggest thing of it kind ever held in this section.

The Republicans of Dunellen will hold a mass meeting in the borough hall tomorrow night. Dr. Crowther, of Perth Amboy, will make the principal speech.

FOR S. S. TEACHERS.

Bible Study Class Proves Beneficial.

A class of more than usual interest has been organized among the women Sunday school teachers of the city. It meets Wednesday afternoons at 4 o'clock in the parlor of the Crescent Avenue church. The class is studying E. F. See's little book called "Teaching of Bible Classes."

The object of the class is to train teachers in methods of teaching and also to study the Sunday school lesson. The teacher is Miss Elizabeth Chadbourne, a daughter of the late Dr. Chadbourne, at one time president of Williams College. Those who were at this class last Wednesday speak in enthusiastic terms of the beautiful and helpful lesson which Miss Chadbourne taught.

The next lesson will be tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

DRAGGED BY TRAIN.

L. B. Goldstein Injured While Attempting to Board Cars.

L. B. Goldstein, of Netherwood, was injured at the Netherwood station yesterday morning, in attempting to board the 7 o'clock train. As Mr. Goldstein raised his foot to climb to the platform, the train started suddenly, and he lost his balance. For fear of falling under the wheels of the cars is back of him, Goldstein clung to the handrail on which his grasp had been, and allowed the train to drag him. He was jerked several hundred meet before his plight was discovered and the train stopped. He was considerably bruised and shaken.

He continued on his way to New York, but not long after his arrival there the reaction from his injuries and the shock compelled him to return home. He was confined to his bed today.

POLITICAL NOTICE.

A GOOD RECORD!

The Newark Evening News Endorses the Candidacy of Ernest R. Ackerman For State Senator.

Mr. Ackerman's Good Record.

In view of the peaceful condition of politics in Union county, which is Republican by about 2,000 majority when the factions in that party bury the hatchet, the man most likely to succeed Judge Cross as Senator is Ernest R. Ackerman, of Plainfield. There is therefore much interest in him, even outside of Union, not only because he follows in the footsteps of a statesman of high order, and of eminent success, but because the issues coming before the next Legislature will require the most careful and intelligent treatment at the hands of capable and conscientious legislators.

Happily there is no room for questions as to Mr. Ackerman's integrity, ability or political experience. In these respects he stands unchallenged, even by his political opponents, one of his open supporters in his own home city being George S. Clay, formerly president of the Parker Independent Club, who declares that Mr. Ackerman's acceptance of the office is "a distinct gain for the side of good morals and honesty in politics," and that if every legislator selected this fall were of the same high character "a new era would begin and 'graft' and self-seeking be unknown."

But the inquiry that is uppermost in the popular mind is, How does Mr. Ackerman stand on the question of limited franchises? Will he be as independent as was Judge Cross? Does he appreciate this issue as one of great importance? Fortunately, Mr. Ackerman has made a record on this question. When he was a member of the Plainfield City Council in 1891 the company which is now a constituent element of the Public Service Corporation applied to the Council for a franchise to operate an electric street railway in that city. What the company demanded was, of course, a perpetual franchise. This was fourteen years ago, before the corporations had gotten all cities by the throat as they now have, and before the people understood and appreciated, as they now do, the value of the privileges they were giving away for nothing and for all time.

Fourteen years ago, when everybody seemed to think that perpetual franchises were to be granted as a matter of course, Ernest R. Ackerman stood up in the Plainfield Council and opposed, with all the argument he could command, the giving away of franchises for nothing and in perpetuity. "We are considering the advisability," he said, "of doing something that is to last, not for a day, a month or a year, but, by granting a franchise, we set in motion forces the consequence of which we may be compelled to submit to for many years to come." Even at that time he favored the granting of franchises only after they had been submitted to the people by referendum.

The ordinance was passed notwithstanding his opposition, but in the fourteen years that have intervened Mr. Ackerman has seen a marvelous awakening of the people on this question of perpetual franchises, and nothing he has seen has weakened the convictions he ably maintained in the Plainfield Council fourteen years ago. If his own city had taken his advice it would now be in condition to dictate to the trolley corporation instead of being dictated to. His record is his platform.—Newark Evening News.
